Turks Enter Constantinople Neutral Zone

ACTION VIOLATES TERMS OF TRUCE MADE BY KEMAL

British and French Cabinets Approve Answer to Turkish Ultimatum on Thrace Occupation.

REPLY IS COMPROMISE OF OPPOSING PLANS

No Result Yet Announced From Mudania, But Greeks Prepare to Defend Thrace.

Constantinople, October 7.—Turkish infantry and cavalry, it is announced, have violated the neutral zone around Ismid.

This is the first violation of the zone protecting Constantinople on the Asiatic side and is regarded as a matter of first importance. The Kemalists, however, have not yet advanced far enough to come into contact with the British troops in the outskirts of Constantinople.

The movement will necessarily attract attention at Mudania as it is contrary to the understanding with the Kemalists that there shall be no troop movements pending the completion of the Mudania negotiations. But it has another and more important significance. It is recalled that the Kemalists justified their violations of the Dardanelles neutral zone on the ground that they had never recognized that zone, nor participated in its formation. But this excuse can not be employed in the case of the Constantinople zone because that boundary was established in agreement with the Kemal authorities a year ago.

Embassies Protest.

The dragomans of the allied embassies protested this evening to Hikmet Bey, the acting Nationalist official representative here, against the violation of the neutral zone at Ismid. The nationalist cavalry has occupied Shile, which is on the Black sea coast, within the Ismid neutral zone. Small infantry and cavalry detachments also entered Darje and Guebie, on the Anatolian railway, about midway between Constantinople and Ismid.

The Turks are adopting a similar method in this zone as in their advance in the Chanak zone, with white flags swung down.

Preparations for an exodus from Constantinople in case of a Turkish entry or the serious threat of one are again being pushed in some quarters.

The British consul has recommended that all British families leave, and both the British and the Italians have issued circulars directing their nationals in case of danger to report to certain designated places which will be protected by the military pending evacuation of civilians. Similar orders were issued by Americans some time ago.

British police today confiscated all firearms, daggers, sabres and ammunition in the bazaars and cutlery stores.

TURKS ACTIVE AT ISMID.

Ismid, Asia Minor, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—This district has become headquarters of a formidable nationalist army during the past week. The commanding general and staff arrived Wednesday. They were followed by a steady stream of troops, who will be encamped in this area ready to move into eastern Thrace as soon as the negotiations for this territory are completed with the allies.

GREEKS PREPARE FOR DEFENSE.

Adrianople, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The important troop movements by the Greeks in eastern Thrace have continued throughout the past two days. Every train from Salonika, Macedonia and western Thrace has carried units of infantry and artillery.

General Nider, the Greek commander, who has taken up his headquarters at Adrianople, told the correspondent today he was satisfied with the military situation and had sufficient forces to defend Thrace against any incursions.

"The army is ready to fight for Thrace to the last man," he said. General Nider, who has been an enthusiastic Venizelist, is regarded as easily the ablest of the Greek generals. Educated in Austria and widely traveled, he has the confidence of the allied military, it appears, by reason

Describes Trip Atlantans Made Through Forest

Overland Tour, Under Auspices of Constitution, Vividly Outlined.

Four pages of the current edition of The American Forestry, a monthly publication issued by the American Forestry association, are devoted to the epoch-making tour through the Cherokee and Nantahale purchase areas by an expedition of government and state officials under the auspices of The Constitution last May. The article is from the pen of Ovid M. Butler, one of the country's most eminent foresters who was a member of the official party.

Mr. Butler describes the tour from the time the half hundred members of the party left Atlanta, at 7 o'clock on the morning of May 29, in more than a dozen high-powered automobiles, until the return Saturday afternoon, June 4. In addition to his lurid word pictures of the majestic mountain peaks, placid lakes, silvery foamed waterfalls and fertile valleys, the writer illustrates with four pictures some of the most imposing scenes photographed on the trip.

"It was a caravan," he describes, "not of canvas-covered, mule-drawn wagons with bearded drivers, but of glistening, high-powered automobiles bearing a party of fifty white collared men, bent upon seeing with their own eyes what manner of country Ernest Neal had in mind when he wrote:

"Have you heard of the land of the Cherokees.

With its wonderful streams and beautiful trees?
Of its flowers abloom and the wild perfume.
That floats like a bloom on the evening breeze?"

Organized by Constitution. "The expedition had been organized by The Atlanta Constitution, one of the leading southern newspapers, with the object of unfolding the vast possibilities of the Cherokee and Nantahale national forests in north Georgia as summer recreational areas for the people of Georgia and the nation. "Among the party were Congressmen Gordon Lee and Thomas H. Bell, Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads; James A. Holloman, Washington correspondent of The Constitution; Colonel F. C. Boggs and Colonel G. C. Howell, of the war department; F. W. Reed, district forester; W. R. Neal, engineer for the Georgia state highway commission; John M. Holder, chairman of the state highway commission, and other representatives of the public, a number of foresters who knew the country, a car of boy scouts, a radio unit, moving picture operators and a fully equipped repair truck."

Describing the hazardous trails, some of which had never before felt the tread of an automobile tire, the author delves into a vivid portrayal of the abounding mountain streams, which had been swollen to twice their normal size because of the incessant rains while the trip was in progress; the inviting camp sites and rest inspiring little valleys. On this score, he declared:

Beautiful Blue Ridge. "The beautiful Blue Ridge chain through the sections traversed lack the harsh and over-powering ruggedness which so often characterizes the Rocky mountains and inspires in many a feeling of unfriendliness. It is a land sparsely peopled by a kindly and hospitable folk who live a simple life out-of-doors, and whose blood, it is said, still flows one-hundred percent Anglo Saxon."

"Its possibilities as a summer playground for the south and east are unlimited and the value of its potential and applied water power will run into many figures. And first, and last it is a forest country. A relatively small portion of its total land area will ever be devoted to agriculture. The remainder is chiefly valuable for forests, the national richness and variety of which stand as the source of all its charm and wealth. "The mountains and valleys are densely wooded with a luxuriant growth of hardwoods, interspersed with the sombre green of pine, spruce and hemlock. Almost every species of forest tree native to the eastern United States seems to be striving to claim these mountains for itself. "Nature is enacting here a warfare among the trees not unlike that of the Indian tribes of years ago. Trailing the Appalachian mountains southward from Canada, the spruce is making its southern stand on the highest mountains of the Blue Ridge while on the slopes and in the coves, the beech, birch, sugar maple, hemlock and white pine of the southern forests are battling for possession with the southern border of hardwoods, including the oaks, poplars, hickories, gums, maples and magnolias."

BACK FROM TRIP, HARRIS DISCUSSES EUROPEAN AFFAIRS

SEES NATIONS SETTLE TROUBLES BY LEAGUE

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 7.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Senator William J. Harris today briefly discussed conditions in Europe and the death of Senator Thomas E. Watson. The senior senator has just returned from Europe where he went as a delegate from the United States to the interparliamentary union conference at Vienna, Austria. He was accompanied by Mrs. Harris and daughter, Miss Julia Wheeler Harris.

In a statement tonight, Senator Harris said: "Just as I was sailing for home from England I was greatly shocked to hear of the death of Senator Watson. I had been uneasy about his condition, and had urged him not to remain so closely confined in his office and the senate. Just before leaving I told Senator Watson that I would not go unless he felt better, but he assured me that he was improving and could look after any matters arising in my absence."

Co-operated Fully.

"Senator Watson and I co-operated fully in all matters affecting our state, and our relations were cordial in every way. I feel sure that his hard work and close confinement were responsible to a great extent in bringing out his untimely end."

"When the senate convenes I shall ask that it adjourn out of respect to his memory, and that a day be set aside later for memorial addresses on his life and work. "I was one of the American delegates to the interparliamentary union at Vienna, Austria, and had the opportunity of visiting Germany, Austria, Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. In these countries I conferred with the presidents, prime ministers and other high officials where first-hand information was given of actual conditions. I believe conditions will gradually improve, although much uncertainty had been caused by the rearrangement of boundaries of the different countries."

"Must Be Cleared Up," Says Edwards of Hall-Mills Mystery.

Philadelphia, October 7.—Colonel Schwartzkopf, head of the state police who is directing the activities of troopers working on the Hall-Mills murder mystery, was sent by Governor Edwards with orders "to get the murderer and not come back until he did" the Philadelphia Evening Ledger quotes the governor as saying today.

"The murder of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills must be cleared up," the governor said. "There has been too much time lost solving this mystery. I sent Colonel Schwartzkopf to New Brunswick to get the murderer arrested, whoever it is, and I expected there would be an arrest made yesterday. I was surprised that there was not."

"This murder must be cleared up. The daughter of Mrs. Mills appealed to me for help and the people of that section and the state at large want to see the mystery solved and the criminal punished."

Issues in Senate Race Discussed By Candidates in Formal Cards

JUDGE W. F. GEORGE OPPOSES FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENTS

Opposition to entangling alliances with foreign countries and a strong plea for the economic rehabilitation of America are outstanding features of the platform of Judge Walter F. George, candidate for the United States senate, as made public at his campaign headquarters Saturday.

Judge George takes a strong position against any international alliances for this country. In this connection, he also expresses his deep-rooted opposition to wholesale immigration, declaring in favor of a restrictive immigration policy.

Following is Judge George's statement:

"Having announced as a candidate for the democratic nomination to fill the unexpired term of the late and lamented Senator Thomas E. Watson, you are entitled to know the principles for which I stand. These I submit to you.

1. The economic rehabilitation of America is our most vital need and presents our most serious problem. As an aftermath of war the great masses of our people are suffering burdens of which they should be relieved. Before the war, when the appropriations of our federal government reached a billion dollars, it shocked the conservative thought of the nation. Due to the necessities of war, the annual appropriation finally approximated $20,000,000,000. They now exceed $11,000,000,000, although more than four years have elapsed since the close of the war. The republican party has failed to keep its promise to the people to put expenditures upon a proper basis. The staggering burdens of taxation which we are now bearing must be lifted from our shoulders if we are to again become prosperous and contented. To the alleviation of these burdens I pledged my best efforts.

2. I do not now oppose, as I have always, a compact with European nations whereby this republic will either assume an obligation to protect the boundaries of foreign countries or settle their international differences. America was founded by and for Americans. We should be no party to any ambitious program of European powers to extend their dominions, trade or commerce. My convictions on this subject are deep-rooted and unshakable. While freely endorsing the right of European nations to settle their differences among themselves, we must recognize the danger that inheres if we permit the Monroe doctrine to be assailed. To its integrity and preservation I commit myself.

Would Aid Peace.

3. My opposition to international alliances of the character I have just mentioned is not to be construed as

JUDGE G. H. HOWARD ISSUES PLATFORM HERE ON SATURDAY

Judge G. H. Howard issued a statement here Saturday in which he outlined the principal planks in his platform for the senate as follows: "Knowing that I had devoted many years of my life in helping others realize their ambitions, a number of my friends urged me to take advantage of the present situation caused by the untimely death of Senator Watson and become a candidate for his unexpired term. Some days ago I announced my candidacy.

"I believe the most important matter confronting democrats at this time is the restoration of our party to power. In the higher councils of the party I shall endeavor to contribute to that end and I will give to that task the same diligent and devoted service that I have always given my friends, in order that we may remove the heavy burdens of the iniquitous protective tariff tax and reduce the burdens of government largely caused by the reckless and extravagant expenditure of public funds.

"I am in favor of such restrictions upon foreign immigration as will prevent the coming of undesirable citizens. I oppose the ship subsidy proposal. I shall oppose the weakening of our prohibition laws.

Foreign Debt Stand. "Those people are best governed who are least governed. The national congress must unshackle us from fetters of legislation having control of private conduct. Whatever necessity may have existed for such measures is now past.

8. I favor the payment of all debts due by foreign governments to the United States. In collecting these debts, the United States should assume the attitude of a wise and helpful rather than a harsh creditor.

9. The fundamental conception in our government is that liberty is in no sense derivative. The founders of the republic for the first time in history esteemed liberty as inherent in the individual. Therefore, it had been granted to the individual in royal and imperial charters. The problem of the founders of our government was to recognize government of the people, by the people, for the people.

"The federal road laws make it impossible for the poorer counties of Georgia to share the benefits of federal aid, and unless these laws are amended or a state fund is provided in some manner, these counties can never do so.

I favor such amendments and will do my best for a state road system, in which by the way, I am in favor of the proposed national highways."

IS NOT CANDIDATE OF ANY FACTION, SAYS BOIFEUILLET

Colonel John T. Boifeuille, candidate for the senate, Saturday issued a statement in which he denied that he is affiliated in any way with the so-called Hardwick or Walker factions in Georgia politics. Colonel Boifeuille said he is making the race entirely on his own merits and is not connected with any political faction in Georgia.

Following is his statement: "It has been alleged in a newspaper

WELFARE LEADERS SCORE CONDITIONS AT FULTON TOWER

DIETING FEE SYSTEM CALLED "PERNICIOUS"

Charge Is Made That Rule Governing Segregation of Women Prisoners Is Being Violated.

Declaring that the Fulton tower is badly overcrowded, that sanitary conditions in the jail are "unspeakably bad," and making sweeping recommendations for the betterment of conditions at the prison, the report of the jail inspection committee of the state board of public welfare, addressed to the board of commissioners, the sheriff and grand jury of Fulton county, was on file with the clerk of the county commission Saturday.

To relieve the congestion existing in the prison, the committee recommended that the federal government be notified immediately that the county can no longer accommodate federal prisoners owing to the lack of facilities. According to Jailer J. D. Baze, there are now about 20 federal prisoners confined in the tower, either awaiting trial or serving short sentences.

Capacity Exceeded. According to the report the jail has cell space for only 250 prisoners, and when the committee visited the tower in July, there were said to be 375 prisoners in confinement in the tower.

Evils disclosed in the report were blamed on "an antiquated county jail system." That the control of the jail is divided between the board of com-

Saturday Night Alarm Is Given But Where's Fire?

Engines Respond and Crowds Gather at Whitehall and Alabama Streets.

Saturday night fire—spectacular and disastrous, too—have been on the entertainment program of late bath-night shoppers for the past two weeks, the stage being on Whitehall street between the viaduct and Alabama street, and—

Some enterprising fellow with an eye to the pleasure of the masses last night at 9 o'clock took his station in the vicinity of the last two Saturday night fires and anxiously awaited the first sign of fire in order that he might lead the rush to turn in the alarm.

From a boiling vessel of water in one of the rooms above the Liggett Drug company a thin stream of vapor rose and stole its way out of a window over Whitehall street. The eagle eye of the watcher lighted upon the wraith of steam and the alarm went in.

The results were instantaneous and effective. Fire engines all over the central area careened madly to Alabama and Whitehall streets.

Thousands forsook shopping counters and loafing places to enlist in the swelling ranks of spectators. Street cars, suddenly blocked in the mill of the mob, set up a din of clanging gongs, and automobiles protested the delay with a bedlam of shrieking sirens.

A squad of police was rushed to the scene and began the work of establishing fire lines as the net of hose was in the act of being spread.

Then— A fire captain raised his hand in signal to recall the firemen. Someone had displayed presence of mind to shout "fire" in the wrong place. The fire department breathed a sigh of relief at the break in the string of week-end conflagrations, and traffic again resumed a normal condition about midnight.

JAMES A. BOYKIN WATSON LEADER BACKING WRIGHT

State Senator Asserts That Rome Man Represents Marked Degradation of Views of Late Senator.

VOLUNTEER ELECTION OFFICIALS ARE ASKED

Election Blanks and Tickets Are Mailed Out to County Chairmen.

Tickets Mailed Out.

Sandersville, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Secretary E. W. Jordan of the state democratic executive committee broke all records today when he mailed out to the various chairmen in the 160 counties in Georgia election blanks and tickets. The Sandersville Progress printed and delivered one half million tickets in 36 hours. Mr. Jordan had these in the mail this afternoon. This work usually requires several days, but Jordan hurried up the job in order that tickets may be sent out ten days before the primary, which will be held the 17th.

Endorsement by State Senator James H. Boykin, well-known Watson leader, of the candidacy of Seaborn A. Wright, of Rome, for the United States senate to succeed the late Thomas E. Watson, and statements from the other candidates in the contest going into detail concerning their platforms, featured the situation Saturday.

Rumors were circulated that one of more of the candidates would withdraw but these reports proved to be groundless.

Statements were issued by Judge G. H. Howard, Judge Walter F. George, Colonel John T. Boifeuille, John R. Cooper and Seaborn Wright in which they outlined leading planks in their platforms. No statement was furnished The Constitution by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick.

Wide Range of Issues.

Issues in the contest, as viewed by the individual candidates, ran the gamut of everything from defense of the Volstead act to opposition to the league of nations. Judge George, Judge Howard and Seaborn Wright all declared their opposition to the foreign entanglement issue, while Mr. Wright declared he would fight any effort to weaken the eighteenth amendment, if he is elected.

Judge George, in addition, stressed the need of an economic rehabilitation of the entire country with a view to lightening tax burdens, and Judge Howard emphasized the need of amending the federal highway act to take care of poorer Georgia counties.

Practically all the candidates voiced their disapproval of unrestricted immigration. John R. Cooper declared himself the advocate of reduced rail-

A Little Series of Homely Talks---No. 3

Everyone Can Help in the Development of Georgia, But Her Newspapers Must Take the Lead

We have suggested in our two former bulletins some of the things Georgians MUST DO to stamp this state as a producer of QUALITY GOODS; we have told how the L. W. Rogers Company is going to do its part in calling attention to Georgia's weaknesses along this line, and in offering some suggestion that will help, we hope, to remedy the situation.

But listen! YOU NEWSPAPERS OF GEORGIA—you molders of public opinion—you editors and writers who constitute a mighty force in Georgia—whose united, co-operated, concentrated efforts can accomplish more in a minute than any other force of which we know can accomplish in a year—to you fellows we want to offer, right in the beginning of this campaign, a few thoughtful words.

We can hardly measure our own inability to make much headway in the work we have undertaken except by comparison with the WONDERFUL SUCCESS a united press could do. We can scarcely realize the small good we can accomplish except by contrast with the GREAT GOOD the newspapers of this state, working together, could accomplish.

Yet we are willing—and anxious—to hire column after column in the papers of this state to do whatever we can to wake Georgia up—to arouse Georgia producers—to the great possibilities that lie at their doors.

We are not asking your interest, your aid, your co-operation in a matter that affects the L. W. Rogers Company.

We are asking you to help Georgia—TO HELP GEORGIA TO HELP HERSELF.

Primarily, if the development which we hope for does come—and it is bound to come some day—we will be happy in the reflection that we helped to bring it about.

But the GREAT GOOD that will come to ALL GEORGIA—the prosperity and prestige it will bring to her as a state, will be so significant, so important, so overwhelming, that by comparison with the particular good it would do the L. W. Rogers Company, our financial benefit would be infinitesimal.

What would it mean to Georgia if ALL the newspapers of this state were to UNITE in a strong campaign of education, directed to the growers and producers of this state, urging the production of goods of HIGHER QUALITY? Not only goods of higher quality, but goods SUPERIOR IN QUALITY to any produced anywhere.

It isn't greatly to anyone's credit to produce a thing just as good as some one else has produced it. Competition under such a condition is still alive and keen. But to the man or woman—the firm or corporation—that produces something BETTER than anyone else has yet produced it, the matter of competition is eliminated.

There isn't any reason in the world why Georgia cannot produce the BEST THINGS—the HIGHEST QUALITY of goods, particularly in the food line, of any state or section in our Union.

But it's going to take education—it's going to take united effort—intelligent direction—to do it.

The newspapers of this state should stand unanimously—solidly—behind a movement to urge, first, the growing of the finest and best products from Georgia soil, and, secondly, the PROPER PREPARATION of these products for the markets of the world.

And NOW is the time to begin such a united campaign.

By the PROPER PREPARATION for marketing we mean the careful grading and sorting of the products of the soil. We mean when cartons or cans or containers of any sort are used to ship these goods to market, they should be well and carefully made and attractively labeled; there should be uniformity in the produce, whatever it is. And in the matter of canned goods only the BEST in the world should be offered.

The newspapers of this state can revolutionize farming and producing conditions in Georgia by calling attention to these things, just as we are doing in these paid advertisements. They can encourage the growth of finer and better vegetation and fruits. They can encourage the utilization of thousands of acres, now lying idle in Georgia, for the raising of beans and turnips and rutabagas and cabbage and collards and kale and spinach and tomatoes and onions and lettuce and beets, and many other things. These vegetables can be grown almost all the year round in many sections of this state, and if properly gathered and crated would find a ready demand not only here at home, but in the cold, frozen sections of the north, east and west, where fresh vegetation is almost unknown for many months of the year.

The newspapers could help mightily in suggestions about the proper preparation of the soil—the right seed to sow—in the suggestion that these products be handled more or less jointly by the growers in each community, and then marketed through reliable brokers or commission houses. It is practically an impossibility for the individual raiser of these products to know at all times the best method and place of marketing. A reliable agent or broker, who knows market conditions—knows whether a market is glutted or there is a demand—can save a community of produce raisers time, trouble and money.

Then, again, newspapers, as a great crystallizing force, can encourage and bring about the establishment of community canning and preserving plants, curing houses, and other local industries, which will take care of the surplus or such things as might otherwise go to waste.

NEWSPAPERS OF GEORGIA, you can help to establish this state as the world's market place if you will get together—boost, encourage, educate—help the producers of this state by kindly interest and co-operation. You should do this if for no other than a selfish reason. For when you have helped to make Georgia the greatest marketing state in the Union—a state from which can be secured the finest meats and poultry and eggs and butter and cheese, and the best and sweetest vegetables and fruits—both fresh and canned—when you have helped to make such a reputation for Georgia, Georgians are going to tell the world about it—and there's no better way than the liberal use of printer's ink.

Will you do it?

WILL YOU HELP GEORGIA TO HELP HERSELF?

Sincerely,

SCOTT W. ALLEN,
Vice President and General Manager

MRS. TIERNAN FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Principals in Notorious Paternity Case Move to Dissolve Marital Ties.

South Bend, Ind., October 7.—Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of John P. Tiernan, University of Notre Dame law professor, filed suit for divorce late today, charging cruelty and inhuman treatment. Recently Mrs. Tiernan charged that Harry Poulin was the father of her ten months' old son. Poulin was found not guilty of the charge in the city court. Professor Tiernan, who assisted in the prosecution of Poulin, announced shortly after the judge rendered the decision that he and Mrs. Tiernan would separate, and that she would take the three children—two daughters and the son—to the home of her mother, in Bronson, Mich. The Tiernans separated today, it was said.

In her complaint, Mrs. Tiernan asserts that her husband threatened to take her two daughters away from her and that he told her that their characters and ideals were not compatible.

Mrs. Tiernan, with her three children, left for her home at Bronson, Mich., this afternoon. Her husband accompanied her to Bronson and then returned to this city.

Son Searching For His Mother Finds Her Dead

Missed Her at One Terminal as She Dies of Heart Attack at Another.

Missing his mother, when he went to meet her at the Terminal station Saturday, Thomas H. Casey, 206 Central avenue, made a frantic, futile search of the downtown streets. When he found her she was dead.

His mother, Mrs. Catherine G. Wallman, of Worcester, Mass., whom he hadn't seen for three years, arrived at the Peachtree station over the Southern railroad. She had written him that she was looking forward to her visit, and had given directions to meet her at the downtown station.

When she alighted from the train, witnesses said, she was all expectation. A frail little person, she was assisted to the platform. When she did not see her son she started toward the steps, and as she started she collapsed. She was carried in under cover, and a Grady ambulance was called arriving at the same time as one from H. M. Patterson & Son. The doctor from Grady pronounced her dead, and her body was taken to the morgue.

In the meantime her son was pacing the corridors of the Terminal station. Thinking he had missed his mother he went out on the street hoping to find her. In despair he called the hospitals, and then learned the tragic truth.

The body is being held at the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son pending funeral arrangements. Relatives in Quebec, Canada, Millbury, Mass., Worcester, Mass., and her husband at Sheffield, Vt., have been notified.

HARRIS DISCUSSES EUROPEAN AFFAIRS

conference were delegates from all over the world. They all urged peace for the world by arbitration. The other countries are settling their troubles through the league of nations.

"I visited all of the American cemeteries in France, which are the best arranged and best maintained of any country. I have arranged to see the quartermaster general of the army here about certain improvements which are needed. In visiting the Argonne battlefield I attended the unveiling of a monument to the memory of my nephew, Captain Charles D. Harris, erected where he received his mortal wound.

"Economic conditions are very unsettled, and I found that cotton was needed more than ever before. The sooner the difficulties are settled the better it will be for the south in the sale of her cotton.

"Europe is nothing like as stricken as the south after the civil war, and in a few years I believe she will show signs of great improvement.

Opposes Cancellation.
"People in Europe believe that money abounds in the United States, and they do not understand the sacrifices made in the purchase of liberty bonds to provide the loans of eleven billion dollars. I offered a resolution in the senate declaring opposition to the cancellation of the war debt, and that view was incorporated in the debt-funding bill passed by congress. The people of Europe believed our loans came directly out of the public treasury. The main question is when they will pay, for the debt cannot be cancelled.

"I spent two days at Geneva upon invitation from the league of nations, and had the privilege of hearing the discussion on world disarmament, both on land and sea. I was impressed with the earnestness of the representatives, and every republican who saw the league in session said that it was nothing like a super-government, as it had been painted by many of the republicans and other opponents.

"The international court is a part of the league and is now functioning with an able American, John Bassett Moore, as one of its members. It will go a long way towards preventing war by using the means of arbitration.

"As soon as I can attend to official matters pending here I shall leave for Georgia to be there until congress reconvenes."

RESUMES AIR TRIP TO RIO DE JANEIRO

MARGUIA DEFEATED IN SURPRISE ATTACK

Mexico City, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Rebel forces under General Murguia and his first aide, General Eduardo Hernandez, were surprised and decisively defeated at 4 o'clock this morning at Guadalupe, Durango, by federal troops under General Escobar, according to a message received at the office of President Obregon.

Twenty-two rebels were killed, a number were wounded and some material was captured.

There was much excitement on the streets at noon today when it was rumored that General Murguia had been captured and was being brought to Mexico City for trial by court martial. The rumor, however, was denied at the war office and by President Obregon personally.

DELEGATES FLOCK FOR CONVENTION OF RED CROSS

Washington, October 7.—Delegates from all over the country to the annual convention of the American Red Cross, which opens Monday, were pouring into Washington rapidly tonight.

Hotel accommodations already are taxed, indicating one of the heaviest attendances in history.

President Harding will deliver the address of welcome Monday, with Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, presiding. General John J. Pershing also will speak at the opening session.

Cleares Skin of Pimples

Remarkable Action of Stuart's Calcium Wafers in Ridding Face of Pimples, Boils, Rash, Blisters, Etc.

You know what a tiny pinch of salaratus does when added to milk and acid. It stops curdling, and this is comparatively the same influence that takes place when you add calcium sulfide to the blood. It is a refining influence. Calcium is the principal agency in Stuart's Calcium Wafers and exerts a peculiar stimulus to skin repair. Pimples, blackheads and other such evidence of localized skin sluggishness are replaced with new material and soon the skin renews itself with firmer, healthier tissue. This makes the beautiful complexion so much admired. No use to hide pimples with cold cream and lotions. These bluish either come from within or become localized if the calcium influence is lacking and they keep coming until such an influence as calcium is supplied by the blood.

Let nature clear your skin through the influence of Stuart's Calcium Wafers which you can obtain in any drug store at 60 cents a box. These wonder wafers are used by thousands of women who have learned from experience their remarkable influence to make the skin beautiful and keep.

TOWN SURROUNDED BY FOREST BLAZE

Sayre, Pa., October 7.—A forest fire, burning rapidly because of the protracted drought in this region, has surrounded the little town of Ricketts, in Sullivan county, about half way between here and Wilkes-Barre.

A telephone message from the postmistress said the 200 inhabitants of the little village feared for their lives and their property.

About 100 men are fighting the flames, but with little success in checking them, she said.

The Lehigh Valley railroad separates the little town from the fire, where it is most menacing.

It was held that a rain soon would begin to fall and check the flames. It was raining about 200 miles away. Calls for help have been sent to surrounding towns.

The section is thickly wooded and the fire is burning fiercely.

Two Killed, Woman Wounded, in Effort To Arrest Convict

Cape Girardeau, Mo., October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Chief of Police Jeff Hutson and Willie Wilkerson were shot and killed, and Virginia Wilkerson, his sister, was wounded today when Hutson and Patrolman H. F. Wyckham entered the Wilkerson home to arrest him.

As the officers entered the Wilkerson home, Wilkerson shot and killed Hutson, and Wilkerson returned the fire, killing Wilkerson and inflicting a flesh wound on his sister. Wilkerson had been sought since his escape following conviction on a charge of stealing an automobile.

POLICEMAN'S GUN TAKEN BY ROBBER

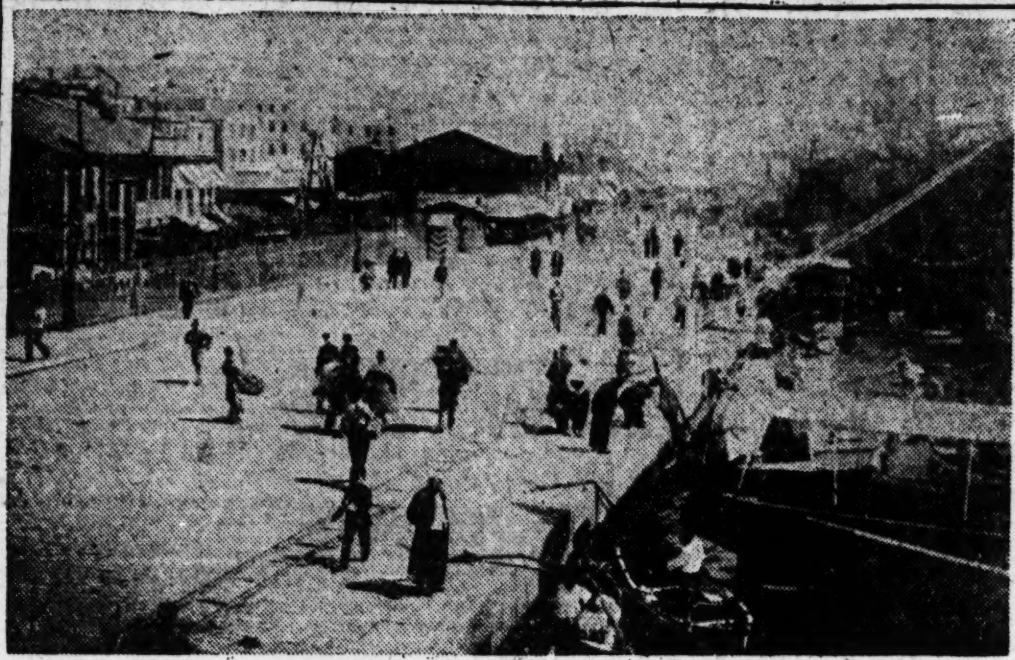

Quick, Watson, the needle! Someone stole Sergeant of Police G. T. Butler's trusty shootin' iron while he slept.

According to the report the sergeant made to the police, he was asleep in one room at his home at 300 Luckie street, and his gun was in one adjoining room. Working nights he sleeps days, and did not miss the firearm until he went to put it in his pocket. "That boy sure takes them as they come," the sergeant said, "and in broad daylight, too."

$20,000 BACK TAX DECREE RENDERED

Jackson, Miss., October 7.—A $20,000 back tax decree against the Mississippi Fire Insurance company, a domestic corporation, was rendered here today in the Hinds county circuit court by Special Judge Fred H. Lott. The suit was instituted by Stokes V. Robinson, state revenue agent, claiming that the corporation had failed to pay the privilege fire marshal tax.

War-Threatened Constantinople

GLIMPSE OF THE SEAPORT OF CONSTANTINOPLE. REFUGEES WITH BUNDLES ARE SEEKING PASSAGE ON BOATS.

The continued threats of Mustapha Kemal Pash a to take Constantinople unless the territorial demands of the Turkish nationalists are met by the allies have caused American and other residents of the city to leave it, fearing the death meted out to Smyrna residents when that city was fired by the nationalist troops. The photo shows a part of the three-quarters mile water front at Constantinople where boats of every description are carrying away refugees.

Computing Results Of Record Flight At Rockwell Field

San Diego, Cal., October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—While Lieutenants John A. Macready and Oakley Kelly today were catching up on some sleep lost while flying over the city more than 35 hours to smash all records for sustained flight, preparations were being made at Rockwell field, where they landed with the great service transport T-2, to obtain measurements connected with the feat. The two army aviators estimated on their landing yesterday at the end of their memorable flight that they had consumed nearly all of the 600 gallons of gasoline which filled the huge tanks of the monoplane and enabled them to keep on circling in the long hours with its 81-foot wings spread. Accurate measurement of the gasoline left the lubricating oil remaining in the motor and reserve tanks will be taken.

Officers and men at Rockwell field all echoed the praise which Macready and Kelly gave the powerful Liberty motor which carried them on the record-breaking flight.

Careful examination of the engine and all other parts of the great machine will be made as soon as possible and if it is found to be in good shape as expected, it will be carefully gone over to prepare the T-2 for the non-stop flight which the two airmen expect to make to New York from this city in November.

Much interest was shown at Rockwell field in comparison of some aviation records made in the last 10 years. Macready himself broke the altitude record with a passenger by going 34,150 feet at Dayton, Ohio, November 6, 1921, and set a new world record of 46,500 feet at McCook field, Dayton, September 28, 1922. A world record for sustained flight was made July 5, 1902, by L. V. G. of France, who flew with a passenger 15 minutes for a distance of 31 kilometers. Twelve years later Lindemann, a German flier, went for 21 hours, 48 minutes and 45 seconds. That record was broken by the American airmen with ease yesterday and they also went far past the reported mark of about 27 hours credited unofficially to Eddie Stinson, flying with Lloyd Bertaud.

William Allen White Tells New Yorkers Unsugared Truths

New York, October 7.—New Yorkers who heard Governor Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, and William Allen White, of "Henry and Me" fame, praise each other publicly at the Lotus club last night took stock today of a trenchant appraisal of New York by Mr. White.

"The trouble with this part of the country," he said, "is lethargy. You don't give a damn. You stand for fellows in police hats that we out in Kansas would throw out by the scruff of the neck and the slack of the breeches. If it is a strike, you let 'em strike."

"Out in Kansas we have 90 per cent American stock, we are full of pep and vinegar and we do things. Out in Kansas we have always been able to reach out and pick a good strong governor when we needed one."

MEXIC INSURGENTS ROUTED, IS REPORT

El Paso, Texas, October 6.—Loyal Mexican troops led by General J. G. Escobar, overtook a rebel column commanded by General Francisco Murguia in the mountains of Durango and in the battle that followed completely routed the insurgents, killing Colonel Leopoldo Salinas and 22 other rebels and capturing General Alberto Salinas, Murguia's chief of staff, and Colonel Alvarez and Colonel Ricardo Palacios, according to an announcement made in Juarez tonight by General Eugenio Martinez, federal commander in the northern military zone.

Aged Society Man Denies Attacking Five Girls in Park

London, October 7.—Sir Almeric Fitzroy, 70-year-old society leader and government official, created a sensation in police court today when he entered a plea of not guilty to charges of attacking five girls in Hyde park last night.

The aged knight stamped his feet and yelled "Abominable! Abominable!" when he was confronted with five witnesses who testified to his alleged indiscretions.

Witnesses testified that Sir Almeric attempted to make advances on the first girl as she was entering the famous park but that she repulsed him.

According to another witness, Sir Almeric, who was garbed in a tuxedo and a tatty hat and carried a gold-headed cane, said to the second girl, "Will you walk across the park with me?"

NEGROES AVOW STAND FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

Nashville, Tenn., October 7.—With the declaration that the negro race stands solidly for strict law enforcement and good order, the first national Law Enforcement, Temperance and Good Morals conference came to a close last night after a four-day meeting.

Parental authority in the home is giving away to a dictatorship by the children, declared Dr. John Knoch Stratton, of New York city, Baptist minister, in the closing address. He deplored the fact that "there has never in the world been so complete a revolt against all authority as at present," and called for re-establishment of the family altars and a return to the old-fashioned home.

Other law enforcement conferences are planned in various sections and states by those behind the movement here. Many national leaders, white and negro, appeared on the program here.

Franklin's House In Philadelphia To Be Torn Down

Philadelphia, October 7.—Benjamin Franklin's first Philadelphia home is to be wiped out of existence. The house at No. 111 Spring street, where the philosopher took up his residence upon his arrival from Boston, is to be torn down to provide for the approach to the new Delaware river bridge.

The house is a ramshackle, tottering shanty and the street on which it is situated is only an alley. Wilfred Jordan, curator of Independence Hall, plans to preserve the windows and panels of the old structure, all being splendid examples of colonial workmanship.

Wilmore Kendall, Jr., of Oklahoma, aged thirteen, is the youngest student ever admitted to Northwestern University.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKETS GLUTTED

Chicago, October 7.—Fruits and vegetables are flooding the produce markets and railroads are curtailing shipments, it was learned tonight.

The Chicago and Northwestern railroad announced today it had placed an embargo on potatoes. Shipments are becoming too heavy for the road to handle.

Potatoes are selling for around 25 cents a bushel on the farm and Chicago wholesale houses are unable to get more than $1.50 a hundred weight.

"Potatoes are dirt cheap," said one commission man. "After the railroads are through with them and his commission has been knocked off, the poor farmer gets little or nothing for raising potatoes."

Other perishables are glutting the markets, according to commission men and railroad agents. Shipments are breaking all records and in many cases railroads are refusing cargoes for delivery at specified points.

Apples, which brought $6 a barrel late this time last year, are selling now around $4.

Five thousand cars of fruits and vegetables, the department of agriculture state, are being shipped daily. This is 20 per cent more than normal shipments at this time of year.

CANDIDATE SUES WOMAN SPEAKER, CHARGING SLANDER

Elizabeth, N. J., October 7.—William M. Kunyon, Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey, has filed suit for $5,000 against Mrs. Raymond W. Donges, member of the state democratic committee, alleging she had slandered him in a campaign speech by declaring he had made an address in favor of prohibition while under the influence of liquor.

ALLEGED MURDERER IS STILL AT LARGE

Mapleville, Ala., October 7.—(Special.)—Milton McCormick, who escaped from the Clanton jail Wednesday night, September 28, is still at large. McCormick is wanted in connection with the murder of John Ed Ebdar at Mapleville, on May 7, 1922. McCormick went to Bear-den's home with a shotgun, and calling him from the dinner table shot him down in his own doorway, officers say.

Tenders Resignation.

Aiken, S. C., October 7.—O. T. Harper, Aiken county agricultural agent, today tendered his resignation. He will go to Jackson, Miss., as a director in the co-operating marketing association there. Harper has served as agricultural agent here for seven months.

INJUNCTION BARS SOCIALIST NAMES ON STATE BALLOTS

Helena, Mont., October 7.—A temporary injunction restraining Charles S. Stewart, secretary of state, from putting the names of socialist candidates for congressional and state offices on the ballot for the general election in Montana was issued by the state supreme court this afternoon.

Democratic and republican party leaders denied any knowledge of the move.

The injunction calls upon Secretary Stewart to appear Tuesday morning to show cause why he should not be permanently enjoined. The state law requires that the form of the ballots be certified by Sunday, October 8.

The American Legion in Paris has a membership of more than 1,000 former service men.

CREASY SENTENCED TO DEATH CHAIR

Mincola, N. Y., October 7.—William M. Creasy, of Fort Thomas, Ky., who was convicted last Tuesday of the murder of his former fiancée, Edith Lavoie, Freeport school teacher, was sentenced today by Judge Smith to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison during the week of November 6.

Creasy's counsel moved for an arrest of judgment on the ground that the facts stated in the indictment did not constitute a crime, and that the defendant's guilt was not established beyond a reasonable doubt. The motion was denied, and counsel filed notice of appeal.

AMERICAN TOURISTS SAILING FOR HOME

London, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The idea of October mark the homeward embarkation of the rear guard of the American tourist army of occupation which has been in Europe since early summer. The family squads, boarding school platoons and personally conducted companies are trooping eastward through England at a speed rivaling the recent Greek retreat through Anatolia.

For the last week they have filled London to the overflowing, and it was with great difficulty that many obtained hotel accommodations. However, shiploads daily are being evacuated through Liverpool and Southampton, and within a month they will be

but Treacherous

Next Dose may Salivate, Shock
Liver or Attack Bones

You know what calomel is. It's mercury. It's quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It cranks into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it does start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—(adv.)

scattered to the four corners of the United States to pour their views and opinions of Europe into the eager ears of the stay-at-homes.

Europe has been a disillusionment for many of the tourists, for despite the advantageous exchange rates, prices generally are high and traveling none too comfortable.

Men's Appearance.
The ire of London's young men of fashion has been aroused by recent newspaper articles saying that Londoners are becoming more and more slothfully dressed. These charges have drawn counter fire in a number of articles appearing in the last few days insisting that, on the contrary, the men are daily becoming dressier.

Leading tailors and clothing merchants declare that tailors everywhere are frantically cutting, snipping, chalking and stitching in answer to an ever increasing demand for clothes. Incidentally it is claimed that the prices are more reasonable, provided that the purchasers know where to go and use discrimination.

Sartorial profiteering. While it exists, no longer flourishes, and most of tailors are beginning to realize that the day of wartime high prices and reckless buying are past. This is stimulating a sort of healthy competition, resulting in better fabrics and better tailoring at lower prices.

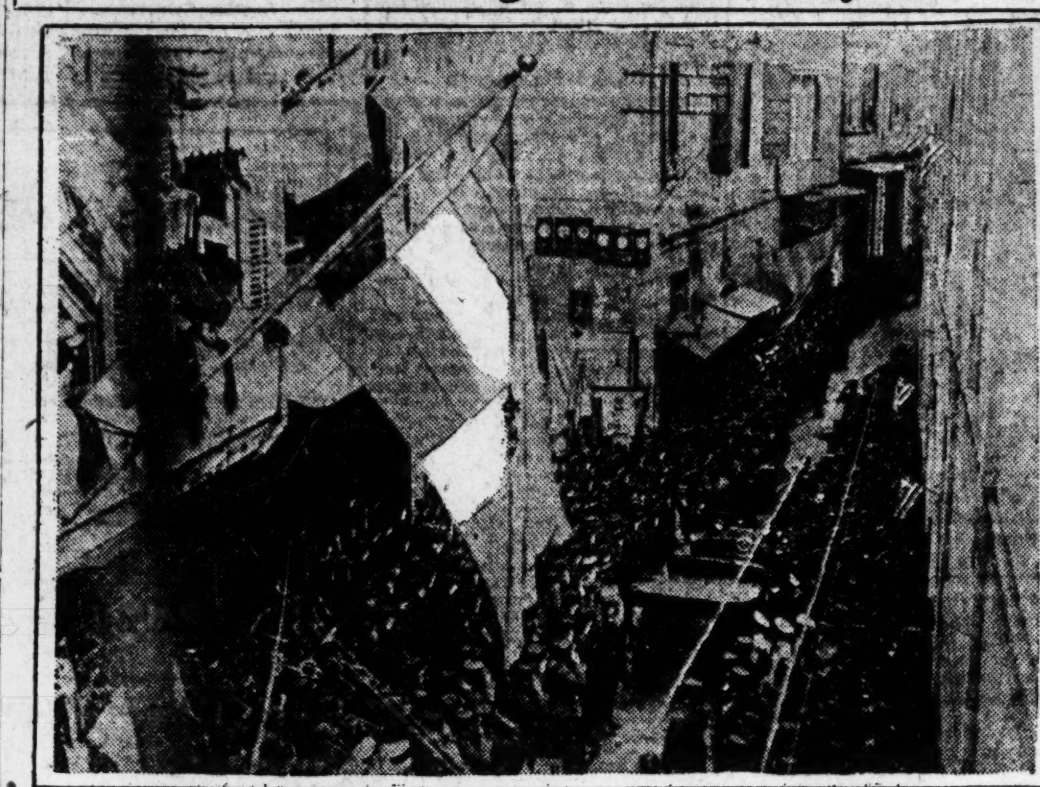

The spokesman for one large tailoring establishment is quoted as saying: "Last year we increased our turnover very considerably, and orders are coming so fast that we can scarcely cope with them. The cloth, by the way, is as good as it ever was."

Large Labor Estate.
Labor circles are surprised by the revelation that the late William Arraham, Welsh miners' leader, who was commonly called Mabon, left an estate of more than 30,000 pounds. There is much discussion in the labor papers as to whether this did not constitute him a capitalist, and his friends are explaining how he was able to accumulate such a large estate.

While Arraham was for some years a member of parliament, the salary from this office amounted to only 400 pounds, but he received a generous salary as president of the Welsh Miners' federation. The bulk of this money is supposed to have been invested in real estate and insurance companies, from one of which he derived an income as a director.

Tennis Squabble.
The Lawn Tennis association, which has had practically automatic control of all tennis affairs in this country for many years, is under fire from many prominent players and others interested in the sport. It is claimed

Greeks Leaving Doomed Smyrna

GREEK TROOPS IN SMYRNA PREPARING TO EMBARK BEFORE TURKISH OCCUPATION.

Smyrna, apparently, was in holiday attire when the Greek army evacuated the city. While the soldiers paraded through the streets, military bands blared forth and the residents crowded the windows to witness the departure of the Greeks, who left on transports.

that the executive body is unable to deal properly with present day conditions, and to counteract this state of affairs a "reform committee" has been formed which will attempt to bring the association into line with present day requirements.

Well known tennis players of the Oxford and Cambridge University teams, Lord Rocksvage, Max Woodham, F. G. Lowe, Wallis Myers and others are among the reformers who are anxious, among other things to make better arrangements for the Davis cup competition and other international matches. Attempts also will be made to improve tournament conditions generally.

Young players will be encouraged, and it is hoped in this way to assemble a representative team capable of holding its own against the champions of any other country.

JURY DISAGREES IN MURDER TRIAL OF COPS' SLAYER
Anniston, Ala., October 7.—(Special.)—Mistrial, with three men standing for conviction and nine for acquittal, was reported in the murder case of Marshall Welch, former policeman who shot and killed Detectives Joe Holliday and Bryce Hurst on West Fifteenth street last June, during an argument following the report that the detectives had reported Welch and his former partner, Ernest Davis, as being asleep on duty.

Welch went on trial Thursday morning and the case went to the jury late Friday afternoon. The jury deliberated on the case throughout the early part of Friday night.

Rome Is Shocked
By Excess Nudity
Of U. S. Art Ball

Rome, October 7.—When in Rome, American art students do as the Romans don't dare!

The entire Eternal City was shocked today at the full display of an art students' ball in which the boys and girls of temperament appeared clothed in garters and moonlight and departed themselves on the lawn of the beautiful Villa Aurelia.

At dawn the aesthetic souls scampered from the lawn and took a plunge into the sea in the historic Pauline fountain which overlooks Rome—but which Rome is said not to have overlooked on this occasion.

The grand prix of Rome art students participated in the feast of beauty.

Since the occasion the fellows of the university and the faculty have been on strained relations.

The lawn fete was advertised by a poster which was hung in the dining room of the fellow of the grand prix of Rome.

The poster was original, if nothing else. It represented a beautiful girl depicting herself abnormally in the frenzy of a dance, unnumbered by care or clothing. In deference to Italy, the host of the American art students, the damsel wore a garter of Italian tricolors.

DROUGHT IS BROKEN IN MANY SECTIONS

Washington, October 7.—The great fall drought was broken today in many sections of the country.

Light rains fell all over wide areas in the middle western, in the middle Atlantic states and in some parts of New England, the weather bureau here reported. In most sections this was the first moisture in a month or longer, and while it was in most instances not heavy enough to afford real relief, the weather bureau said it might continue over Sunday.

The change was welcome to farmers and fruit growers, who saw crops maturing too rapidly and in some cases being damaged by the long spell of hot, dry weather.

Next week is to bring more rain in the north Atlantic section, though not until late in the week, the weather bureau said. Cool weather will prevail over most of the country.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Vienna.—The international building guild, at its final session here yesterday, refused to admit the unions of Soviet Russia.

New York.—Suspension from the New York curb market association of the brokerage firm of McQuade Brothers for failure to meet its engagements was announced today by the exchange.

Cambridge, Mass.—Total registration at Harvard university of 4,245 students, breaking the previous record of 6,073 set last year was announced today.

Marlin, Texas.—Dr. I. F. Belts, executive field secretary of Sunday schools, Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, died at his home here last night following dengue fever.

Coblenz.—Departure of casual detachment number 49, comprising 20 officers and fifty men who are to sail from Hamburg on the steamship Reliance, about the middle of the month was announced by the American forces in Germany at a strength of 113 officers and 1,068 men.

Manila.—(By the Associated Press.) Reports just received from Northern Luzon indicate that fifteen natives were drowned in the municipality of Claveria, province of Cagayan, during a typhoon three weeks ago. Much live stock was drowned and the crop damage was said to be enormous.

Manila.—(By the Associated Press.) The American Express company has offered a reward for the apprehension and conviction of persons who robbed its offices here. Officials are reticent in disclosing the amount of the robbery, but it is rumored that it exceeds $50,000 in currency.

MARKETING BODY COMMITTEE MEETS OCTOBER 23-24

Louisville, Ky., October 6.—The conference committee of the co-operative marketing associations is scheduled to meet here October 23 and 24 to work out a program for the first national convention of the association to be held at Washington in December, according to an announcement made here by Robert W. Bingham, chairman of the committee.

The conference will be called, Mr. Bingham said, at the suggestion of Senator Arthur Capper, one of the leaders of the farm bloc. Senator Capper, according to the chairman, requested the conference for the purpose of guiding the movements of congress. Members of the committee who are to meet here are, besides Mr. Bingham: Carl Williams, of Oklahoma City, president of a cotton growers' association; C. O. Moser, of Dallas, secretary of the same body; Dr. B. W. Kilgore, Raleigh, N. C.; H. G. Coykendall, manager for the California Prune and Apricot Growers; Milo D. Campbell,

Armstrong's Linoleum for Every Floor in the House

of the room

The floor of linoleum is a pleasing contribution to the color scheme

YOU can have color and design on your floors, as well as on your walls. Linoleum gives you this opportunity because it is made in so many different patterns and combinations of colors.

In addition, the linoleum floor is easy to clean and long-enduring. It is always smooth, always quiet and resilient, and warmer than either wood or tile.

Rugs are laid on linoleum floors as on any other permanent floor, and an occasional waxing and polishing keeps the linoleum fresh and new-looking. It is an attractive floor that never needs refinishing.

Decorative floors of Armstrong's Linoleum may be selected from a number of plain colors, several Jaspé (two-tone) effects, also parquetry inlaid, carpet inlaid, tile inlaid and printed designs.

Write for our booklet, "Decorative Linoleum Floors," which contains twenty-four colorplates showing patterns of Armstrong's Linoleum suited to the different rooms in your house. You can take this book to any good department or furniture store and show the merchant the color or design of linoleum that appeals to you most. He will let you see it in the piece and also give you estimates of the cost of Armstrong's Linoleum laid in your home.

Armstrong's Linoleum Rugs
For people who live in apartments or who have houses on short leases and consequently do not wish to install permanent linoleum floors, Armstrong's Linoleum is also made in the form of bordered rugs. Thirty attractive patterns in four sizes from 6 x 9 feet to 9 x 12 feet.

How to Lay Linoleum on Wood Floors
In summer the moisture in the air causes wood floors to expand. In winter they dry out and contract when the heat is turned on, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builder's deadening felt which has been previously glued to the bare floor boards. The felt takes up expansion and contraction and gives you a permanent, waterproof, good-looking floor. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.

WOMAN SUICIDE WELL-CONNECTED IN MISSISSIPPI

Meridian, Miss., October 7.—Mrs. Irene Price Fowell, whose body was found in the Potomac river yesterday, is the daughter of Dr. C. S. Price, of Meridian, and former wife of Will Fowell, who lives here. Both families have been prominent in this city and state for many years.

Mrs. Fowell left this city to make her home with her sister, Mrs. Caldwell Maxwell, in Washington, more than two years ago. No reason can be assigned for her suicide, except dependency over the illness of her mother, who is not expected to live. Mrs. Maxwell is at the bedside of her mother.

BITUMINOUS COAL PRODUCTION DROPS

Washington, October 7.—Bituminous coal production dropped off a trifle during the present week as compared with previous weeks since the settlement of the national coal strike, according to estimates made public today by the geological survey, whose officials said the output was probably insufficient to insure the country to build up its depleted stocks and at the same time provide for current consumption. The present week, it was indicated, saw about 9,000,000 tons of coal mined as compared with 9,770,000 the preceding week. During the corresponding week of 1921 the output was 9,134,000 tons.

Married Woman Shot on Refusal To Leave Husband

Trenton, N. J., October 7.—Enraged because Mrs. Joseph Matthews refused to elope with him, Charles M. Shinn, of Philadelphia, today shot and wounded Mrs. Matthews and her father-in-law at their home in Cooktown, brought the unconscious woman to a hospital here and then ended his own life with three bullets in the head.

Mrs. Matthews was reported to be in a serious condition. The father-in-law was not seriously hurt. Shinn, according to the police, had been attentive to Mrs. Matthews for several years. About two years ago she met Joseph Matthews, then a soldier at Camp Dix, and later they were married.

Induced to Leave.
Mrs. Matthews went to live with the elder Matthews at Cooktown, while her husband returned to Camp Dix. Shinn, the police say, soon learned Matthews had been sent to the military prison at Leavenworth for some offense, visited Mrs. Matthews and induced her to leave with him.

When Matthews recently finished his term, he went to Philadelphia and induced her to return to the Matthews home at Cooktown.

Shinn, the police say, followed, accompanied by Charles I. Oliver, a friend, leaving Oliver at Wrightstown, went to the Matthews home and demanded that Mrs. Matthews go back to Philadelphia with him.

Shooting Follows.

Champion Hog to Be Seen Here

Above is seen Leader's Lady Value VII, 300119, bred, owned and exhibited by Sycamore Farms, Douglasville, Pa., which prize hog will be seen at the Southeastern fair this year. The great champion ribbon at Maryland state fair, Interstate fair, Trenton, N. J., and the blue ribbon at Virginia state fair. The litter mate to the grand champion boar will also be exhibited by the same farm at the Southeastern fair.

According to the police, and after a struggle, Shinn shot him through the shoulder. He then turned the gun on Mrs. Matthews, inflicting three body wounds.

Apparently overcome by remorse, he seized the wounded woman, bundled her into a jitney and took her to a hospital here, where he helped attendants carry her into the operating room.

As he started to walk out he stopped suddenly and drew a pistol from his pocket. "This gun has got me into a lot of trouble today," he was heard to say.

He then shot himself three times in the head, dying about two hours later.

CONDITIONS SCORED AT FULTON TOWER

Missionaries and the sheriff was declared to be "extremely unfortunate." Such dual responsibility, the report declared, is not in the interests of good jail management. Recommendation that the jail be placed under the absolute control of the board of commissioners was made.

Part 1 of the report, urging the erection of a new jail on the Central avenue property adjacent to the courthouse grounds, was filed by the committee last spring. Part 2 was submitted to the board of county commissioners at their regular meeting last Wednesday. The report is signed by Mrs. E. H. Goodhart, chairman; Dr. W. L. Gilbert and F. E. Coffey, and consists of nine typewritten pages.

Mismanagement Charged.
Mismanagement in connection with the segregation of women from the male prisoners was reported by the committee. They stated that when they recently visited the prison they found six white men in the women's section.

"We did not know whether these men were prisoners or not," the report stated. "To add to this disgusting situation, some of the white women prisoners on an average of only 12-12 cents a day. 'Undoubtedly personal profit is realized by the sheriff from the dieting fee allowed him by the county," the report declares.

On the occasion of a visit to the jail last spring, the committee reported, the noon meal was scarcely fit to eat, and was uncooked and served in "a most miserable manner."

"The bad conditions found existing in our jail from time to time during this year, we have every reason to believe, exist generally all the time," the report states.

"On several occasions before we inspected the jail the department's agent made inspections and subsequently submitted reports with recommendations to the county officials which pointed out the obvious need for a better jail, better management and more humane treatment of jail prisoners. Up to this date scarcely any improvement has been made, and none of the fundamental needs contained in the recommendations have been provided."

"We wish especially to call attention to the fact that the jail is only a detention prison, and not a punishment prison. It is a county prison, therefore make every reasonable provision for property retaining jail prisoners and providing them with the necessities of life and protecting their health and soul respect, whether they desire such treatment or not."

"According to estimates furnished us by the jailer there is cell space for approximately 200 prisoners. We were told on July 21 last there were on that day 310 prisoners in the jail. These figures best tell the story of the overcrowding in some of the cell cages in which twice as many men as should be there are crowded together, scarcely enough room to turn around in."

"We believe the overcrowding condition can be greatly relieved. Every year scores of federal prisoners are committed to the jail to serve sentences varying from 12 months down. As has already been pointed out, the jail is a detention prison and not a punishment prison. It is a county prison. The federal authorities have a contract agreement with the jail authorities by which federal prisoners may serve in the jail sentences imposed by the federal courts. These prisoners, with but few exceptions, are the only persons forced to suffer the close confinement and inactivity of a detention prison which was never intended for imprisonment of convicted persons. This practice is inhumane and should be discontinued at once."

Month's Notice Needed.
"The federal authorities should make provision for their prisoners outside the county jail. Furthermore, accepting this class of federal prisoners is purely optional on the part of the county authorities, and they may be refused at any time on a month's written notice to the proper authorities."

"We therefore recommend that the Fulton county authorities immediately serve written notice on the federal authorities that after a given time the county jail can no longer receive prisoners sentenced by the federal court."

With reference to sleeping facilities, the report says that the mattresses in use were generally found to be inadequate, and that many were filthy from long usage, and the amount of covering provided each prisoner was not sufficient for cold weather.

"It is a common custom for newly committed prisoners to inherit the blankets they find in the cell to which they are assigned," says the report. "This practice is disgusting and decidedly unhealthy, and it tends to spread disease and vermin."

The committee reported that when they first visited the jail on February 27, the visit was expected, and accordingly the jail was in a fairly clean condition, but that "none of the other three visits were expected by the jail officials, and each time the sanitary condition was found to be increasingly bad."

Insanitary Conditions.
"When the last visit was made on July 21, the sanitary condition was unacceptably bad and the nauseous odor was so much in evidence that it was with great difficulty the inspection was made. Hidden filth in dark corners, the unshowered bodies of the prisoners, together with defective plumbing, undoubtedly are the cause of such an unhealthy atmosphere."

Belief that utter neglect of personal hygiene regulations among prisoners was in a large measure responsible for unsanitary conditions was expressed.

"Prisoners are not required to take a bath or change clothing either when first committed to the jail or thereafter. One may safely conjecture, therefore, that the large majority of the thousands of prisoners confined in our jail each year do not take a bath and change their clothing while in the jail."

"Bathing regulations are absolutely necessary in every prison and should be rigidly enforced. The excuse given by the jail attaches that prisoners cannot be compelled by law to take a bath is entirely too weak."

Segregation of Women.
Referring to the segregation of women prisoners, the report says: "All women prisoners are supposed to be isolated from the men in a wing of the jail. This wing is in charge of the matron who is supposed to carry the keys to the wing and to take charge of all women prisoners, both white and colored. This wing is divided into two parts. The front part is a rather large compartment containing a central cage in which all colored women are locked. Back of this compartment is another compartment for white women, a sort of dormitory affair without cells."

"We were assured on February 21 that men are not permitted in the wing occupied by the women prisoners. Obviously this rule is one in theory only, for on the date of our last visit the matron, who by the way does not have an assistant to relieve her, was away from the building, and both doors to the women's wing were unlocked so that any of the male prisoners on the floor might come mingling as freely as they desire with the white women prisoners."

"We entered the women's wing and found two colored men, probably prisoners, sweeping out the white women's part, and back in the part occupied by white women we found six white men. We did not know whether these men were prisoners or not. To add to this disgusting situation, some of the white women prisoners were reclining on the beds only partially clad."

Employment of an additional matron so that a matron will be on duty every hour of the day and night was urged.

Divided Management.
In conclusion, the committee stated: "It is extremely unfortunate that the control and management of the jail is divided between the county commissioners on the one hand and the sheriff on the other. Such dual responsibility cannot but militate against the best interests of good jail management and treatment of prisoners."

"We believe that the absolute control of the jail should be vested in the county commissioners of roads and revenues, and that the commission should appoint the jailer, and his assistants, and that all expenses incident to the management and conduct of the jail should be paid from the county treasury, not as fees, but as salaries, maintenance expense, etc."

"We do not mean to cast any reflection whatever upon any of our county officials. The best interests of thousands of unfortunate men and women are at stake, and the good name of our county for humane treatment of these unfortunate is involved. We therefore believe that a centralized jail control will go far toward correcting the evils so apparently present to an antiquated county jail system."

TURKS VIOLATE

of his training and general ability. He completed today a thorough survey of the situation throughout Thrace from the viewpoint of the defense of the country. He sent the first section of his report on his mission the middle of the week to the Athens government and forwarded the second and last section today.

NO RESULT YET
AT MUDANIA.

Mudania, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The question of the evacuation of eastern Thrace was not discussed at the morning conference between the allied generals and Ismet Pasha, but was placed on the program for the evening session, pending receipt by the allies of further advice from London and Paris.

Ismet Pasha, acting for the Ankara government, asked that a clause be included in the Mudania convention to the effect that since Turkey had released all Greek civilian prisoners, all Turkish civilian prisoners in Greek hands should be released. He demanded also the release immediately of all Turkish prisoners of war, but was not willing to reciprocate.

The allied general replied that regarding the release of civilian prisoners, it was a matter to be referred to their governments. The release of prisoners of war, they declared, should be settled between the two belligerent countries.

TO CALL PEACE CONFERENCE.

Paris, October 7.—France and Great Britain agreed on a Near Eastern policy and decided to call a peace conference to be held at Scutari on November 1.

This was the decision reached by the allies and dispatched to allied general headquarters in Mudania after conferring with Ismet Pasha, Turkish nationalist representative.

1. The Greeks must start to evacuate eastern Thrace immediately.

2. The Kemalists will not be permitted to cross the neutral zone of the Dardanelles until final peace has been concluded.

3. The allies will enter Thrace on the heels of the departing Greeks and take up control of the administration of the territory.

Turks May Enter.

4. One month after the Greeks are out the Turks may enter and set up a civil administration.

The above plan was first decided upon in a conference between Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, and Premier Poincare of France.

The tentative agreement was laid before the British and French cabinets, who approved it.

Mustapha Kemal, leader of the Turkish nationalists, is thus faced with the solid front of Britain, France and Italy, who also approved the plan after it had been decided upon by her allies.

The decision reached by the allies was their answer to the ultimatum of Kemalists that the allies evacuate eastern Thrace at once.

Clever Compromise.

The attempts to settle the Near Eastern crisis were transferred to Paris after the deadlock at the Mudania conference which was followed by the Turkish ultimatum.

By an ingenious compromise, Curzon, Poincare and Galli, of Italy, arranged so both Turkey and the allies will gain their points.

Although the Turkish army will be excluded from Thrace, Turkey, through the installation of a civil police administration, will be in virtual possession of the territory within a month after the Greeks evacuate.

The allies, however, cleverly arranged to hold the peace conference before the month period expires, thus gaining their contention.

Reason for Scutari.

It was agreed to refuse the Turks' suggestion that the peace conference be held at Smyrna. Italy proposed Tormina, but Poincare, believing the Turkish ultimatum, ultimately decided for the parley, tentatively selected Scutari.

The suggestion of the Turks that the conference be held at Constantinople was rejected because that date would not give time for proper preparation for the conference.

It was believed, due to the opposition of the French, that Russia would be excluded from the conference.

Poincare holds that, inasmuch as the conference is to be held at Scutari, it is necessary that the conference be held there.

Russia was not included in the invitation to a peace parley which was dispatched two weeks ago, she should be invited this time.

Another Conference.
In view of the fact that another conference, after the proposed peace parley, must be held—probably under the auspices of the league of nations—to discuss the actual regime and the maintenance of the freedom of the Dardanelles, it was pointed out that Russia may be given a voice at that time.

It was agreed that French troops would suppress disturbances by either the French or Greek troops.

Allied representatives have been instructed to notify the Greeks that they must evacuate Thrace and the Turks that they must not cross the Dardanelles.

It was stated semi-officially that the French government believes that the allied plan would be acceptable to the Kemalists.

ENGINEERS' BANK TO ASK FORD AID

Cleveland, Ohio, October 7.—Henry Ford soon will be asked to join with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in a fight against the financial power of Wall street.

Joseph J. Hobert, Jr., general financial agent of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' cooperative bank here, announced today that he would go to Detroit next week and ask Ford to combine with the engineers in extending their co-operative banking movement to New York.

It is expected that Hobert will ask Ford to put a deposit of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 into the proposed bank. Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the engineers and head of the bank, feels that the bank's present deposits of $17,000,000 are insufficient to enter the New York field.

"We have thought over Mr. Ford's position in the financial world, and believe that his entrance into the co-operative plan would be of great benefit to the workers of the nation as they would share in the profits of the bank."

Under organized labor's co-operative system, 4 per cent is paid on deposits.

Then the bank's profits are distributed among the depositors in the form of dividends.

Financial observers here see in the proposed movement a possible battle between Ford and Wall street on the latter's territory.

More than 300,000 radio receiving sets are in use in New York City and vicinity.

FAT PEOPLE CAN REDUCE QUICKLY

New Discovery Makes It Possible to Reduce a Pound a Day Without Dieting or Exercise.

Any fat man or woman can quickly and easily reduce to normal weight without dieting or exercise through the remarkable discovery of Rid-O-Fat by M. B. Smith, a Kansas City chemist.

You can eat what you please and as much as you wish, yet quickly reduce to the weight you desire. All you need do is take one Rid-O-Fat tablet after each meal for a short time, and the fat will vanish as though by magic. Rid-O-Fat is a scientific product, has practically no odor or taste and can be taken by anyone with perfect safety, as it is recommended and endorsed by the highest medical authority.

So confident is Mr. Smith that Rid-O-Fat will delight everyone that he generously offers to send a free trial treatment to any reader who will write for it. This trial treatment is sufficient to reduce you from three to five pounds and will prove that you can be as slender as you wish without dieting or exercise.

Simply send your name and address to M. B. Smith, 2109 Coca-Cola Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., and the free trial treatment will be sent immediately under plain wrapper.—(adv.)

WOMAN IS FLYING CROSS CONTINENT FOR FIRST TIME

Chicago, October 7.—Miss Lillian Gatlin, said to be the first woman to attempt to cross the continent in an air mail plane, landed here this afternoon and planned to leave early tomorrow for New York. She flew today from Omaha, Neb. Miss Gatlin is making the trans-continental flight to memorialize the Gold Star mothers.

Monkey to Attend Illustrated Lecture On "Deepest Africa"

Chicago, October 7.—Prof. E. R. Neumanns has engaged the Auditorium theater to deliver an illustrated lecture on "Deepest Africa," and monkeys dance at the Lincoln park zoo.

Toto is exceptionally intelligent and his keeper, Alfred E. Parker, manager of the zoo, wants to prove to the world that he will show deep interest in the pictures of his brothers and sisters.

Neumanns' lecture is on "Life in Deepest Africa," and monkeys dance gallantly in every scene.

The chimpanzee will be escorted down the aisle to a front row seat inconspicuously. No one will notice that he is one of the spectators.

Parker claims the monkey will show he has the brain power of a man. He says the chimpanzee not only walks on his legs like a man, but can do any sort of physical work a man can do.

He was brought to New York by an exponent of the Darwinian theory. Since then he has learned to scrub floors, wash windows, roller skate, ride a bicycle.

Toto is 4 feet tall and weighs 40 pounds.

Funds of Red Cross May Be Turned Over To Near East Relief

Washington, October 7.—Funds of the American Red Cross may be turned over to the Near East relief committee for use in caring for refugees at Smyrna.

Such a co-ordination of effort between the two relief agencies was being considered this afternoon by a special committee on Near East relief appointed by President Harding.

The plan is based on the fact that the Red Cross has a large reserve fund available and the Near East relief committee has the machinery set up for immediate utilization in the Smyrna war zone.

If Red Cross money is placed at the disposal of the Near East relief, it will be a part of approximately $20,000,000 remaining from the organization's war chest.

PLAN FOR UNIFORM OUTDOOR ADV. SIGNS

Atlantic City, N. J., October 7.—The Outdoor Advertising association, at its convention today, approved plans which, it was declared, would revolutionize the outdoor sign industry.

Chief among these is the plan to standardize the board construction of all signs. The board of directors has been empowered to employ architectural engineers to draw specifications for a standard billboard.

Another feature will be the doing away with "dead signs," or boards that have been erected for advertising purposes and allowed to decay.

Harding to Tell Plans for Help Of War Refugees

Will Issue Statement Today
Dealing With Near Eastern Problem.

Washington, October 7.—President Harding, it was said tonight, will issue a statement tomorrow dealing with plans for aiding the thousands of refugees in the Near East. The statement, it was added, will deal with the situation in the light of conclusions reached at conferences at the white house today for co-ordination of the efforts of the American Red Cross and the Near East relief.

Participating in the conferences were officials of the two organizations and former Postmaster General Hays, it being their purpose to draft a final recommendation to President Harding, who was asked recently by the Near East relief to give his support to a nation-wide appeal for funds. No announcement was made after the meetings, it being understood the president would cover the subject in his statement, but it was said that the Red Cross would deal with the situation "adequately."

GREEK REFUGEES PRESENT PROBLEM.

Constantinople, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Declaring that the migration of half a million Greeks due to the Near East conflict offered the most colossal problem of its kind in history, H. C. Jacquith, director of the Near East relief administration here, addressed relief administrators in a conference today.

Mr. Jacquith has just returned from a tour of all the principal points where refugees are being established. "This situation is unique as compared with the other large refugee movements of the past few years," he said, "because there are practically no able-bodied men among the present refugees. The action of the Turks in forcing families to depart from Asia Minor without their breadwinners complicates many fold the difficulties of caring for the fugitives."

The conference expressed a conviction that the Greek government would be unable to shoulder the burden alone. Hopes were voiced that any loans to Greece by the allies for reconstruction would be granted only on condition that a certain definite proportion of the funds be used to insure the proper care of the refugees.

Thus far the United States is the only nation which has assisted in the relief work on any considerable scale. British naval units have been helpful in connection with the evacuation and the British also have advanced considerable funds for relief, but the other nations have confined themselves almost entirely to assisting their own nationals.

The Americans now have relief units operating in every refugee center. The minimum cost of supporting the rehabilitation of the half million homeless this winter is estimated at $15,000,000. This financial problem is one of the most serious now before the Greek government.

Newspaper Men Shot as Result Of War on Vice

Rock Island, Ill., October 7.—Three men were wounded, probably fatally, in a shooting affray on crowded downtown streets Friday which is believed to have been part of a "vice war" here.

Attorney John Looney, Jr., whose father is the publisher of The Rock Island News, which has been conducting a "vice crusade" here, was shot five times and is expected to die. Albert J. Allbeyer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a bystander, was shot in the abdomen and also may die. A. Drost, a former editor of The News, was shot in the arm.

The police have arrested "Crims" Holsapple and are searching for other alleged enemies of the Looneys.

Looney, his father and Lawrence Pedigo had driven up to the Sherman hotel, Rock Island's largest, when two autos filled with men swung down the street in their wake and the trio was fired upon from both cars. Looney fell at the first volley, but his father was uninjured. Pedigo jumped into the hotel doorway and returned the fusillade. He thought later that he had shot one of the gunmen, but both cars drove rapidly away.

A crowd of several hundred which had been watching the scene, scattered hurriedly when the shooting began.

Drost, who is said to have been a sworn enemy of the Looneys, was held for questioning by the police.

The shooting enters another sensational chapter in the hectic history of The Rock Island News, a four-page weekly newspaper. Within the past four years two editors of The News have served one-year penitentiary terms for criminal libel, and about a year ago The News plant was partially destroyed by dynamite.

CUBAN REPRESENTATIVE TOLD OF U. S. LOAN

Edward Odio, in charge of the Cuban consulate in Atlanta, was notified by officials of his government in Washington Saturday that the Cuban congress has approved the $50,000,000 loan made by the United States to the island republic.

"It means a great deal to my country," Consul Odio said, "as it puts the government on a firm financial footing. The measure authorizing the acceptance of the loan is perhaps one of the most important measures passed in the current session of our congress."

CUSTOMS ENTRY PORT IN FLORIDA STOPPED

Washington, October 7.—President Harding, by executive order, has abolished Carrabelle, Fla., as a customs port of entry. It was announced today by the treasury.

Discontinuance of Carrabelle as a port of entry, officials explained, was ordered because there was not sufficient customs business being done there to warrant its continuance.

SON OF CORONER IS FOUND GUILTY

Nashville, Tenn., October 7.—Tom Allen, son of the Davidson county coroner, was today found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the killing of City Patrolman James Henry Johnson, July 31, 1921, the verdict carrying a prison sentence of 2 to 10 years.

The killing occurred in connection with the arrest of Allen at an alleged disorderly house here.

QUICK! STOP FALLING HAIR!

35-cent "Danderine" will Save Any Man or Woman's Hair—Delightful Tonic—See Dandruff Go!

Quick! Don't wait! Every bald head started with just a few falling hairs and a little dandruff—but soon the hair appeared thin, scraggly, and then the dreaded bald spot. It seems a sin to let hair fall out or tolerate destructive dandruff when you can quickly correct all such hair trouble with a bottle of delightful Danderine.

Millions know the magic of Danderine; how it corrects oily, dandruff, itching scalp and helps the hair to grow long, thick, strong and luxuriant. Danderine is not sticky or greasy. It is the largest selling hair corrective and tonic in the world because it is not a humbug! Get a bottle at any drugstore.—(adv.)

RED CROSS READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Campaign in Connection With Annual Roll Call Will Be Started Throughout Nation Monday.

On the eve of the national convention of the American Red Cross, which opens at Washington, Monday, with delegates from chapters in all parts of the country attending, national headquarters announces through Harry Hopkins, manager of the southern division, a preliminary survey in relation to the annual roll call. The 4,000,000 membership enrollment of the Red Cross is expected to be maintained for 1933.

From reports sent in by the six divisions of the organization it is forecast that there will be a widespread revival of the war-time enthusiasm for enrollment of members, and that hundreds of volunteer workers of the war-time are coming back into the work, giving their services.

The southern division will show a membership strength of 200,000 and when all reports are in, Mr. Hopkins predicted today. States in the southern division are Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina and Tennessee.

The roll call, which will begin Armistice day, November 11, and close with Thanksgiving day, November 30, will marshal forces throughout the world under the slogan "Every American, Everywhere, a Member of the Red Cross." Under the leadership of John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, it is to be an intensive campaign from start to finish, that the organization may maintain its strength to carry out its obligations laid upon it by its congressional charter.

The direct appeal for members is to be made for support of work in homes and in hospitals for disabled ex-service men and their families, for which some $10,000,000 will be spent this year in the government is not authorized to do and for which no government funds are available. This work is going on in virtually every community in the United States, through individual and contact with the veterans by chapter workers.

Prepared for Worst. Three other important duties are also emphasized in the Red Cross program of activities—public health nursing service for rural communities, where adequate health facilities are lacking; preparedness for relief in disaster, famine, flood, epidemic; and the work of the Junior Red Cross at home and abroad in building up among children everywhere a spirit of mutual trust and confidence and the will for unselfish service. These are the outstanding Red Cross services in a program which includes widespread instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, in nutrition, general health conservation, first aid, water life-saving, production of Braille for the blind and the vast production of clothing for the needy at home and overseas by chapter volunteers.

A new field of action in the approaching campaign will be a roll call in the high seas designed to register members on every ship afloat or in the ports of the world in which merchant marine companies and ship captains have been enlisted and the co-operation of the United States navy department obtained. The campaign in the familiar possessions and in foreign chapters is also definitely planned with the view of increasing the enrollment.

In joining the Red Cross this year the new member, as well as the old member renewing his membership, will receive a certificate of membership designed to fit a purse or card case in addition to the white button bearing the symbolic cross in red. This certificate is the stub of a filing card which the Red Cross for the first complete system of registration of members in all the 2,500 active chapters. The cards containing names, addresses and classes of membership will be retained as permanent records by the chapters and as lists where it will be possible in the future for the Red Cross to keep in touch with the members for all emergencies, whether local, state or national. Posters Designed. A series of posters impressively visualizing the work of the American Red Cross have been designed by well known artists and these will be displayed in every nook and corner of the country. A special poster has also been designed for use by the chapters overseas. A Red Cross worker's badge, new in this campaign, will identify the solicitors in the roll call. The outlook for an increase in membership, it was unanimously agreed at a recent conference of Red Cross division managers at Washington, is extremely bright because of the prospect of improved commercial and industrial conditions everywhere and because the public at large is now better informed as to the peace time obligations the Red Cross is carrying out.

The keynote among the chapters is especially to promote the efficient co-operation of the agencies involved towards a wider social service program. The immediate pressing financial needs of the agencies is such that Mr. Gates will bend his energies for the present towards the collection of outstanding pledges made last February to support the work of the Associated Charities, the Anti-Tuberculosis association, the Boy Scouts, Travelers' Aid and the Y. W. C. A.

A governing board, to consist of three members from each of these five organizations, has been organized and will hold its first meeting Monday afternoon to consider the crisis which has arisen in the financial affairs of the federation.

According to a statement issued Saturday by Mr. Gates, the agencies are now faced with empty treasuries and a present inability to meet their outstanding obligations due to the large number of pledges which have not been paid.

"Pledges for the final quarter fell due on October 1, and statements have been mailed to all subscribers," states Mr. Gates. "We are hoping that prompt returns will be received upon these statements, so that immediate stringency may be relieved."

"The situation has been complicated by a large number of past due delinquencies. I find that the margin of subscriptions received in the past year was not sufficient to allow for any failure on the part of subscribers to honor their pledges in full; and it is evident that the vital work which is being carried on by these five great social service agencies will be seriously hampered unless something is done immediately to relieve the situation."

"Prompt payments on October 1 statements will help us out for the time being, but it will be impossible to survive the year without calling for large additional subscriptions unless a way is found to account for every cent that was originally pledged. It is this tense situation which must be faced by the governing board of the federation Monday afternoon."

Religious Workers Will Get Diplomas. The last series of revival services at the Gordon Street Baptist church, which have been in progress for the last ten days, have been largely attended and a number of new members have been added to the roll. At the close of the services tonight diplomas will be presented to the following teachers who recently finished the course prescribed by the Sunday school board at Nashville: Miss Dora Haynes, A. A. Hall, Homer T. James, J. R. Meek, Addie Lee Bloodworth, Elizabeth Ligon, Flossie Landers, Lillie Belle Golden, Alice Stempsey, Elizabeth Tate, Essie Hall, Mrs. L. L. Edmondson, Mrs. R. C. Ransom, Mrs. C. F. J. Tate, Raymond S. Blanton.

The National Confectioners' association has set aside Saturday, October 14, as the date for the annual observance of "Candy day" throughout the United States.

Run-Down Women Face to Face With Old Age!

Blood-Power Builds Nerve-Power, Strength, Endurance, Energy, Girlish Charm! S. S. S. Is Remarkable in Building Blood-Power and Nerve-Power!

She is not 40 in years yet but she is run-down, exhausted and that is just what old age is. S. S. S. will build up your blood-power. This gives strength always!

Madam, this truth may give you the "chills." Shudder as you will, this fact stares you in the face. You can not deny it! If you face the fact, you can add glorious strength to your weakened body. You can add sweeter years to your life, and bring back some of the glorious charm of your girlhood days! But if you refuse to believe it, then the power on earth can help you! When you are exhausted, when you feel like "dropping down" on every next you come to, that very thing you feel is nothing but early old age. Exhaustion and old age are practically the same thing. Both mean a "wearing out." The number of years you have spent on earth has nothing to do with the way you feel. Remember this, the number of blood-cells you have controls your nerve, your vitality, your health and strength! It is all up to you. The answer then is, build up your blood-power! S. S. S. has been used since 1830 as one of the greatest blood-cell builders known! It contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable blood purifier. This is why it has proven such startling results in rheumatism, skin eruptions, in clearing and beautifying the complexion, and in building up thin, worn out men and women, and in building great nerve power! You are only as strong as your blood! Stronger and more youthful nerves depend on blood-power! Stronger blood shows at once in your face, in the strength of every organ. S. S. S. will give you great energy, strength and more youthful appearance. Stop getting old before your time! S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

S. S. S. makes you feel like yourself again

Oh! Skinny, Yo Hoo---Look't; Something New---"Rainbow Tunnel"

The sensational riding device, "Rainbow Tunnel," the product of H. F. Maynes, nationally known inventor of "Submarine U-4," "Trip to Mars," "Over the Falls" and "The Joy Mill," will be one of the Johnny J. Jones' amusement attractions at the South-eastern fair that opens Thursday.

The new attraction is built close to the ground, three steps placing the visitor on the platform running about the entire structure, while there are some 24 cars, each accommodating two or three people, with comfortable cushions in the seats. The cars travel along an up and down grade.

As the cars attain a sensational speed the surprise comes, for gradually, by an ingenious contraption, the entire train of cars is enveloped into a semi-darkened tunnel which completely covers all the cars. The passengers are secluded from the gaze of the outside public while the ride goes merrily on.

GATES ESTABLISHES NEW HEADQUARTERS

Home of Five-Way Social Service Now in Walton Building.

Roy P. Gates, newly appointed executive of the five-way social service organization, has established offices for the financial federation of this body at 805 Walton building; and beginning Monday morning he will conduct the affairs of his office from this address.

Although the office has been formed especially to promote the efficient co-operation of the agencies involved towards a wider social service program, the immediate pressing financial needs of the agencies is such that Mr. Gates will bend his energies for the present towards the collection of outstanding pledges made last February to support the work of the Associated Charities, the Anti-Tuberculosis association, the Boy Scouts, Travelers' Aid and the Y. Evangelist to Deaf Will Preach Sunday

Rev. S. M. Freeman, evangelist for the deaf of the north Georgia conference, will occupy the pulpit at the special services at 11 o'clock Sunday morning in St. Mark's Methodist church.

All deaf persons and their friends are cordially invited to attend the services as Rev. Freeman will use the expression sign language of the silent folks. His subject will be "Repentance."

Rev. Freeman returned to Atlanta recently from a vacation trip in Ohio and Indiana. While there he preached to small congregations of deaf and dumb persons.

Barker Will Attend Meeting in Detroit

B. S. Barker, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will leave Atlanta Friday, October 21, for Detroit, where he will attend a meeting of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries, of which organization he has been appointed a member.

"Atlanta will make as good a report as to growth and bright prospects as any city in the United States," said Mr. Barker Saturday. "Representatives from more than 500 cities will attend the convention."

Attempt to Commit Suicide Is Denied

Denial of intention to commit suicide was made Saturday by relatives of L. P. Ott, 266 Cooper street, who was carried to the Grady hospital Friday evening suffering from iodine poisoning, the result, he said, of accidentally emptying the contents of a bottle in his mouth as he attempted to pour some on an upper tooth.

Pastor Called Again

At a meeting of the First Baptist church recently, Rev. H. D. Warnock was called to be pastor another year. He came here last year to succeed Dr. H. C. Wilkinson, who was called to Atlanta. Following are the members of the board of deacons for the next three years: Messrs. A. J. Carr, J. T. McMullen, Dr. H. C. Swing and O. A. Thaston. J. A. Moore was re-elected Sunday school superintendent.

MRS. HARMON IS HELD FOR DEATH OF RAY

Testimony by officers that Charles C. Ray had stated in the presence of Mrs. Minnie Harmon, of 53 Gilmer street, when the two were arrested the night of September 18, that the wound in his head was caused by being struck by a chair in the hands of Mrs. Harmon, resulted in the latter being held for the grand jury under a $500 bond by Recorder George E. Johnson Saturday afternoon. The charge is manslaughter.

Ray died en route to the Grady hospital from the Fulton county jail September 25. Reports at the hospital showed that he died from heart trouble and morphia, according to Dr. G. Boland, one of the internes who testified in police court in behalf of Mrs. Harmon.

Another witness for the defendant was Dr. H. W. Holbrook, who testified that he was called by Mrs. Harmon to dress Ray's wounds September 18, and was told at that time by Ray that he hurt himself when falling from the porch of Mrs. Harmon's home.

Both Ray and Mrs. Harmon were arrested on the night of September 18 under charges of being drunk and disorderly. After being confined in the jail for several hours that night Ray complained of suffering intense pains from a wound on the head. He was sent to the Grady hospital three times by Lieutenant T. D. Shaw to have his wounds dressed. Doctors at the hospital neither time regarded him as dangerously hurt.

Ray was later fined $11 by Recorder Johnson and Mrs. Harmon bound over to the state courts under a charge of conducting a disorderly house. Ray was again arrested September 23 under a charge of vagrancy and bound over to the state courts. He was in the Fulton county jail under this charge when he became critically ill, dying in the ambulance on the way to the hospital.

Algerian sheep are being shipped into France in great numbers on account of continuous drought in northern Algeria, which is rendering pasture lands insufficient to keep sheep alive.

Policeman Held Following Attack Made on Neighbor

Policeman T. R. Glover, 40, of 213 Kirkwood avenue, was being held at police station without bond Saturday evening, pending the outcome of injuries he is said to have inflicted on Jim Griswold, street car man who resides at 215 Kirkwood avenue, during an altercation between the two yesterday afternoon.

Griswold was rushed to the Grady hospital where an examination by surgeons caused them to suspect he had a fractured skull. He is said to have been struck in the head with Officer Glover's "baton."

In his report of the fight to Police Chief James L. Beavers, Officer Glover stated that Griswold had used very abusive language in talking about his (Glover's) wife, and also made a move as if to draw his pistol. Then, the officer stated, he knocked Griswold down.

Officer Glover and Griswold live next door to each other. Friday, according to Officer Glover, Griswold's 13-year-old boy was driving a cut-down automobile very recklessly and on the wrong side of the street, and came near running over two or three children.

Saturday morning Griswold and Officer Glover were passengers on the Soldiers' home car and got off at Faith's crossing. They walked together down the street and Officer Glover stated he began telling Griswold of his son's alleged reckless driving of the automobile, whereupon Griswold replied that the charge against his boy was false.

When Officer Glover told Griswold that Mrs. Glover had witnessed it, Griswold, according to Glover, replied, "Whoever says my boy was driving on the wrong side of the street and recklessly is a liar," and then added other epithets. Then Griswold, Officer Glover stated, reached back to draw his pistol and was knocked down by the officer.

Police Commissioner W. R. Johnson, who arrived about this time, took Griswold's pistol away. It is said, and the man was carried to the hospital. Patrolman S. C. Johnson came with Glover to police station where the matter was reported to Captain A. J. Holcombe.

After submitting a written report

EX-KAISER ACCUSES BRITAIN OF TREACHERY IN TRYING TO CHECK GERMAN NAVAL PROGRAM

Southeastern Fair Ready for Big Throngs

SEVENTH ANNUAL SHOW WILL OPEN GATES THURSDAY

Running Races and Live Stock Exhibition Will Be Among Features to Attract Thousands.

PREDICT ATTENDANCE RECORDS WILL FALL

Swine Show Will Be the Greatest Single Feature, With $10,000 in Prizes Offered to Winners.

The seventh annual Southeastern fair will swing wide its gates for the people of the south next Thursday morning at 8 o'clock with an assurance of the greatest assemblage of purebred live stock, diversified agricultural products, and educational exhibits embodying the peak of human endeavor combined with the greatest and most attractive amusement program ever attempted by a southern fair.

Rapid strides have been made the past week at the fair grounds in order that everything may be in readiness for the fair visitors on the opening day. Special features are seen in almost every building and countless improvements call the visitors' attention to the fact that the fair association has spent tremendous sums of money in preparation for this year's exposition.

Officials of the fair association predict that last year's attendance record, which was close to the two-hundred-thousand mark, will be broken during the first week of the fair. Butries for every department which have been coming in steadily for the past six weeks have already given assurance of the greatest live stock, poultry, agricultural, club work and fine arts exhibitions ever seen on a southern fair grounds.

Feature Swine Show.

The greatest single feature of the exposition will be the swine show, as asserts President J. Oscar Mills, who states that the show this year, as far as the number of animals on exhibit is concerned, will be the biggest in the entire United States. Last year for the first time in history the Southeastern accomplished this feat—they had the biggest swine show in the country with a total of 3,300 head.

The cattle show, too, will hold its own with the biggest shows in the country, officials state, and it is expected that the entries will totally fill the big pavilion which this year has been considerably enlarged.

The rabbit, pigeon and poultry show will offer the bird fanciers of the south an opportunity to see the best there is to see in the poultry world.

The official show of the fourth district of the Rhode Island Red Club of America will offer a feature attraction in this department. One exhibitor is bringing all the way from New York state eight car loads of chickens, water fowls, pigeons, etc. It will undoubtedly be the largest poultry exhibition ever seen in the state.

In the Effort Arts building will be seen the household and domestic science displays with the fine arts exhibits which this year are heralded as the best the fair has ever shown.

Mrs. E. W. Moore, superintendent of the fine arts department, recently made a trip through the east and has secured the most representative exhibit of the American artists that has ever been shown in Atlanta.

Industrial Exhibits.

A mammoth industrial exposition will take the place of the annual auto show, which has heretofore been a feature of the fair, and the automobile building, which is now the Manufacturers' building, will be filled with moving exhibits demonstrating the manufacture of products that are made in Atlanta and Georgia. Bottling plants that will make the drinks that are to be sold on the grounds, printing presses that will take and execute orders that will be taken on the spot, baking ovens, that will bake bread, pastries, and cakes before your eyes; dairy plants and a score of other exhibits representing local industry, will be on hand.

The boys' and girls' club work exhibits and the school displays of the Atlanta and Fulton county schools and many other features will make up the educational program for the fair, the greatest by far that has ever been presented.

Then, on the amusement side of the fair, the association has provided a program that will outdo anything of the kind that has ever been offered.

Atlanta Holds Building Honors For September

Leads South for Month After Close Battle for First With Memphis.

Birmingham, Ala., October 8.—(Special.)—Atlanta and Memphis staged a very close race during the month of September for leadership in construction work. Memphis which established a high mark of over $2,000,000 in July, again went over that figure in September, but Atlanta did likewise, and Atlanta's record was also somewhat better than the previous Memphis record. During September Atlanta's building permits were valued at $2,319,576, while those of Memphis had a valuation of $2,167,980. The Memphis record for July was $2,310,000.

For the past several months these two cities have been presenting very favorable building reports, ranging from $1,208,226, in the case of Atlanta and $1,081,974 in the case of Memphis on up to the present figures.

Figures Are Offered.

These figures, as well as the following ones on southern construction, have been furnished The Dixie Manufacturer, Birmingham, from official sources. Other reports received do not figure as high. In fact Atlanta and Memphis were the only ones even above $1,000,000.

The New Orleans report for September gives a total of $711,230, which was slightly lower than September, 1921.

Birmingham's total of $234,297 for September was less than half of the total for the same month last year.

Knoxville showed an increase over September, 1921, as did Little Rock, Nashville and Macon.

Mobile, with a report of $296,935, had an increase of more than eight times the record for September, 1921.

Says Oil Fields Are Real Object Of East-Trouble

Near Eastern Settlement Will Include "Oil Victory" for Some Nation, Is Prediction.

BY PERCY SARK.

London, October 7.—The settlement of the Near Eastern question will result in an oil victory for some nation and then the losers will start another war, a high British official declared to the United Press tonight.

The official, who sees oily footprints on the shores of the Dardanelles, stated that he believed the valuable oil lands in the Near East were responsible for the alarms, deadlocks and ultimate in connection with the Near Eastern crisis.

The present conflict was described as an "oil war" by the official.

Oil in Cartoon.

One answer, he said, to the question of the British press as to the meaning of the "freedom of the straits," appears to be a "freedom of oil tankers and access to land pipe lines near the Black sea, Caspian sea and in Persia and Mesopotamia."

The Evening Star yesterday published a cartoon on Turkish and allied generals conferring at Mudania and surrounded by American, British, French and Dutch oil men.

"It would take a new Upton Sinclair to write an oil jungle expose," declared the politician.

Sinister Influence.

The sinister influence of oil operators is seen in the flocking of oil agents and propagandists to recent allied conferences at San Remo, Cannes, Genoa and The Hague where, according to the information given the United Press, "one would have thought that the sole business of the allies was to share up the oil fields to various groups instead of restoring world peace."

It has been freely charged that the Standard Oil company and French groups have financed the Komitists. The Anglo-Persian and Royal Dutch companies have, on the other hand, been accused of financing the Greeks in the Turkish-Greek war.

DEMOCRATS ISSUE VERBAL BROADSIDE AGAINST HARDING

National Committee Says Harding Regime Daily Grows More Unpopular With Voters.

REPUBLICAN ATTACK EXPECTED MONDAY

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 7.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—In a statement issued today as the congressional campaign entered its last month, the democratic national committee charges that the republican opposition has shifted its tactics and is now making the record of President Harding, rather than the record of congress, the chief campaign issue. The democratic headquarters also charge that Chairman Wood, of the republican congressional campaign committee, found it necessary to "revise" his interview in which he said President Harding would regard the election of a democratic congress as a "calamity."

Mr. Wood now says he was misunderstood, and that he, and not the president, said this at the white house conference.

Meanwhile, republican headquarters has speeded up its publicity machinery for the final month of the political battle and Chairman Adams will issue a caustic statement for publication Monday.

The democratic national committee, in its verbal broadside fired today, said in part:

Verbal Broadside.

"The statement given out by William R. Wood, chairman of the republican congressional campaign committee, to the effect that President Harding would regard the election of a democratic house as a 'calamity,' resulted in so much criticism of the president for doing what President Wilson had been so criticized for doing by republicans in 1918 that Chairman Wood has revised his statement. He says he was responsible for the opinion and not the president, although he had just come from an interview with Mr. Harding in the white house."

Referring to a recent statement issued by republican chairman, Adams, at Columbus, Ohio, wherein he added endorsement of the record of President Harding and congress as a whole, with the alternative of rebuke as a whole, the democratic rejoinder today says:

Unpopularity Grows.

"The import of Mr. Adams' statement is to substitute President Harding for the republican congress and to make his plea for reelection of a republican congress in the form of a personal endorsement of the president, rather than upon the legislative acts of that body. Mr. Adams' statement is only a variation of the plea to 'stand by the president' and forget what the republican congress has done and failed to do. It is Chairman Adams saying what the president is reported to have said by Chairman Wood, without attributing the statement directly to the president."

The democrats insist that since Representative Wood was frank enough to say the house to his fellow republicans that "everybody is giving this congress hell," there has been a reaction against the president as well as congress.

"Since that speech was delivered," concludes the democratic statement, "the unpopularity of the Harding administration has constantly increased, until it is now the consensus of opinion that the administration is more unpopular than the congress, which is admitted by republican organs to be 'the worst in 20 years.'"

HEAD OF MISSION AND 4 CHILDREN ADRIFT 36 HOURS

Petoskey, Mich., October 7.—After 36 hours adrift on Lake Michigan in the disabled cabin cruiser, Alice K. Rev. Father Dorothea Phillips, in charge of an Indian mission on Garden Island, and four Indian children were rescued by the crew of a lumber barge and brought to shore here today.

Chinese Tot Crosses Seas To Make Home in Atlanta

BY J. M. CLARK.

From far away Sun Ning, Canton, Province of Kwang-tung, China, has come a wisp of Oriental innocence, beauty, sweetness to live in the city of Atlanta. Little Miss S. Lim Lee, the pride and joy of Mr. and Mrs. Handsel Lee, 78 Houston street, will never remember the long trip from her birthplace to her adopted home, for she was only five months old when she came through the port of Seattle, Wash., but in the years to come she will no doubt listen with wide-open eyes to the stories which her proud parents will tell their wonderful American girl.

Stories of the land of her birth, rice fields and quaint customs, the mysterious and interesting city of Canton, inclosed by a wall within a wall, and of the river on whose breast rest the homes of many of her people; stories of the 7,000-mile voyage across the Pacific, the entry to America and the 4,000-mile journey overland to the great city selected for her American home—these and many others will thrill the "cute little baby," who now attracts the attention of hundreds every time her proud father ventures forth on the streets with her in his arms.

She is now eight months of age, and is the youngest child of Chinese birth in the city of Atlanta, and probably the youngest in the entire south-east. Her mother and father were married ten years ago. At that time Handsel Lee, the father, was in China, after having returned from a several years' sojourn in America, having lived in Atlanta.

Following the marriage in that far away land where girls marry at extremely tender years, the husband returned to America, and the wife, here he worked faithfully, as is the commendable characteristic of this remarkable race, and in the year 1920 he again returned to his native land and to his charming young wife.

This time it was ordained that he should bring his bride to America with him. Two years passed, a second honeymoon to the happy couple, and then the trip to America was undertaken—but instead of returning to his home in Atlanta the happy bridegroom, Handsel Lee, returned the proud and happy head of a family—a wife and a "darling baby," as a number of ladies have described the child from glimpses caught of her on the streets.

Some weeks ago the long journey from the Orient was ended, and now the family is established in their American home, but the atmosphere of the east still prevails. The mother, a striking beauty of the Oriental type, still retains the impressions and many of the customs of her native home.

For instance, an attempt to secure a photograph of the family for publishing was met with the objection from the mother that in China the ladies never had their pictures in the papers. She was reluctantly willing that the baby's picture might be published, and have her daughter introduced to the people with whom she has come to live, but the influence of the east completely prevented the publication of the family group.

Another interesting trace of China is preserved in her mode of dressing. In her home on Houston street, Mrs. Lee continues to wear the native dress of her own people across the Pacific—a costume consisting of a mandarin coat extending almost to the knees and pantaloons, instead of the conventional American skirt.

Wears Chinese Garb.

Little Miss Lim is also dressed in the costume of the east, and the gurgles of Oriental baby-talk with which she greets the visitor who sometimes wins her confidence to the extent of being permitted to shake her hand without frightening her, is pretty much the same language which American-born children of her age employ. She likes a nap, too, like other babies, and in the afternoon when the proud father was regretful that she was asleep, but presently when her nap was about finished she was brought out.

Greetings were exchanged, and then she continued to gurgle as she investigated a stack of papers nearby, which movement brought the proud father's attention from his talk of her to a few words of talk to her. "No, no, baby—there now," and a chubby hand grasped one paper, and her eyes were lifted in triumph to the face of the visitor.

She is a real baby, and Atlanta can't help but feel a sympathetic interest in the fact that the youngest Chinese child ever to enter the city, it is also a pleasing thought to the kind-hearted people of the city that this little girl will not be subjected to the foot treatment which at one time characterized the bringing up of the Chinese girl.

ATLANTA JOINT STOCK LAND BANK TO OPEN MONDAY

A. B. Simms Elected President; Robert E. Harvey, Vice President and Treasurer, at Stockholders' Meeting.

LOAN APPLICATIONS NOW TOTAL $500,000

Will Provide Millions for Development of Georgia and Alabama Agricultural Sections.

BY WALTER CHAMBERS, Financial Editor, The Constitution.

A. B. Simms, vice president of the Continental Trust company and one of the most prominent bankers in the southeast was elected president of the Atlanta Joint Stock Land Bank at a meeting of the stockholders in Atlanta Saturday. Robert E. Harvey, prominent local investment securities dealer, was elected vice president and treasurer and F. W. Alcorn, Jr., also of Atlanta, was chosen secretary.

Hollins N. Randolph, general attorney for the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, who was elected to the directorate of Atlanta's and the south's newest financial institution, presented the charter of the institution which has just been received from the secretary of the treasury in Washington.

The bank will open its temporary offices at 201 Hurt building Monday morning, with loan applications totaling more than $500,000 ready to be acted upon immediately.

Other Officers.

Other officers of the institution are L. G. Council, president Plante's Bank of America, Ga., vice president; and R. W. Pruet, president of the Aniston National Bank, Aniston, Ala., vice president.

The bank, it is predicted by the most prominent financiers in Atlanta and elsewhere, will be the greatest boost to southern farmers of any move promulgated in generations. Its object will be to provide funds, through government bonds, for the development of farm lands in Georgia and Alabama, the territory assigned to the local institution by the federal farm loan commissioner in Washington, under whose supervision the bank will operate.

Directors of the institution include many of the most prominent bankers and financiers in Georgia and Alabama. In addition to these, officers and directors in more than 100 banks in the territory are included in the large list of stockholders of the bank. The directors include, besides the officers, W. W. Abbot, president First National Bank, Louisville, Ga., vice director for southeast Georgia; C. K. C. Ausley, capitalist, Bainbridge, Ga.; D. P. Bestor, Jr., president First National Bank, Mobile, Ala.; Gordon Burnett, president Fonce de Leon Ice company, Atlanta; John S. Calhoun, president First National Bank, Cartersville, Ga.; J. H. Ewing, real estate, Atlanta; Edgar T. Gentry, southern manager Farmers' Fund Insurance company, Atlanta; Clyde Hendrix, president Tennessee Valley bank and president Alabama Bankers' association, Decatur, Ala.; Dr. Thomas P. Hinman, capitalist, Atlanta; Hollins N. Randolph, general counsel Atlanta Federal Reserve bank and Atlanta agency finance corporation; E. E. Rivers, Rivers Realty company, Atlanta, Mr. Randolph is also general counsel for the bank.

In an interview issued several days ago, Thomas R. Bennett, state bank superintendent for Georgia, predicted that the bank will produce untold good to the agricultural interests of Georgia and Alabama. He also stated that the stock and securities of the institution should prove excellent investments, as the loans to be made by the bank are approved by appraisers of the government and all bonds issued are government instrumentalities and free from all forms of taxation except inheritance taxes.

Long-Time Loans.

The bank, which will operate under the federal farm loan act, will be enabled to make loans up to a maximum of $50,000 on farm property for terms ranging from five to forty years, repayable on the semi-annual amortization plan. The loans cannot represent more than 50 per cent of the appraised value of the property. The appraisals will be made by federal appraisers, thus insuring the purchase of the property.

The order which applies to government ships operated by the board and under charter to private concerns became effective immediately with respect to vessels in American ports and will be made effective on those at sea and in foreign ports upon their arrival at American ports.

The issuing of the order was the first direct result of the opinion of the attorney general made public yesterday, holding that all vessels, American and foreign-owned, are prohibited under the prohibition amendment act from having liquor on board in American territorial waters and that liquor may not be transported

Kaiser Calls British Offer of Neutrality "Political Maneuver"

Accuses Haldane of Acting as Spy While Apparently Endeavoring to Bring About More Friendly Relations Between Two Countries—Dissatisfied With Bethmann. Comment on Jutland Naval Battle.

Following is the fifteenth of thirty daily installments of the memoirs of Wilhelm Hohenzollern, formerly Kaiser Wilhelm II, of the former German empire. The entire series is copyrighted by The Atlantic Constitution by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, entered at St. James' Hall, London. Publication and translation rights are reserved, including Scandinavian. Reproduction in whole or in part without permission is prohibited by law.

BY WILHELM HOHENZOLLERN (Former Kaiser of Germany) XV.

The fight over the German naval bill grew steadily hotter. I happened at this time to meet at Cuxhaven Dr. von Burchard, president of the Hamburg senate, whom I respected greatly, as he was the very model of an aristocratic citizen of a Hanseatic city, and who had often been consulted by me in political matters. I described to him the entire cause of the affair and the disputes in Berlin as to the introduction or non-introduction of the bill, and asked him then to tell me, with his usual complete frankness, what he thought the right thing to do in the interest of the national welfare, since I greatly desired to hear an objective opinion, uninfluenced by the rival camps of Berlin.

Dr. Burchard replied in his clear, keen, pointed, convincing manner that it was my duty toward the people and the fatherland to stick to the bill; that whoever spoke against its introduction was committing a sin against them; that whatever we thought necessary to our defense must be unconditionally brought into being; that, above all else, we must never permit a foreign country to have the presumption to interfere with us; that the English offer was a feat to make us drop the naval bill; that this must in no circumstances, be allowed; that the German nation would not understand why its rights of self-determination had been sacrificed; that the bill must unquestionably be introduced; that he would work in its favor in the federal council (as indeed he did in a brilliant, compelling speech) and also otherwise press its acceptance in Berlin; that the English would naturally resort to abuse, but that this made no difference, since they had been doing so for a long time; that they certainly would not get into a war for such a cause; that Admiral von Tirpitz was merely doing his duty and fulfilling his obligations, and that I should support him in every way; that the chancellor must give up opposing the measure, otherwise he would run the risk of finally forfeiting public esteem on account of being "pro-English."

Thus spoke the representative of the great commercial city, which was threatened before all others in case of war with England. The genuine Hanseatic spirit inspired his words.

Strangely enough, this opinion of Dr. Burchard concerning the English offer has recently been corroborated to me in Holland by a Dutchman who heard from Englishmen at that time the English point of view. I and Tirpitz guessed right—the offer of neutrality, in case naval expansion was curbed, was a political manoeuvre.

Stage Being Set For DeKalb's Big Birthday Pageant

Essay Contest Rules Announced—Historical Exhibit to Feature 100th Anniversary.

Decatur, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Further steps in preparation for the celebration on November 9 of DeKalb county's 100th anniversary will be announced at a meeting to be held under the auspices of the centennial executive committee in the courthouse Tuesday night.

Committee chairmen will announce plans so far developed for the pageant. The chairmen are Mrs. H. L. Parry, director of the historical pageant; Mrs. J. A. Campbell, chairman of the historical exhibit committee; J. N. Sparling, chairman of the Decatur committee, and Scott Candler and R. C. W. Ramspeck, secretary-manager.

The committee on historical exhibit also includes Mrs. Ralph McClelland, of Stone Mountain; Mrs. Frank Armstrong, of Clarkston; and Mrs. E. H. Wilson, of Decatur. The committee is being further assisted by representative men and women throughout the county.

The exhibit will be held in the courthouse. C. M. Candler and Dr. Andrew Sledz will deliver addresses from the platform on the courthouse square.

Historical Essay Contest.

An interesting feature of the centennial will be the historical essay contest. Six gold medals will be given as prizes. Rules for the contest were announced yesterday. There will actually be two contests—one for the school children of the county in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades and one for the pupils in the ninth, tenth and eleventh grades.

The essays will be judged according to information, form and neatness. Each essay must not exceed 1,000 words. The essays must be written on one side only of uniform theme or typewritten paper.

Subjects may be selected from the following:

First. The naming of the county and its important landmarks. This subject includes side lights on the life and career of Baron DeKalb, time, place and by whom the county was named, names of the streams, such as Snapfinger, Delittle and Do-

Countercharges Of Cheating.

Soon news also came from Ballin that the matter was not going well in England; that, according to information received, a dispute had arisen about the agreement; that there was dissatisfaction with Haldane, who, it was said, had let himself be cheated by Tirpitz. This was plain evidence of the indignation felt because Tirpitz had not walked into the trap and simply let the bill drop, and that Haldane had been unable to serve up the bill to the English cabinet on a platter at tea-time. It is useless to say that there was any "cheating" on Germany's part, but the reproval leveled at Haldane justifies the suspicion that his instructions were that he should seek to "cheat" the Germans. Since his fellow-countrymen thought that the reverse was true, one can but thank Admiral von Tirpitz most sincerely for having correctly ascertained the German standpoint to the benefit of our fatherland.

Toward the end of March the fight about the bill took on such violence that finally the chancellor, on the 23d, asked me for his dismissal as a step out of the vault in the Charlottenburg park. After long consultation and after I had told him Dr. Burchard's view, the chancellor withdrew his request.

When, some time afterward, I paid a visit to Herr von Bethmann in his garden, I found him quite overcome and holding in his hand a message from London. It contained the entire disavowal of the verbal note delivered by Cassel, the withdrawal of the offer of neutrality, as well as of every other offer, and at the end of the advice that I should not dismiss Herr von Bethmann from the imperial chancellorship since he enjoyed to a marked degree the confidence of the British government.

Tears of anger shone in the eyes of the chancellor, thus badly deceived in his hopes; the praise accorded to him by a foreign government with which Germany and he had just had such painful experiences, hurt him deeply.

"In the manuscript as received by The Constitution the words 'should not' are omitted, and the passage reads that England advised Bethmann's dismissal from the chancellorship. This seems to be a clerical error. It appears not only from Tirpitz's book, but from the ex-kaiser's own Comparative Historical Tables published last year, that the recommendation, in whatever form or language, was really that Bethmann be retained, as given in the amended text above. Haldane while in Berlin had got the impression that Bethmann was likely to be dismissed in the dispute over the naval bill and replaced by Tirpitz, which probably explains the British action.

ATTENDANCE MARK IS SET BY EMORY

1,494 on 1922 Roll—Lack of Dormitory Facilities Is Big Problem of School.

Despite crowded conditions which have caused many students to be turned away, the Emory university enrollment for the year 1922 now totals 1,494, an increase of 337 over 1921, according to figures announced Saturday by President H. W. Cox. The freshman class this fall has 260 members.

Comparative figures prepared by Dr. Cox show that the enrollment at Emory has been trebled during the last five years, one of the most remarkable growths in the history of any educational institution. Total registration in all departments in the fall of 1917 was only 452, as compared with the present student body of nearly 1,500.

Enrollment by schools for the present year is as follows: college of liberal arts, 452; school of business administration, 91; graduate school, 11; school of medicine, 214; school of theology, 60; school of law, 60; summer school, 389; extension department, 64. Total enrollment for the last six years have been: 1917, 452; 1918, 534; 1919, 958; 1920, 1,020; 1921, 1,157; 1922, 1,494.

The remarkable increase between 1918 and 1919 was due to the fact that during this time the entire university was located on the new campus in the Druid Hills section of Atlanta. Since then the Methodist institution has grown by leaps and bounds until today the biggest problem which confronts the trustees is that of providing increased facilities to accommodate hundreds of other students who are clamoring for admission.

Two new buildings of instruction, the Wesley Memorial hospital and the school of education, are now nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by the end of the year. Although these structures will relieve the crowded administrative quarters, there will still be a shortage of dormitory space. Until additional dormitories can be constructed, more than half of the student body will be forced to reside off the campus.

ENGINEERS TO MEET AT MONDAY LUNCHEON

The regular monthly luncheon meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held at the Wine-off hotel on Monday at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be a special speaking program.

Runaway Girl Kidnaping Is Laid Becomes Nurse To Former Spouse In Salvation Army Of Missing Bride Becomes Converted While Being Cared for in Emergency Home.

She was the little girl who came from the country and made good. Her name was Mary and she was from a small Carolina town. She came to Atlanta because she could not get along with her step-father and she felt confident that she could make her way in the big city.

When she arrived in Atlanta she had only 75 cents. But she was a perfect "little lady" so she walked majestically out of the Terminal and beckoned to a cab-driver.

Mary was determined to "make good." She had heard of the Salvation Army, so she directed the driver to carry her there. And to Ensign Eunice McCrae, Atlanta relief officer of the army, she told her story.

Mary was given a home in the emergency home of the army and the next morning she went out and found herself a job. She worked regularly and came home at night to study and make herself more efficient, with the result that before two months had passed she had received as many raises in salary.

Then came a message that her mother was ill and they needed her at home. In the meantime, she had knelt at the altar in the army chapel. Her new sense of duty enabled her to forget herself in her sense of duty and she went back home.

And after a long time there she wrote Ensign McCrae that her parents had agreed for her to enter the nursing school of the army. She is now in the Booth Memorial hospital at Lexington, Ky. When she finishes her three-years' work there she will enter the officers' training school of the army in New York. Then she will become an officer in the social division of the army.

MARINES ENTERTAIN HOMELESS CHILDREN

Twenty homeless children from the receiving home of the Georgia Children's society, Ormwood Court, will be guests of the United States marine corps at an all-day outing Monday at Piedmont park.

With a desire to give a few moments of pleasure to the homeless little ones, Captain George Bower, of the marines, will try to make every minute of the outing a real treat for the kiddies. They will be carried from the home in the large truck of the marines early in the morning, and at Piedmont park games will be staged for them. Refreshments will later be served, and the children will be taken for a tour of the city. They will then be carried to a downtown theater.

Says Wife Elopel With Man She Divorced to Marry Him.

Moultrie, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Like Pitts today swore out warrants for Kennelaw Findley, M. C. Bryson and Guy Hartley, charging them with kidnapping his bride of three months. Findley is a former husband of Mrs. Pitts. Bryson has surrendered, coming in from his home in the country upon learning that he was wanted. He denied any knowledge of the case.

A relative of Pitts said today that Mrs. Pitts left her husband a note in which she said she was leaving with her former husband and "there is no need for you to try to find me." Pitts had been hunting. He discovered his wife was gone upon his return home.

Mrs. Pitts filed suit for divorce against Findley while visiting here. At that time she lived in Detroit. She alleged extreme cruelty. A few weeks after getting her final decree she married Pitts, suitor of hers prior to her first marriage. Findley and Hartley still live in Detroit, but are said to have come to Moultrie a few days ago.

Mrs. Pitts is about 18 and is a strikingly handsome woman. Her parents live near Moultrie.

Praises Newspapers For Assistance Given In "Pay-Up" Movement

Expressing gratitude for their timely co-operation in presenting the need for prompt payments of pledges to the Christian education movement, Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, secretary of education for the north Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in a statement Saturday, warmly praised the press for its aid in the movement.

"The newspapers all over the state have been exceedingly generous to us," asserted Dr. Dempsey. "Through the broad-sighted policy of looking at affairs in larger aspects, the press has brought out the humane and patriotic values of the work."

"It is an undeniable fact that America must find a way to spiritualize her education or her education will materialize the nation. The Christian education movement is not only in the interest of education but in behalf of the young manhood and young womanhood of Georgia."

"Many payments are rapidly being made both by the individual subscriber and by the local church workers known as 'church collectors.'" Bishop Edwin D. Monzon, president of the board of education which is fostering the movement, issued last week a strong "pay up appeal" to those having subscribed to the movement with pledges.

EXPERIENCE OFFICIALS ON ENTANGLED MURDER PROBE

Mexicali, Lower California, October 7.—Official silence was continued today concerning the belated advice received here last night of the mutiny of the men of the twenty-ninth battalion and their desertion to the revolutionary forces of General Juan Carrasco.

Governor Innocente Lugo, of the northern district of Lower California, made no pronouncement concerning the mutiny nor his recent conference at Hermosillo, Sonora, with General P. Elias Calles, of President Obregon's cabinet.

According to the delayed reports, the alleged mutiny occurred almost simultaneously with the recent outbreak at Juarez, Chihuahua, and with rumors of other plottings in Lower California.

The twenty-ninth battalion was sent from Mexicali to La Bamba on the coast of the peninsula, and from that point was to go on the transport Bonita to Mazatlan, on the Mexican mainland. After boarding the Bonita, it was reported, the men forced the captain to land at Santa Maria, on the coast of Sinaloa. They were alleged to have killed those of their officers who refused to join them and to have thrown the bodies into the sea. Then they began their march to join Carrasco.

Forty-five men of the band of the twenty-ninth, kept on duty here when the remainder of the battalion was started for Mazatlan and later placed under official detention, were reported still under surveillance today.

Bonar Law Letter Upholds British Policy in East

London, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—A sensation has been caused by a letter from Andrew Bonar Law, upholding the British government's attitude in the Near East crisis, which has given conspicuous publicity in all the London newspapers today.

The pronouncement is widely held to be equivalent to a direct threat to draw down the British troops from the Rhine and completely terminate the entente unless France comes into line with the British policy in the Near East.

It is surmised that the cabinet members, especially Prime Minister Lloyd George and Colonial Secretary Balfour, had been told that the British public were tired of the launching of this utterance at the moment of Foreign Secretary Curzon's mission to Paris.

"We are at the straits and Constantinople," says the letter, "not by our own action alone but by the will of the allied powers, which won the war, and America is one of those powers."

"We cannot alone at the moment of the peace of the world. Our policy is to be a policy of peace, not of war, and we shall be unable to support the burden alone but we shall have to share it with the government of the United States and restrict our attention to safeguarding the more immediate interests of the empire."

The general opinion of the newspapers is that the letter is timely and commendable.

The Daily Express says that Bonar Law's intervention has "saved the country from war" by the British public over him a deep debt of gratitude.

APPEAL TO AMERICA

Athens, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Twenty-eight Greek Christian deputies of Thrace in the Greek national assembly have called President Hardin and the American congress seeking protection for the Greek, Armenian and other Christian populations in eastern Thrace, should that area be turned over to the Turks.

The Christians of Thrace, says the message, are in a state of consternation over the probable terms of the Madania armistice, whereby eastern Thrace will be restored to Turkey.

"They are under no illusion of the fate awaiting them if this iniquitous decision is carried out, and they urge the message, 'for no paper guarantee will insure fulfillment of any Turkish promises, and the Kemalists make no secret of their determination to wipe out the Christian populations under Turkish rule by massacre, exile and deportation.'

The deputies protest against such a decision and denounce it as "a reproach on Christian civilization and the most glaring act of international injustice and bad faith in modern history."

LAST REFUGEES LEAVING SMYRNA.

Washington, October 7.—Vice Consul Barnes at Smyrna reported to the state department that the evacuation of refugees from Smyrna had been completed except for 500 who are to embark tomorrow.

Since the first evacuation of 222,000 refugees had embarked and of these 180,000 were cared for by American naval forces and American relief workers, the latter were assisted by British naval forces.

Civil government authorities at Smyrna were said to be functioning effectively with order re-established.

NEAR EAST RELIEF REPORTS.

New York, October 7.—The Near East relief announced today that it has approximately $350,000 in food-stuffs, medical supplies and other relief supplies for the relief of the refugees from Smyrna and adjacent regions.

According to estimates, furnished the New York Times, the number of workers in the Smyrna region, there are approximately half a million refugees to be cared for.

H. C. Jaquith, managing director of the Near East relief, reported in a cablegram today that over-crowding of receiving centers for the Smyrna victims was getting worse and worse.

W. K. Klutz, in charge of work in Salonika, that there were 50,000 refugees there badly in need of attention.

There are 8,000 refugees at Alexandria and 2,000 at Latakia, facing this winter with apparently no adequate provisions for food or shelter, according to a cablegram from Beirut.

The message also stated that there are more than 5,000 Armenian around Kessab and 30,000 settling in Aleppo.

Armenian and Palestine, the cable said, are in a state of confusion, and refugees are being driven from their homes.

Washington, October 7.—Eight "big business" men, all enrolled in the government service on a "dollar-a-year" salary basis, have been in conference with army and navy officials here today, working out details of post-war plans for the mobilization of ordnance manufacturing plants in any future war.

The group is composed of the chief executives of the following firms: J. C. Jones, chief of the Philadelphia district; Fred J. Robinson, chief of the New York district; M. E. Stevens, chief of the Chicago district; C. H. Tenney, chief of the Boston district.

Ordinance officials hope to set up through this means a permanent and effective organization for the mobilization of the government of the United States and restrict our attention to safeguarding the more immediate interests of the empire.

The theory of the ordnance department is creating these civilian chiefs is that all available plants in each district will be under jurisdiction of the district chief, who will keep constantly in touch with plant owners and arrange an agreement with them for the prompt utilization of the plants for munition making in the event of war.

MAY CIRCLE WORLD BY MOTOR BUS SOON

Washington, October 7.—Around the world by motor bus.

This, according to the automotive division of the department of commerce, soon may become an actuality.

The world-wide trip, which is to be a tour of inspection, is being planned by the automotive transportation system which in time may replace the globe.

Already, according to reports reaching Washington, motor buses are seriously cutting into railway profits on the continent, while within the United States they are being reported from Geneva, Damascus, Aden, Melbourne, and London, Ontario, to New York.

Very frequently people call up to get some information not given in the advertise-

MINISTER CLEARED OF MURDER CHARGE

Found Not Guilty at Second Trial, After Earlier Conviction.

Hot Springs, Ark., October 7.—Rev. Harding M. Hughes, superannuated minister, tonight was found not guilty of a charge of being an accomplice to murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Anne McKenney, aged reclus, in Montgomery county last year. On his first trial of a charge Mr. Hughes was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, later being granted a new trial.

CONDITIONS VARY AMONG EUROPEAN NATIONS IN TRADE

Washington, October 7.—Varying economic conditions in Europe were noted in reports from its representatives abroad, made public today by the commerce department. Business in Great Britain was said to be quiet, industrial activity was reported to be reviving in Italy, while in France business was declared to be picking up in practically all lines.

Professional Aid Offered by Burglar To Kind Benefactress

Sausalito, Cal., October 7.—Two months ago Mrs. Edith Spreckels Wakefield, society matron here, found a burglar in her kitchen. Instead of summoning an officer of the law, she insisted on giving the intruder a good meal and a check for $150.

Today Mrs. Wakefield made public a letter from the intruder in which he offered "to go the limit" for her, and suggested that he was the best "second story" man who ever wore a "jimmy."

SOUTHEASTERN FAIR READY FOR OPENING

to the fair patrons. Featuring the great entertainment program will be the thoroughbred racing which will this year take the place of the Grand Circuit sport. Several hundred running horses have already had space reserved for them at the grounds and they are to come to Atlanta from the biggest tracks in the country.

Automobile races will be offered for the first three days of the exposition and a large number of famous drivers with fast mounts have been entered. There will be six events a day and eight entries for each event.

Midway Attractions.

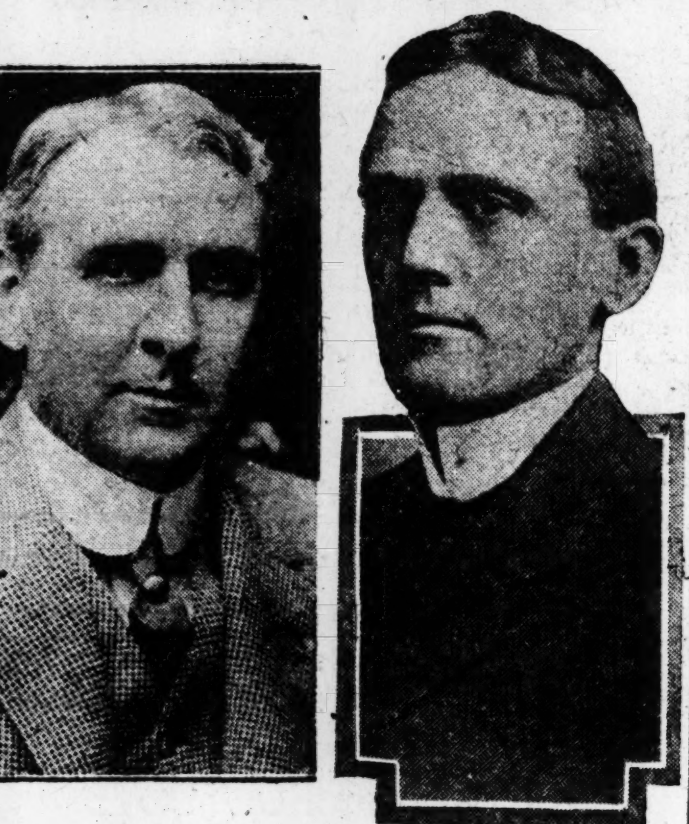

Johnny J. Jones Exposition shows have been engaged for the midway, and they will arrive Monday and will open up for business Tuesday before the fair opens on Thursday. The Jones shows have the greatest aggregation of midway attractions that has ever been presented on the Southeastern fair grounds.

A great pageant will be presented by the school children of Atlanta on the first three nights of the fair. "Be Fit America" is the name given to this spectacle. Embracing educational and entertainment features that are completely interwoven the great pageant will be vitally instructive to the young people who will be given the opportunity to play a big part in the staging of their own fair.

Fireworks will be given every night and the free acts, headed by Carver's famous diving horse, "Kistawh," will begin on Monday following the opening Thursday.

Men Who Will Direct Policy Of South's Newest Bank

FORMER CONVICT IS FOUND SLAIN IN CHICAGO ALLEY

Chicago, October 7.—The bullet-riddled body of George W. Heller, notorious police character, was found by police in an alley here today.

Heller had five bullet holes in his back, inflicted, police believe, by one of his enemies in the underworld.

Heller was convicted in 1906 for the murder of a man in a saloon in the same district in which his body was found today.

He was sent to Joliet and released in 1920 when, according to police, he returned to his old haunts, where he is alleged to be a leader among gangsters.

$500,000 IN LIQUOR SEIZED BY RAIDERS

New York, October 7.—Colonel William Haywood, United States attorney, and John D. Appleby, zone prohibition chief, personally led a raid Friday night in which champagne, whisky and alcohol valued at $500,000 were seized.

The liquor was found in secret compartments in a basement of the Standard Carpet company on the east side. The agents dug through walls two feet thick to reach the cache.

Part of the alcohol, according to the agents, was identified as having been taken from a government warehouse on false custom house permits last May.

ATLANTA JOINT STOCK LAND BANK OPENS

chaser of the bonds which will be issued to provide funds, a thoroughly safeguarded investment.

The security of the investment will further enhance the value of the annual payments which will gradually decrease the loan made on the property, while on the other hand, the money advanced is expected to increase the value of the property through enabling the farmers to improve the soil, buy machinery and otherwise increase their production and to learn the value of diversification through raising a greater number of farm products as well as stock and other additional sources of revenue.

The Atlanta bank has an authorized capital of $2,500,000. It began operation Monday with $250,000 capital and $50,000 surplus paid in. This surplus was paid in order to place the bank on an earlier dividend basis as the government requires a surplus of 20 per cent before the institution can pay a dividend.

Two outstanding features point to a tremendous success of the Atlanta bank. The first is that within 45 days after Mr. Simms resigned as vice president of the Fulton National bank to start organization of the new institution, the necessary capital and surplus were in hand. This illustrates both the economic value of the institution for the service it will render, as well as showing the manner in which it had been received by bankers and financiers throughout the territory.

The second outstanding feature of the local institution is that before its charter had been received, and while the organization was still in its early stages, it was admitted to membership in the National Association of Joint Stock Land Banks, and both Mr. Simms and Mr. Harvey were designated as representatives of the new institution.

Mr. Harvey is a member of the finance and publicity committee of the national association.

Although a number of the joint stock land banks have been organized since the act was passed by congress, the plan of the Atlanta institution is destined to be one of the most successful institutions thus far organized, especially in its early stages, according to a letter Mr. Simms has received from Guy S. Houston, president of the Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank, and also president of the national association.

Business Men.

This was due to the policy of securing the representative bankers and business men in each community as stockholders, writes Mr. Houston. This policy, he adds, not only attracts the interest of a much greater number of people throughout the territory, but also assures the development of the territory as a whole.

"An additional feature of the plan," said Mr. Simms, in discussing the opening, "is that we have selected our local correspondents each of the 100 towns in which our stock has been placed, largely among the officers of the banks. This will not only enable us to be assured of conservative estimates in making our loans, but also enables us to secure the co-operation of our correspondents and stockholders in keeping these funds in the south by interesting investors throughout the territory in the bonds, which will be issued to provide funds for the development of our agricultural resources."

Enforce Present Parking Laws Before Making More, Says Pioneer Car Dealer

Non-Parking Restrictions Will Add to Congestion. Present Laws Sufficient If Enforced.

BY JOHN E. SMITH.
One of Atlanta's Best-Known and Oldest Car Dealers.

At present traffic conditions are worse than usual on account of Marietta and Decatur streets being closed, as this important artery is practically impassable now and this adds greatly to congestion in the center of town, since the traffic usually divided among Ivy, Pryor, Cone and Spring streets is carried to an unusual degree on Peachtree, Broad and Forsyth streets.

When this repairing is finished this situation will clear up considerably, but present there is a suggestion to increase the non-parking area. Let us bear in mind that parking is now prohibited between 4:30 and 7 p. m. in the area now proposed as non-parking. If the present ordinance cannot be enforced and the streets cleared between 4:30 and 7 p. m., how do you propose to keep them clear all day? Enforce the present laws before making others.

Cars Go 'Round and 'Round.

An interesting fact in this connection is that where parking is prohibited in a restricted shopping district, that traffic is actually more congested, due to drivers cruising around the block and killing time waiting for passengers. The enterprising Atlanta Motor club has shown the way to control parking on Luckie street and this plan should be carried out all over the city.

The planning commission, Mayor

Key and Mayor-Elect Sims all agree that there is only one remedy for traffic congestion and that is to provide more arteries. Viaducts at Pryor street and Central avenue, the paving of Courtland street and Piedmont avenue, the completion of Spring street are badly needed improvements and Atlanta must have them to accommodate her growing population.

Re-route Certain Trolleys.

The street car company has done splendid work in establishing and operating safety zones and expediting traffic in general, but I think the car company should look to the future and endeavor to provide other routes than the three now used for north and south traffic. If all automobiles were removed from the streets, there would still be a jam of street cars. Think what this jam will amount to in another five years with Atlanta growing as she has always grown.

Additional north and south lines are imperative with a system of cross-town lines to feed them. It might be suggested that the layout of the street car system might be re-designed for the present needs of our city. A few minor changes would help immediately: for instance the Marietta, Ga., and River cars could be turned back on Walton or Cone street and not turned into Forsyth as at present to block traffic on a vital artery. The same is true of the Decatur and Stone Mountain cars; they could be turned back on Ivy and Pryor street, another vital artery for north-bound traffic.

As M. D. H. Straus so well said recently, it takes traffic and crowds to make a city. Any laws that will tend to make Atlanta resemble a cemetery ought to be carefully avoided.

THORP & KNIGHT WILL DISTRIBUTE THE GRAY

Prominent Florida Dealers Get Georgia Contract for New Gray Car.

S. J. Thorp and John C. Knight, of Miami, Fla., have secured the Georgia and Florida franchise for the Gray car, made in Detroit, and have opened offices, sales rooms, service stations and parts depots in Atlanta, Jacksonville and Miami.

The firm name is Thorp & Knight. Messrs. Thorp and Knight have been associated together in the automobile business in Florida for the past ten years, and for the past seven years have been Miami dealers for Ford.

Mr. Knight is a brother of J. T. Knight, district manager of the Howe Rubber company, and one of the best known southern tire officials. Both Messrs. Thorp and Knight are well known in financial and business circles, as well as in the automobile field. Mr. Knight was formerly chairman of the city service board of Miami. He is at present a director in the Exchange bank, of Miami, and with Mr. Thorp, own the Hotel Tamiami, at Miami. Mr. Thorp is vice-president of the Exchange Bank. Mr. Knight states that Gray dealerships will be opened in Georgia cities as rapidly as their production of 75 cars a day can be increased to warrant new dealers being appointed. Recent assurances of immediate increase in deliveries warrants, according to Mr. Knight, the acceptance of a few dealerships in the near future, and applications are now being accepted for exclusive territory franchises.

"The Gray is a four-cylinder car developing 40-horse-power, with all driving conveniences, and characterized throughout by fine engineering," says Mr. Knight. "It is produced on a quantity basis, but to accuracy standards that give it unusually high rating for performance."

"The car is built by the Gray Motor corporation of Detroit, and is the most complete car on the market, the touring car weighing only 1,650 pounds. It goes over rough roads with ease, sliding gear transmission, ventilating windshield, and demountable rims—all the comfort features for driving. The body has deep cushions, ample leg room, and a spring suspension that assures riding qualities not matched in other cars of this class."

"The Gray sales and service rooms are at 230 Peachtree street, where touring models are on exhibition. Complete facilities are provided for servicing cars on the quantity basis so good a car merits."

Motor Tire Company Buys Fleet of Chevrolet Service Cars

The Motor Tire company has just purchased a fleet of Chevrolet four-ninety service trucks for use of their road service men. Mr. Holt states that he has standardized on Chevrolet cars for this work. A portion of the fleet to be used by this company is shown above.

BRIGMAN URGES USE OF GENUINE PARTS

"Much of the dissatisfaction that arises when motor cars and trucks are repaired," according to J. A. Brigman, distributor for the Federal Motor Truck company, "is directly traceable to the use of parts not made by the manufacturer of the vehicle."

"During the past few years thousands of 'Just As Good' parts makers have foisted upon the automobile market great quantities of cheaply made parts of a very doubtful quality. These imitation parts find favor only among unscrupulous 'get-rich-quick' repairmen who install them instead of genuine parts, reaping a much larger profit because they charge the same service fee that they would legitimately be entitled to if they used genuine parts."

Mr. Brigman is not alone in his stand against the use of spurious or imitation parts. Practically all of the leading car and truck manufacturers have sounded warnings from time to time against the use of any except genuine parts in repairing motor cars or trucks.

"The Federal Motor Truck company is devoting serious thought to the eradication of this evil among its own truck owners. This company has always placed the lowest possible price on its repair and spare parts. It feels confident that accurate and genuine parts cannot be manufactured for less than it manufactures and supplies its own parts. Maintaining a fair price on its own parts, the company believes that it is entirely justified in insisting that its dealers use only Federal parts in repairing Federal trucks."

Pennies saved are not pennies earned, says Mr. Brigman, "when it comes to buying truck or automobile parts. I believe that every manufacturer of cars and trucks is selling parts as cheaply as he can and still maintain the quality and accuracy so essential to perfect satisfaction when repair work is done. If some other parts maker sells parts more cheaply than the manufacturer does, you can rest assured that their quality is lower or their accuracy in doubt. Whatever car or truck you own, when it needs repair—the best economy is to buy parts only from the manufacturer or from some legitimate maker specified by the manufacturer."

AUTOMOBILE MEN CHANGE OCTOBER MEETING PROGRAM

The educational committee of the Atlanta Automobile association, of which B. F. Ulmer is chairman, have made several changes relative to the next regular monthly membership meeting.

In the past all membership meetings have been accompanied and preceded by a dinner in the evening, the program following. For the meeting on October 18, the dinner feature will be omitted and the members will assemble at 7:30 o'clock at the town hall, chamber of commerce, for the purpose of hearing an educational program outlined by the educational committee for this meeting.

In addition to the officers and department heads who, normally attend the monthly membership meetings, a general invitation will be extended to the employees of the members. The association is endeavoring to render a distinct service to the employees of the members in a series of educational talks. These talks will include discussions of salesmanship, management and service. The membership campaign recently put on by the association resulted in quite a number of new members. The growth of the association has been steady since January 1, increasing from 48 to 110.

Mark Parking Area, Enforce Parking Laws and Increase Speed to Solve Traffic Jam

Editor Motors and Highway Department.

Automobile dealers and other local business men, have been almost unanimous in commending the articles on the traffic situation, which appeared in this department Sunday, October 1.

These articles, in brief, favored identifying parking areas, so that one might know just what the restrictions are. It being contended that if these were done, violations would be so greatly reduced that the present police force could rigidly enforce the ordinances now in effect, and that if enforced, present regulations will sufficiently relieve traffic, until such time as more arteries can be opened.

2. Revising speed regulations so that the 12-mile limit will be confined to the area embraced in the inner fire limits at the time the ordinance was passed.

The suggestion being offered that change of limit from 12 to 15 miles per hour in this zone, would move traffic more effectively, without sacrificing safety.

The local automobile men, and other business men, who feel an interest in the car owner were responsible largely for the opinions set forth in these articles, and they have warmly commended the motors and highways department of The Constitution for making their plans known.

An unsolicited signed article by John E. Smith, one of Atlanta's best known and oldest automobile dealers, appears on this page. Mr. Smith brings out several very pertinent points, among which are that non-parking increases congestion, through the fact that in many cases, cars that are not permitted to park are kept constantly in motion in the non-parking and congested area, while waiting for others to stop or attend to other business.

Another valuable point brought out by Mr. Smith, is that Marietta and Decatur street cars add greatly to the congestion by making their final loop on Forsyth and Pryor streets, respectively. Mr. Smith suggests that rerouting of street cars, could probably be made that would relieve congestion without inconveniencing the railway company or its passengers to any appreciable extent. In addition to these suggestions, Mr. Smith fully agrees with other members of the automobile fraternity that present parking and one-way street regulations are sufficient if enforced, and commends the motor club for its work in marking parking areas, so that enforcement of parking regulations is greatly simplified.

Lon Credelle, vice president of the Atlanta Automobile association, representing the equipment division of the association, and one of the best known local dealers, in an interview, also published on this page today, voices the opinion in no uncertain terms, that present laws are sufficient and that more drastic regulations will greatly reduce the business done by downtown retail merchants of every class and unnecessarily inconvenience the car owner.

The report states that among the subjects which the committee on legislation will consider are corporation laws of Georgia. In the past few years, it adds, studies have been made with the plan in mind to prepare a book on these laws, but they were found to be in such chaotic condition that material changes which must soon be made would destroy the value of such a book.

Because of this condition, it is declared, many business institutions have been, and still are being, incorporated under the laws of other states. Many states in the union have such definite, logical and comprehensive laws as to make it advisable for large businesses to become incorporated under such laws, rather than under the inharmonious, inadequate and uncertain laws of Georgia, it is stated.

"If Georgia had a proper code of corporation laws, many businesses, even those outside of Georgia, would be inclined to use Georgia charters," said Mr. Watkins. "This would increase the business enterprises of Georgia and would add materially to our state income from corporations, but more than this, and more valuable than this, would be the fact that Georgia corporations would have their rights clearly, definitely and comprehensively stated. Our committee expects the full co-operation of Georgia business men in preparation of this suggested revision of our corporation laws, and we hope to make a complete report in ample time for full consideration before the next meeting of the legislature."

Drastic Non-Parking and One-Way Laws Will Hurt Atlanta Merchants, Says Lon Credelle

Present Laws, If Enforced, Will Relieve Congestion as Effectively as More Drastic Measures.

Drastic non-parking and one way street ordinances, if enacted and enforced, will greatly reduce volume of business done by all class of downtown retail stores, in the opinion of Lon Credelle, well-known automobile equipment dealer at 21 Auburn avenue.

"If one can not reach downtown stores with an automobile it will unquestionably reduce the volume of business done by all retail merchants in the sections affected. Of course, during the peak hours it is necessary to clear the main arteries so that traffic may move more quickly, and it was with this in view that the present parking laws were drafted. If these laws are enforced—and they can be if some means of marking and posting these streets is inaugurated—the congestion will be relieved as effectively as it is possible to be accomplished, without the opening of more arteries parallel to those now greatly congested."

"The Atlanta Motor club deserves commendation for their work in connection with marking and posting the streets, for this is a move in the direction of making present parking regulations effective and sufficient. But, their plan for drastic non-parking and one-way streets will unquestionably be detrimental to business, and to the interests of the car owners."

"The owner of an automobile is entitled to the use of his car, and the downtown merchant paying heavy rent and taxes is entitled to laws that will permit customers to reach their places of business, at least during the hours when traffic is the lightest without the necessity of hiring a chauffeur to keep the car 'moving' while making small purchases."

"A car parked for a limited time congests traffic to a lesser extent than if the chauffeur keeps driving around the block, and that is just what will happen if parking is not permitted."

"If the present laws governing the time, position and place of parking are enforced they are sufficient. At least, they should be given a trial before passing other laws."

"More arteries are needed and they must be provided if Atlanta is to grow and prosper, but until this is done, the present laws if enforced will best serve the interests of the city as a whole."

"Enforcing the present laws will be quite a simple matter, if some plan of properly marking parking, limited parking and non-parking streets as provided in present regulations, is devised and adopted," says Mr. Credelle, who has given no little time and thought to the local traffic situation.

SPEAKERS ADDED TO AUTOMOBILE MEN'S PROGRAM

Additions to the speakers' program for the monthly meeting of the Atlanta Automobile association scheduled for October 8, were announced Saturday.

What service means to the automobile dealer will be discussed by W. H. Langmaid, service manager of the Buick Motor company.

C. V. Hohenstein, former secretary of the Atlanta Automobile association, will speak on the selection of salesmen, and the used car problem will be covered by A. F. Hill of the A. F. Hill Jr. company.

The program committee of the association has completed the details of the plans and say that every phase of the automobile industry will be covered by the speakers for the evening.

Prior Tire Company Will Move to Home On Spring Street

The Prior Tire company has secured a long lease on one of the new Spring street stores and have announced that on December first they will move from 28 N. Pryor street to their new and larger home on the corner of Spring and Harris streets.

"The growth of our business has been such in the past two years, that it has become absolutely imperative that we seek larger quarters, in order to care for our patrons," said Sam E. Levey, in discussing the move.

ulations effective and sufficient. But, their plan for drastic non-parking and one-way streets will unquestionably be detrimental to business, and to the interests of the car owners."

PRICE REDUCTION MADE ON TRUBLPRUF TIRES

Walker Brothers company, at 70 Edgewood avenue, who are distributors of "Trublpruf" tires, state the factory has just now given a 20 per cent reduction from former prices.

This reduction is due to the fact that the business has grown so rapidly that the increased output enables them to manufacture the tires at less cost, and the factory proposes to pass this saving to the hundreds of satisfied users.

"Run 10,000 miles, and not a puncture or blowout. That is what Lumber's 'Trublpruf' tires are guaranteed to do," says George Walker.

"Trublpruf tires have no inner tubes, yet they feel and act like pneumatic tires, and these tires seem to fill a long felt want of the users of light cars and commercial trucks, where punctures cause delays and great expense."

Their new home will be about twice as large as the one occupied at present and will be equipped to handle all kinds of tire business, including a modern vulcanizing plant.

They will continue to handle Howd tires in the Atlanta retail territory, and a line of accessories and equipment.

Abe Goldstein, who is associated with Mr. Levey in the business, is equally enthusiastic over the move, and both believe that their new home in the automobile section will prove advantageous.

ESSEX

Has a New Price Advantage

The new Essex prices must appeal to all buyers.

They get more for their money today than ever before. Actual price comparisons make the advantage unmistakably plain.

Call to mind those cars you may consider in the Essex quality class. Then look at the prices. Are any within hundreds of dollars of the Essex price?

In reaching a standard by which to understand Essex values you must consider such price contrasts as well as facts bearing on performance and reliability. Such examination will convince you of the overwhelming advantage Essex holds.

HAIR ONLY CLEW IN MURDER PROBE

Phoenix, Ariz., October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—A single, long dark hair—said to be a clue to the murder of John Montgomery and his deputies—was found in the body of Guy Derner, who was found floating in the Arizona canal the afternoon of September 12.

This hair, carefully stored in an envelope in the sheriff's safe, was found clinging to one of Derner's socks shortly after his body was found. It was the only thing found about Derner's effects that did not belong to him, said the sheriff today.

Sheriff Montgomery today returned from a tour of towns in the southeast part of the state in connection with the case. Deputy Sheriff Bell returned from Los Angeles.

"There are perhaps twenty men who would have had a motive for killing Derner," said Sheriff Montgomery today. "He lived a dual life. His friends were to be found in all strata of society, from the top to the dregs. To say that this man or that man, especially at this time, is the man who killed Guy Derner, would be foolish. In all of our investigations we are constantly finding evidence of Derner's affairs with women—many women, not one or two—and the investigations have led us all over this state and into California."

"We have discovered that the side of Derner's life connected with the underworld was unknown to his friends of respectable society. As far as narrowing down our suspicions is concerned, it amounts to just this—Derner might have been killed by a jealous husband or he might have died by the hands of some woman's paramour."

All officials unite in denying the reported charge made by E. T. Derner, brother of the dead man, in Chicago that the investigation of Derner's death was being snatched.

"You may say for me," said the sheriff, "that I shall continue my investigations and when I have something of any real importance to announce, I shall announce it."

Zion City Overseer Defendant in Suit To Reopen School

Chicago, October 7.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion City, restrained by an injunction yesterday from erecting further signboards in his religious war with independent churches and unbelievers in his Christian apostolic doctrine, has been made defendant in a suit to have a school reopened.

The petitioners asserted that Voliva closed the school to force those not of his faith to either leave the city or send their children to Voliva's private schools. It was said that Voliva's offers would be enriched by tuition fees if the pupils attend his schools or that he would gain their parents' property cheaply if they left Zion.

Emory University Glee Club Plans Cuban Concert

First American College Musical Organization to Sing on Foreign Soil.

BY RAYMOND B. NIXON.
For the first time in the annals of American college musical organizations, the Emory university Glee club next December will invade the island of Cuba for a holiday engagement in the Havana opera house.

Announcement of plans for the winter trip was made Saturday by Dr. M. H. Dewey, director of the club. The trip will last 21 days, beginning December 21, and will include 16 Florida and Georgia points in addition to the novelty of a foreign engagement.

It was the reputation gained by the Emory organization in recent years as "the greatest glee club in the south" that prompted Havana music lovers to request a performance in that metropolis during the tourist season. As a trip down the Florida east coast was already being planned, the offer of Havana was accepted.

The complete trip, according to Dr. Dewey, will include the following engagements: Milledgeville, December 21; Savannah, December 22; St. Augustine, December 23; Jacksonville, December 25; Daytona, December 26; West Palm Beach, December 27; Miami, December 28; Key West, December 29; Havana, December 30 to January 1; Tampa, January 3; Lakeland, January 4; Orlando, January 5; Tallahassee, January 6; Valdosta, January 8; Macon, January 9.

The Cuban trip will give the Emory University Glee club the distinction of being the only American college musical organization that has visited Havana, and one of the few that have ever played on foreign soil. It is really Emory's second pilgrimage to a foreign country, because the director of the club, Dr. M. H. Dewey, and a quartet of singers toured Europe this summer to gain ideas for the new season's program.

Following the competitive eliminations held at the opening of school, two rehearsals weekly are now being given the singers to prepare for the series of concerts. Forty men have been selected from more than 150 candidates to compose the initial glee club squad. Approximately 20 of these, including the orchestra and mandolin club, will be taken on the Havana trip.

Officers of the club for the season are: Dr. M. H. Dewey, president; John Knox, business manager; James Dombrowsky, assistant manager; Raymond Nixon, vice president; Elbert Penby, secretary; Clarence Sharpe. Members of the squad will be announced later.

In recent years the Emory Glee club has come to be recognized as one of the leading male choruses in America. Two of its soloists, J. Foster Barnes, baritone, and Byron H. Warner, tenor, are said to have received grand opera offers.

Good Measure.

Reasons Given for Naming New Schools of Atlanta

BY W. W. GAINES.

President of the Board of Education.
The people of Atlanta will doubtless be interested in the reasons which led the board of education to give the new schools now being erected the names they did. I will try to do this briefly.

Bernard Mallon, for whom the new senior high school for girls was named, was the first superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, and held the position some seven years. We are told that he was the father of the girls' high school idea, as the original layout of the system for the city did not include a girls' high school. He was greatly beloved by the people of the city, particularly the school children. His monument in Oakland cemetery was erected by the school children of the city, the inscription so indicating.

Henry W. Grady, for whom the senior high school for boys was named, was, of course, our great Atlanta editor, orator and patriot. It was felt that one of our greatest educational institutions should be named for him. He stands in a class in Atlanta all by himself.

Joseph E. Brown, for whom the northwest junior high school was named, was Georgia's great war governor, and at the same time a citizen of Atlanta. He was first president of the board of education, a position he held for about seventeen years. Even while he was United States senator he retained his place on the board, and would come from Washington to Atlanta to attend board meetings and commencements. He certainly deserves a high place in the story of Atlanta's public schools.

Professor William A. Bass, for whom the northeast junior high school was named, was for a generation a professor in the Boys' High school. Many of the men of Atlanta, now in middle life, and occupying foremost places in the life of the city, were pupils of Professor Bass and treasure his memory.

David Mayer, for whom the Fount street school replacement was named, was also one of the members of the original Atlanta board of education. Few if any members of the board in all of its history have ever taken as much interest in the schools as David Mayer. He visited the schools a great deal. Many citizens have told me that their most vivid recollections of their early school days in Atlanta centered about the visits to the school of this loyal man.

The Fraser street school replacement is named for Mayor James L. Key, who is about to retire from the board after a term of some ten or eleven years. Those who are connected with the school administration know what a devoted friend to the schools he has been. The four years of his administration as mayor have marked a splendid advance in our public schools, such an advance as no similar period has seen. During that term the city charter has been amended so as to put the schools on their feet financially, and the greatest building program in its history has been put on.

Miss Laura A. Haygood, for whom the Faith school replacement was named, was one of the early teachers in the Girls' High school. She was perhaps beloved and honored as almost no other teacher in the history of Atlanta. She resigned as teacher to become a missionary to China, where she died and was buried. She was one of the most noted of southern missionaries, and the name is a very fortunate one for perhaps our most important grammar school, as this is to be our normal and training school.

The Lucile avenue school is changed to the Joel Chandler Harris school. This wonderful Atlanta man, famous wherever children and children's stories are known, lived in the neighborhood of the Lucile avenue school. It is a fine thing to honor his memory in this way, and his name will also honor the school.

The English Avenue school is changed to the Thomas E. Watson school. Senator Watson numbered his admirers in Georgia by the thousands and tens of thousands. Perhaps no man in the history of the state ever had such devoted followers; and today they are mourning his death all over Georgia.

Honor Veteran.
The East Atlanta school is named for John B. Gordon, general, governor, senator, lecturer, beloved of all Confederate veterans.

North Avenue school was changed to the Ella W. Smillie school. Miss Smillie was one of the twenty-seven teachers elected when the Atlanta public schools opened in 1872. She is still teaching in the system, having rounded out a full fifty years in February. No other teacher has had a record equal to this. And we want Miss Smillie to know while she is living how much we esteem her, and her work.

The Junior-Senior High school for negroes was named for Booker T. Washington, perhaps the most famous negro of his day or any other day.

The Storrs-Houston replacement was named for David T. Howard, well known Atlanta negro and business man, respected by white people and negroes alike.

The Pittsburg school was named for Professor William H. Croghan, for a great many years a teacher at Clark university, now retired on account of age. He bears a good name.

The Roach-Mitchell replacement was named for former President Edmund A. Ware, of Atlanta university. He was head of this well known institution for a great many years, which institution has had more to do with the training of negro teachers than any other institution in the state.

The name of the Summer Hill school replacement is to be the Edwin P. Johnson school, named after the present pastor of the Reed Street Baptist church, one of the most honored and respected negro religious and educational leaders in Atlanta.

In naming the schools for persons rather than for streets or localities, the board feels that it is doing a good thing. Streets and localities do not mean enough. It is people, not inanimate things like streets and places, that do things. Persons who do conspicuous service in their communities should be honored by those communities. And I know of no better way to honor a notable man or woman than to name a school after him.

VICTOR H. ALLEN'S HALL APARTMENTS SELL FOR $95,000

Sale of the Hall apartments, situated at the southeastern corner of Spring and West Baker streets, has been sold for Victor H. Allen and others to Ben J. Massell for $95,000, according to announcement by J. H. Ewing & Sons, who handled the deal.

The structure occupies a lot 100x130 feet, and is three stories high. Mr. Massell also purchased, for the Interstate Improvement and Investment company, the northeastern corner of Spring street and Baltimore block from John A. Robinson for $35,000. The lot is 75x140 feet, and is occupied by three units of the old Baltimore block building.

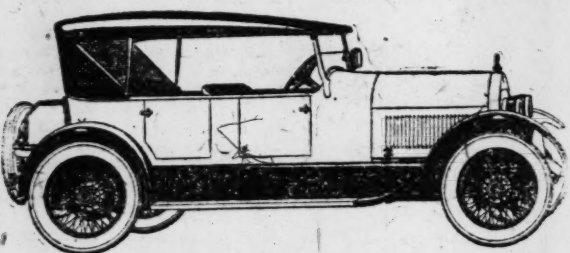

Other sales just closed by the Ewing agency are as follows: $19,500 for John H. Blyrie to J. W. Fielder, a dwelling at 158 Spring street; $5,750 for J. H. Gresham to J. L. Steinheimer, house and lot, 302 East Lake drive, Decatur.

TO GIVE GOLD MEDALS TO BRAVE CHAUFFEURS

Chicago, October 7.—Gold medals for courage will be awarded to chauffeurs for rendering humane service and for the protection of life and property, a large taxicab company announced today.

Many lives have been saved, fires discovered, thieves and robbers foiled and captured through the efforts of its 3,000 chauffeurs, the company declared.

The first gold medal was awarded to a driver who saved a cripple from a burning building.

DROP IN TEMPERATURE PREDICTED TODAY

Following the general rainfall Friday and Saturday, Saturday night witnessed a moderate drop in temperature, while weather forecast stated that the coolest weather of this period could be expected early Sunday morning. Early Saturday night a decided touch of fall was in the air, and before midnight slightly chilly weather prevailed.

Freight and Tax Extra

With these reductions Hudson offers the greatest value in its history.

The new improved Super-Six motor, introduced a few months ago, makes it the smoothest—most delightful of all the Hudsons to drive. It has charms in performance that owners of earlier models never knew.

Everyone has conceded Hudson top place in reliability. For seven years it has led in fine car sales. More than 120,000 Super-Sixes are in service. The new prices and the Hudson of today with refinements in chassis and body give it a value attraction careful buyers of fine cars cannot ignore.

Of special interest to those who desire a closed car at little more than open car cost—is the Coach. No car of its utility and price advantage is to be found within $500 of its cost.

ATLANTA BAPTISTS TO MEET TUESDAY AT THIRD CHURCH

The Atlanta Baptist association will meet Tuesday at 10 o'clock with the Third Baptist church. Devotional services will be led by Rev. W. H. Barrett, pastor of the East Atlanta Baptist church.

The annual sermon will be preached at 11:45 o'clock Tuesday by Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Chairmen of committees to report are Rev. S. A. Cowan, program; F. S. Etheridge, benevolences and social work; Rev. W. H. Faust, education; J. W. Mills, Bible study and training; Rev. J. M. Haymore, convention missions, and Rev. W. H. Major, executive committee. The meeting will last two days.

The body is made up of messengers from the 54 Baptist churches of Atlanta and vicinity.

On Tuesday night Dr. Henry Alford Porter, pastor of the Second Baptist church, will address a mass meeting on the subject, "The Glory of Going On."

LOVERS' QUARREL GIVEN AS CAUSE OF SUICIDE EFFORT

A quarrel with her sweetheart caused pretty 15-year-old Leatrice Tidwell, of 69 Hampton street, to take a quantity of iodine Saturday morning in an effort to end her own life. She was rushed to the Grady hospital, where physicians stated she was in a dangerous condition.

The quarrel, according to the girl's story to hospital authorities, occurred Friday night. She refused to state what was the cause.

Georgians Pay Tribute to Caruso; Place Floral Wreath on His Tomb

One of the most worthwhile features of a trip to Europe was the opportunity of visiting the grave of Enrico Caruso, world's greatest tenor and of paying silent tribute in behalf of thousands of Georgians to the memory of the golden voiced Neapolitan who brought so much happiness and joy to Atlanta people and people of the south during grand opera season, according to Dr. Garnett Quillian, of Atlanta, who has returned after a tour of Europe which included a visit to the grave of the noted singer.

While in Italy recently Dr. Quillian and his party, composed largely of Georgians, visited the tomb of Caruso, at Sorrento, Italy. The last illness and death of Caruso occurred at Sorrento, which is near Naples. The funeral exercises were held at Naples and the body now lies in a temporary vault in that city pending the completion of a permanent vault in the beautiful cemetery at Naples.

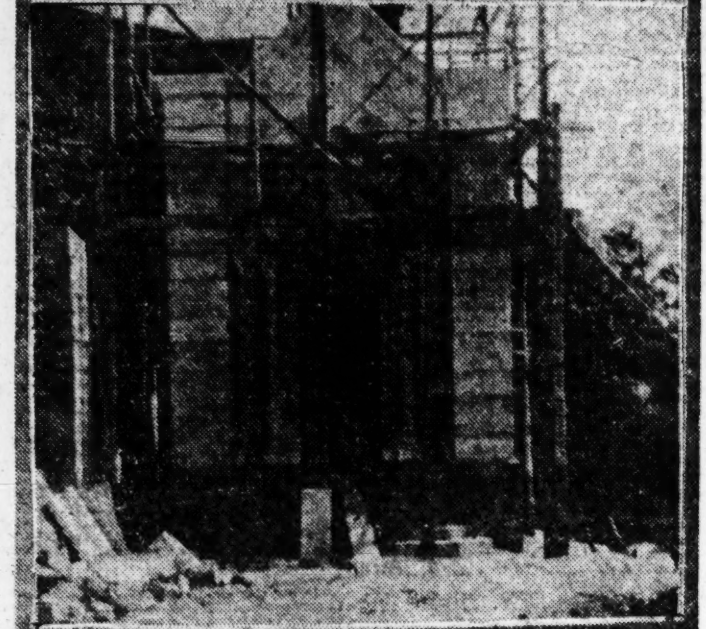

Dr. Quillian went to the cemetery at Naples and placed a beautiful wreath of flowers on Caruso's tomb as a token of the love in which he is held by all Georgians and southerners who enjoyed his appearances in Atlanta during the season of grand opera.

Among those in Dr. Quillian's party were Henry Bagley, Miss Lola Buchanan and Miss Lily Ayer, of Atlanta; Mrs. Walter H. Jones, of Athens; Mrs. Noel Park, Greensboro; Mrs. J. O. Lewis and Mrs. W. A. Williams, of Greenville, S. C., and Lester R. Ruth, Alliance, Ohio.

Dr. Quillian took advantage of his presence in Italy to visit the grave of the greatest of all tenors and with his companions paid tribute to the esteem and admiration in which the singer was held in this section of the United States. The visit of Dr. Quillian to the grave of Caruso attracted the attention of Italian newspapers which printed comments on the incident.

One of the leading newspapers of Naples, Il Mezzogiorno, printed the following statement about the visit: "A silent but eloquent tribute to the memory of the world's greatest tenor was paid when a company of nine distinguished Americans motored to the cemetery at Naples and placed upon the tomb of Enrico Caruso a beautiful floral offering. This party was headed by Dr. Garnett W. Quillian, of Atlanta, Ga."

The party headed by Dr. Quillian is on a tour of Europe. The members already have visited Sorrento, the island of Capri, the Blue Grotto, Pompeii and Vesuvius.

PENITENTIARY SCHOOL ENROLLS 868 STUDENTS

Inmates of the federal penitentiary, numbering 868, will begin studying courses from the first to seventh grade taught by 44 teachers, at the prison next week. The total number of prisoners was 2,242 on September 26, according to a report published in "Good Words," a magazine written and edited by prisoners.

$65,000 IN DAMAGES ASKED OF A., B. & A.

As the outgrowth of the A., B. and A. wreck at Camp Creek last March damage suits aggregating $65,000 have been filed in the city court of Atlanta against the road by Thomas W. Etheridge, his wife and small son for personal injuries. Attorneys Hewlett and Dennis represent the plaintiffs.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS SEDAN

With this car, Dodge Brothers have literally created a new type of sedan.

They have combined open car ruggedness with closed car protection and smartness.

They have demonstrated, once for all, that a sedan can be as practical and almost as inexpensive as an open touring car.

The body is built of hand-welded steel because steel is sturdy, and will take a permanent, oven-baked finish, eliminating forever the cost of repainting.

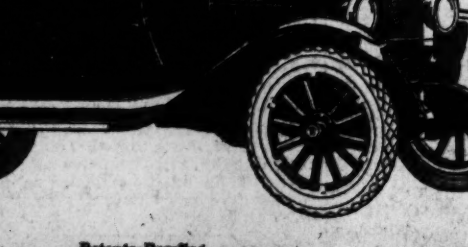

The seats are upholstered in attractive, genuine Spanish blue leather, because leather will wash and wear.

To further enlarge the car's usefulness, the rear seat, back and side cushions, seat frame and foot rest are quickly removable, giving sixty-four cubic feet of flat loading space in the rear compartment. The manifold uses made possible by this unique feature are readily imagined.

The top and rear quarters are of non-rumble, fabric construction, conforming with the present attractive vogue. From cord tires to curtain cords, the fittings, inside and out, are distinctive and complete.

In fact, every detail of the car emphasizes its striking adaptability to business as well as social use.

KIWANIAN PLANNING BIG 'LADIES' NIGHT'

A regular supper, Enrico Leide's orchestra, a prize waltz and quadrilles are just a few of the things on the dinner-dance program of the ladies of the Kiwanis club, who have designated Tuesday, October 17, as "their night."

The dinner and the dance will be given on the roof of the Ansley hotel, and the 700 guests who attended the Kiwanian ladies' night fete last February are expected to be overwhelmingly outnumbered.

The fact that the affair is to be informal has been emphasized. The motto will be "throw discretion to the winds if you want to."

The fact that George F. Eubanks has charge of the menu for the occasion is ample reason to forecast something out of the ordinary. President Sherrard Kennedy is going to assist in a general way. Of course Conductor Leide has charge of the musical arrangements. Forrest Taylor, Dudley Cowles and Arthur W. Falkenburg are active on various committees.

The dinner will be served promptly at 7:30, and the music will be on tap all night. There is going to be a "who is the life of the party" contest. Any Kiwanian or his guest, in fact everyone, is eligible to enter. The program committee refused to make the nature of the award public.

Miss Mary C. Barker Re-Elected President Of Atlanta Teachers

At its annual meeting last week the Atlanta Public School Teachers' association re-elected Miss Mary C. Barker as president, with the following officers: Miss Maggie Solomon, Miss Myra Graves and J. N. Platt, vice-presidents; Mr. E. Coleman, secretary; W. J. Scott, financial secretary; Miss A. Barnes, treasurer. Miss Barker and Mr. Coleman were elected delegates to the convention of the American federation of teachers.

One of the association's major activities last year was a movement to secure legislation establishing a tenure rule for teachers, in order that they might be protected from summary dismissal.

The school amendments to the recently adopted city charter provided this protection. Annual election of teachers is abolished. They are placed under the civil service, the effect of which is to give a teacher permanent employment during efficient service and good behavior.

Atlantans Form New Mississippi Fraternal Club

Senator "Pat" Harrison, of Magnolia State, Accepts Invitation to Visit Organization.

Silas W. Davis, well known banker and chairman of the board of directors of the new market on the government's mansion site, announced Saturday that natives of the Magnolia state who are now citizens of Atlanta have formed the Mississippi society. Mr. Davis was elected president of the new organization.

Mr. Davis requests that all natives of Mississippi who live in Atlanta join the new society, which has been formed to promote friendship and fraternity between people of that state now in the city, and to entertain visiting Mississippians in Atlanta.

Mr. Davis also announced that Senator "Pat" Harrison, of Mississippi, had accepted an invitation to visit the new society shortly and make an address. Senator Harrison, who is famed in the United States senate for taking every opportunity to praise his native state, will come to Atlanta within the next few weeks, the time of his coming to be announced shortly.

Other officers of the Mississippi society include Mrs. John K. Ottley, vice president; Joe L. McMillin, who represents Volunteer State Life Insurance company in Georgia, vice president; Mrs. R. M. Stripling, secretary, and Wayne Allen, attorney, treasurer.

"The officers of the Mississippi society," declared Mr. Davis in announcing the formation of the organization, "call the members of a common state together in order to better serve Atlanta in the cause of civic uplift and for the promotion of the civic prosperity. We wish to enroll as members all natives of Mississippi for this purpose."

PAYNE CHURCH WILL START BIG REVIVAL

Revival services at Payne Memorial church on Luckie street will start Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and meetings will continue two weeks. Evangelist Will Hill, of the south Georgia conference, will conduct the revival and will be assisted by Professor Ralph Porterfield, well-known singer, who led the choir for Rev. Walt Holcomb during the big revival at Trinity last year. Rev. W. H. DeBardeleben is pastor of the church.

Red and Black Attack Weak, Flashing For An Instant in the First Half and Then Disappearing From View.

After any lunge at the K&N and Black & White, the wind, which reached considerable velocity at times, by the way, the Chicago generals decided that it was better to let the wind do the aiming, and volley at the right side of the Georgia line. They discovered that this action netted some territory and, as most of the Georgia players were new to the purpose, the Chicago director kept up the pummeling until the ball had been driven into the Georgia backfield, where the end of the first quarter found both teams pretty well worn out by the plunging.

Line Penn State Back

This back is one that reminded the writer a whole lot of the Penn State back in the Georgia Tech game last season. It is not delayed as long as the Georgia back, but it does cover the same and the play usually gets the required distance.

Anyway Chicago found it a very hard job to get the Georgia line to give an extremely bitter, close fight.

in, after numerous yards had been gained, that the Red and Black's backs were driven close to the line, and the Maroon, in order to prevent the scrambling, in order to prevent the scrambling right side, the Maroon directed an attack on the left and, while considerable opposition was encountered, the Red and Black's were able to keep the Bulldog going slowly backward all the time.

The impression caused as the Georgian's backpedaled, not only toward their own goal posts, was that the loss of Bum Day, Artie Pew, Owen Reynolds and others, had resulted in Georgia's one-time best strength being depleted. When the Bulldogs were in when the ball was in the shadow of the posts, this fear turned into admiration for the fighting spirit of these lads from the Peach State.

Last Ditch Fights.

Five times were the Athenians taken back from Chicago territory to their own one-yard line. Twice the Maroon went over, both times on fourth down and both times on the Maroon's side. Twice the Chicago backs were hurled away from field goal for their scoring after having been within a few inches

These were the stages of the battle when the visiting players brought applause from the hostile crowd by their skillful use of the "one-yard line." Chicago must face a hard schedule this season, both in its conference and in the "wildcat" games. It will depend on the interseasonal engagements that will come later. Unless Staggs shows more of a variety than he offered in the first half of the season, he will go through the list and find success written on its record.

Similar Tactics.

Staggs's program was a line back, a fend run and punt if the needed distance was not gained. The line attack he constructed on the same basis and the result was a battle devoid of excitement or color. It seems that both the offense and the defense were guilty of uncering unexpected plays, for the opposition was not looking for any-

In the line bucking, Chicago dealt much punishment. The end runners were not helped by the results. Boney and Butler, Red and black flankers, had been well coached in the art of stopping anything. The Maroon line, like the end and few gains resulted. The Stag interference was easily smashed and few of their end runners went much beyond the three yard line.

Chicago's adherents in this chase of the conference title have some reason or hope in the fact that Prott, Stag's best punter, is a likely student with a good knowledge of the game. It is necessary to resort to the kick, Prott usually responded with a mighty wallop. Once he sent the ball down the field, the Stag punter was not to be out of George's mind any idea of a touch-down.

VIRGINIA MEN HOLD TIGERS

Princeton, N. J., October 7.—Eleven husky members of the University of Virginia sprung a big surprise today on the Princeton Tigers, who though unable to cross the southern's goal line, defeated the visitors by the small score of 5 to 0.

A steady rain fell throughout the game, making the footing uncertain. The Virginia's failure to score was perhaps due to their inability to hold a wet ball, as numerous fumbles at them a good deal of ground. The southerners proved unexpectedly strong in the line and uncovered a sound-gaining attack that almost proved the undoing of the Tigers.

Princeton's scores resulted from a field goal, drop-kick by Smith, after Duell had recovered a fumbled punt. Virginia's 30-yard line. The other two points came from a safety. When Arnold, of the invaders fumbled the ball from his hands and as throwing his own goal line.

They discovered that this action netted some territory and, as most of the afternoon's business was for this purpose, the Chicago dictator kept on the pummeling until the ball had been advanced to the middle of the field, where the end of the first quarter found the game pretty well worn out by the plunging.

Like Penn State Buck.

This buck is one that reminded the writer a whole lot of the Penn State buck in the Georgia Tech game last year. The Georgia buck was known as Penn State's, but the principle is the same and the play usually gets the required distance.

Anyway Chicago found it a very unexciting Georgia line was given an extremely bitter dose. Plung-

Again, numerous yards had been gained, that the Red and Black's backs were pressing in close to the line of scrimmage in the back yard, and the flanking right side, the Maroon directed an attack on the left and, while considerable opposition was encountered, the Maroon was able to keep the Bulldog going slowly backward all the time.

The impression caused as the Georgians were swept back foot by foot to the left, was that they were losing the loss of Bum Day, Artie Pew, Owen Reynolds and others, had resulted in Georgia's onetime best strength being taken off its principal weapons, but when the ball was in the shadow of the posts, this fear turned into admiration for the fighting spirit of these lads from the southland.

Last Ditch Fights.

Five times were the Athenians taken back from the line to their own one-yard line. Twice the Maroon went over, both times on fourth down after three attempts to pierce the wall. Twice the Georgia backs were hurled away from the line for their scoring after having been within a few inches of the last line. And once, late in the game, when every spectator figured the Bulls would win, the referee's line had snapped every ounce of the Red and Black strength, the Bulldog fought back and withstood four charges on the one side.

These were the stages of the battle when the visiting players brought applause from the hostile side of the emporium. The Chicago name Georgia seemed to be outclassed.

Chicago must face a hard schedule this season, both in its conference games and the opposition that will be met in the playoffs. The attack that will come later. The Stag interference was easily smashed and few of their end runners went much farther than the line. In this case of Stag's adherents in this chase of the conference there was some room for hope in the fact that Pyott, Stag's strongest punter, is likewise student with a west punt. He never sent a punt back to respond to a kick. Protz usually responded with a mighty walloper. Once he sent the ball down the field 53 yards, effectively putting out of Stag's mind any idea of a touchdown.

NEW FLYWEIGHT CHAMPION IS REAL SCRAPPER---EDGREN

BUDD'S GREAT TESTS COMING

Nashville, Tenn., October 7.—(Special.)—The south's premier light-weight battle of more than a year is to be staged in Nashville the night before the Michigan game.

Battling Budd, sensational Atlanta lightweight, who recently defeated Mel Coogan, Young Stripling and Joe Welling, has been signed to meet Seltor Friedman, of Chicago, ranked today as the second best lightweight in the country.

Contracts have been forwarded to the men and the bout will take place at the Hippodrome on the night of October 13.

Friedman is ranked next to Leonard by the majority of boxing critics. He holds a decision over Lew Fowler in eight rounds at Philadelphia last fall, won over Charley White, in nine rounds after White had knocked Leonard through the ropes, and was said by many to have won the title; defeated Johnny Dundee, Ever Hammer, Ernie Rice, British lightweight champion, and many others.

He won a newspaper decision over Leonard last year. He is the prettiest piece of fighting machinery in the ring today, and is a wizard both on attack and defense.

Friedman and his manager will arrive from Chicago Sunday and will work out before the fans at the Hippodrome Sunday afternoon. To watch him in action once is to realize that a treat is in store when he meets Budd.

GROVE BEATEN BY TECH HIGH

BY ROY E. WHITE.

The Tech High football eleven opened their annual football season with a 44 to 0 victory over the Locust Grove institute eleven on Grant field Saturday morning before a large crowd of prep football fans.

The Junior Smithies opened their attack in the opening quarter and registered a touchdown by some beautiful line plunges and off tackle plays by Jack Curran. Two more were scored in the second quarter, two in the third and two in the last quarter.

The Locust Grove boys outweighed the Tech High by several pounds to the man but the speedy backfield of the Smithies proved too much for the heavy Locust Grove lads.

To Hardin, O'Neal, Jack Curran, Tedard and Clyde Curran of Tech High, goes the credit for the victory. Clyde Curran on the right wing of the Tech High line played a wonderful game besides catching an accurately thrown pass from the hands of Captain Brooks for a gain of something over 30 yards. Not only did he pass count for something, but his everlasting tackle of the opposing pigskin carriers was terrific. He stopped many plays that were directed around his side of the line.

Hardin and Perkins, playing along side of Curran, also played a part in the victory. Very few gains were made over the right side of the Tech High line.

Jack Curran Stars.

In the Locust Grove O'Neal played the best game of the day. He caught a short punt and ran 20 yards through the entire Locust Grove team for a touchdown. Curran was a shining light in the victory. He registered the first touchdown for Tech High and then made a complete field goal after touchdown. Jack's punting was very noticeable all during the game and many times he would boot the ball far into the Locust Grove territory by his great kicks.

Tedard in the last quarter of play got away on an off tackle play and ran through the entire Locust Grove team for a touchdown. He used a stiff arm to perfection, shoving several would-be tacklers and clearly sidestepping the safety man.

The interference given the Tech High backs by their mates was much better than at any time during the practice season. Time after time many long gains were made as a result of some neat interference given the men with the ball by the other backs.

Morgan Is Good.

For Locust Grove the work of Captain Morgan at fullback was by far the best. He played the role of back-up in the defense, carrying the ball the majority of the time on the offense.

His tackling was deadly and he broke through the interference and wading the man with the ball. On the offense he made most of all the gains for the Locust Grove team but he was hindered by having very little interference from his mates.

The line work of the Locust Grove team was on a par with that of Tech High but the backfield failed to give the man with the ball very much interference.

New Orleans, October 7.—Granville Gude, of Washington, D. C., has accepted the challenge of Walter Hoover, of Minnesota, world's champion single oarsman, to a sculling race for the national championship here, October 16.

A. C. Lindberg, legion national athletic secretary, announced recently.

The race will be rowed over a mile and a quarter course on Lake Superior at the New Basin canal, depending on water conditions.

If Gude wins, he will have not only the American Legion championship, but the world's title as well, since the Southern A. A. U. has announced that records made in the legion meet will be official.

Last August, Gude, who had been sculling only six weeks, won three events in the same afternoon at the Middle States regatta. Hoover defeated Paul Costello in the Philadelphia gold challenge race in June, which left him without a rival, Costello having succeeded to the title when Jack Kelly retired as undefeated champion.

WOODBERRY'S WORK STARTS

Reorganization of the athletic association that conducted such a successful athletic program at Woodberry school last year, will be effected this week it was announced yesterday at the school. Officers will be installed immediately and plans will be laid for another splendid season.

Instead of the single basketball team that represented Woodberry in 1921, a team by the way that brought much favorable comment from Atlanta basketball experts, two machines will battle for Woodberry. They will be as evenly matched as possible and will be ready within the next few weeks for the strenuous campaign being arranged by the managers.

Captains of these teams have not been named, as the coaches in charge of the preliminary work have had no chance to bring together the candidates. It is believed that the elections will be held this week, when first basketball practice is scheduled to start.

The tennis association is already functioning. This organization has in charge of this pastime at Woodberry last year and some real net stars were developed. The courts at the school are cluttered daily with prospective members of the teams Woodberry will organize soon.

Volley ball and croquet are coming in for their share of attention in Woodberry's athletic whirl and as soon as the schools of Atlanta organize their leagues, teams from this school will start work on arranging their competition.

Miss McCord, of Randolph-Macon, has been placed in charge of Woodberry athletics, and as she is an expert performer in most of the sports in which girls engage, she is certain to send forth formidable teams.

The basketball coach has not been named, but it is understood that he will come from Emory university.

Gym work is listed on the Woodberry curriculum and rookies in the army never went through more strenuous exercises than given the students as part of their day's work.

Woodberry officials are intensely interested in athletics and announce that they will do all in their power to aid the development of interscholastic athletic associations.

YALE PLAYERS DISCHARGED

New Haven, Conn., October 7.—Dismissal of eleven candidates for places on the Yale football team for delinquency in studies was revealed today by the Yale alumni weekly.

The chief offenders were members of last year's championship freshman football team.

40,000 SEE HARVARD DEFEAT HOLY CROSS

Cambridge, Mass., October 7.—By a powerful attack in the third quarter, the Harvard football team today defeated the Holy Cross eleven, 20 to 0, before a crowd of 40,000.

Even though the heavier Crimson team was favored by a slippery field they were unable to score in the first two periods. Points were exchanged frequently and just before the end of the third quarter Harvard sent Gehrke and Owen through for four first downs and got within striking distance of the Holy Cross goal.

Coburn plunged through for the first touchdown.

Chicago Games Off.

Chicago, October 7.—Rain caused postponement of the third game of the city series game between the Chicago Nationals and Americans at Comiskey park today. The teams will play there tomorrow, weather permitting. Each club has won one game.

Story of Dempsey's Hunting Trip

BY ROBERT EDGREN

Champion Carried 150-Pound Pack

JACK DEMPSEY AND JERRY THE GREEK, PACKING INTO THE MOOSE COUNTRY.

In the New Brunswick Woods—Jack Dempsey is after the moose.

From the activity he's displayed I wouldn't be surprised to see him coming out of the forest any moment with one big buck.

A few days ago we were at Currier's camp, deep in the woods of northern Maine, where Jack was a guest of Walter Hinds, another of those nervous gents who never sit still more than three seconds. Being the closed season, there was no hunting, and Jack felt peevish because he could not shoot something. He'd been hiking through the woods all day for three days, bringing back reports of seeing deer everywhere. At the moment, mention Jack had just come in.

"Yeah," he was saying, "a buck and two does right beside the trail. I could have hit them with my fish-pole."

Joe Dempsey, the champ's brother, was standing at one of the cabin windows, looking out over the dead woods.

"There's one now," remarked Joe in his characteristic soft drawl.

I looked out. A deer was standing in the edge of the water fifty yards from the cabin. We all stepped outside. The deer paid no attention to us, but waded into the water and drank. I brought a camera and took a snapshot of the deer. Yelled at it to make it look up and get into a better pose.

I moved a couple of yards and stood still looking up over. This was too much for Dempsey's hunting spirit, so he tossed a couple of stones at the deer and chased it back into the woods.

DEMPSEY PACKS 150 POUNDS ON TRAIL.

The sweat was trickling from Jack's slabster brow as he went back into the cabin and sat down. "Gosh," he exclaimed, "I can't afford this. I'd have had the deer in the first two days if it were the season opens."

"Jack," said Hinds, "if we hiked out of here at 6 tomorrow morning we could be up in the New Brunswick woods among the moose in two days, with the season wide open on everything."

"Let's go!" whooped Jack, jumping up. In about ten seconds Jerry Luvada, better known in camp as "Jerry the Greek," who is Dempsey's trainer, was heaving guns, rods, boots, wick the platform.

Pel Fans Welcome Dobbs' Change

BY COLONEL CLUKE

Little Confidence in His Ability

New Orleans, La., October 7.—(Special.)—Larry Gilbert, field leader and centerfielder of the Pelicans for the past seven years, will be given the privilege of refusing the appointment as manager of the local club for the 1923 season.

Gilbert, it is generally believed, is Heinemann's choice as leader of the Pelicans, inasmuch as Larry declined to accept Dobbs' job three years ago when tendered him.

News of Johnny Dobbs' appointment to manager of the Memphis Chicks, created no great surprise in New Orleans baseball circles. It had been reported as early as July 4, that Dobbs was going for another berth. At the time he had held several conferences with Kell Spiller, then president of the Atlanta Crackers.

Dobbs' departure to Memphis can hardly be regarded a great baseball loss by the Pelicans. Most fans seemed to take it for granted that he had completely lost control of the players under him, and repeated violations of the training code during the past season seemed to confirm the popular belief.

General Clean-up.

If Prexy Heinemann can induce Larry Gilbert to accept the managerial job for the 1923 season, chances are that a general housecleaning will follow. Gilbert handled the club on several occasions and in each instance obtained results. However, Gilbert, like every other player, suddenly put in charge, ran into obstacles, but was able to wipe out the disgruntled players into line.

Only one man—Jakey Atz, "miracle pilot" of the Texas league, has a chance to beat Gilbert out of the job. However, it is not likely that Atz will change berths. He has the advantage of knowing conditions in Texas, but naturally would have to learn the short cuts of the Southern only by experience.

Dobbs' failure to land the Pelicans higher than second place in the past two years, in spite of the fact that his club was far the best in the league, has been a great disappointment to supporters of the local club.

During the campaign that just closed, Dobbs, probably, piloted the highest-salaried aggregation that ever played ball in the league. However, Dobbs was unable to get results, due principally to the fact that there existed two factions, one which showed a tendency to play ball in the afternoon and another that preferred the midnight round of pleasure.

Old Heads Going.

Prexy Heinemann, when he is ready to announce the appointment of Gilbert or someone else as manager, probably will turn over complete control of the players. It is expected that some of the "old heads" will be forced to walk the plank.

During the past season, Heinemann was keen for Dobbs to give the club a healthy shaking up, frequently pointing out the existence of two factions. For some reason or another, Dobbs managed to keep his squad intact, and in so doing he effected an opportunity to put the Pelicans on top in the race for the pennant.

Heinemann was extremely keen to win the 1922 pennant and have his club in the Southern-Texas series. Dobbs' failure to deliver the goods naturally isn't causing great regret at Pelican headquarters because of his signing a contract to handle the Chicks.

Kid Elberfeld's famous estimate of Dobbs' ability—that he must have a major league ball club to win a Southern pennant—apparently has convinced Heinemann that the scrappy Little Rock leader knew whereof he chirped.

GOOD PREP GAMES IN STORE

ALL ATLANTA PREPS IN ACTION DURING WEEK-END FOR LOCAL FANS THIS WEEK

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Next Friday afternoon will be a gala day in the ranks of the prep ball fans of Atlanta for no less than two prep games are scheduled to be played on Atlanta gridirons. And again Saturday morning there will be another thrilling prep battle.

The headline for Friday afternoon will be the game between Boys' High and University School for Boys, probably the most important prep game of the season. The game will be played at the University School campus Friday afternoon.

Saturday morning Tech High will meet the strong Richmond Military academy eleven from Augusta, Ga., on Grant field. Friday afternoon the G. M. A. cadets journey down to Newnan to play the Newnan High eleven.

The local prep football fans will be more interested in the Boys' High-University game than any of the others. The game will be played on Saturday morning all football attention will be turned on the Tech High-Richmond game at Grant field.

University Strong.

The way the University team has been showing up of late would indicate a rather easy victory over the Boys' High eleven since the Purple and White team has an eleven composed of entirely new men, but Coach Winkler has been working overtime in the last few days trying to get his men into shape for the game with the "Bluebirds." That game will be the first real prep game for the league as only Boys' High, Tech High, G. M. A. and University are in the football league.

The University team held the strong Tech High eleven to a 7 to 0 score last Wednesday afternoon and

Many Surprises for Buff

As Villa Unfolded Game; Can Hit and Is Speedy

Edgren Believes It Is Good Thing For Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey That The Filipinos Are Small.

By Robert Edgren.

Pancho Villa was brought up, like his ancestors for thousands of years back, in the Philippine jungles. Perhaps that is why Pancho shows the fighting characteristics of all denizens of the wild. It accounts for his eye-bewildering speed, and the sudden, catlike quality of every movement in the ring.

Wild animals, brought up where every day is a new fight for existence and only the swift survive, develop quickness that is unknown in civilization.

A cow is slow and deliberate, but an African buffalo is so swift and sudden in action that hunters say it is the most dangerous of all animals to meet. A domestic cat is quick, but a wildcat is ten times quicker. A trained fighting dog has a certain amount of speed, but an Alaskan wolf can jump around it and slash it to ribbons without any trouble at all.

The same inherited speed is in Pancho Villa, the Filipino who knocked out Johnny Buff in eleven rounds and won the American flyweight title in Brooklyn. The same speed is in Flores, the Filipino lightweight who once over with Villa and who has been fighting around New York lately.

Watching Villa in his fight against Johnny Buff I couldn't help thinking of the Filipino fighters. They are all little fellows. A heavyweight built like Villa gifted with the same jungle speed and strength, the same sinewy grace that lends power to every movement, the same coolness and courage, and the same degree of clean boxing skill, would give the big fellow all he could handle.

Another thing that struck me, looking Villa over, was that it would be very inconvenient to have one of these swift little fellows snicking at one's legs with their long, thin arms. Twice he smiled. The rest of the time he might as well have worn a mask.

UNDER FIVE FEET PERFECTLY FORMED.

Pancho Villa is almost a midget. He is less than five feet tall, but perfectly formed. His muscles are smooth and hard, and his normally developed shoulders are wide; his back a wedge that tapers smoothly to a small waist. He is neat and trim.

His head is rather large and is not on a strong neck. His features are distinctly Oriental. There may be Chinese blood in him, if appearances go for anything. His cheekbones are high and his chin is well set. His nose is short, mouth large and tight lipped, and chin aggressive and rounded. His straight black hair, very glossy, is brushed back. He starts down near his eyebrows. He has no marks of fighting except slightly flattened ears. Yet Villa has been doing a lot of fighting among Filipinos and against the Chinese. He is a good beginning in this country.

When Villa fought Buff for the flyweight title he met a veteran who didn't know how to take a backward step. Villa's jab, which was as fast as a whip, was a real surprise. He was evidently that he hadn't recovered from after being seriously hit three months ago, but he was as aggressive as ever. He went right after Villa from the start.

Johnny Buff had many surprises in that fight. First, he couldn't hit Villa. The little fellow was as fast as a whip. He stood close, not wasting time in dancing or jumping around in the silly style affected by most of the modern boxers in this country. Some of the Filipino boys how to box. There isn't one American boxer in fifty who can handle himself as well.

PANCHO DUCKS THE PUNCHES.

Without moving backward or side-stepping Villa either more Buff miss entirely, by snapping his head away from the blow, or broke the force of the punches he couldn't entirely avoid by moving back with them. Once Buff caught Villa with a terrific uppercut that apparently lifted his head two feet in the air and straightened him up from a crouch to his full height.

The crowd let out a hopeful shout, but Villa only let a wide smile break through his expression. He wasn't hurt at all. He had snapped his head back with the blow, his chin traveling almost as fast as Johnny's glove—taking all the sting out of the punch!

Afterward Buff said he "couldn't feel Pancho's weight at the end of his arm." That was natural. Pancho's weight was moving away too fast to offer much resistance or receive much of a shock.

Yet Pancho never jumped back. He was still there in fighting range when his head bobbed into position, and usually he caught Buff with two or three lightning-fast counters before he could recover.

Villa's speed enables him to do things not often seen in the ring. For instance, time and again he hit Buff sharply in the body with short left hooks and brought the same hand down instantly in a hard smash on the chin that the champion couldn't either block or avoid.

The Filipino seemed able, because of his quickness, to whip a left or a right into Buff's body whenever he wanted to, or to hit him cleanly on the chin at will with either hand. Villa was careful and deliberate—a master of boxing. He had the entire lack of expression of an Oriental, except in his quickly shifting eyes. His expression changed only twice in the fight. Twice he smiled. The rest of the time he might as well have worn a mask.

VILLA A GOOD SPORT.

It was easily to be seen that Villa was a "finished" fighter. At the rounds the only question was whether he could "start" Buff before the time limit was up.

In the tenth he knocked Buff down three times in succession. The third would have been a cold knock out but for the bell, which rang while Buff was on his feet.

After each knockdown Villa turned back instantly and walked away toward his corner. The Filipinos are not only remarkably clever boxers, but they are well schooled in the ethics of the game. Many boxers could learn a lot about sportsmanship by watching them.

Villa will finish any man he "starts," and he does it quickly and cleanly. He hits a tremendous blow with either hand, and is very accurate. Blitting rapidly with the left, he bewilders his victim with a flurry of blows, and suddenly puts all his strength into a crashing left or right.

As his reach is short he uses few straight jabs, relying almost entirely on hooked blows. Usually a hook is short and snappy. Villa's hooks are so swiftly delivered that the spectators' eyes can hardly follow his glove. Buff found it impossible to block the little Filipino's punches.

The entrance of the Filipino into American boxing in this country is going to give some champions to the lighter classes. Before this, since boxing began in the Philippines, there have been many good men to Australia.

About a year ago an Australian champion, traveling to America to fight, was stopped by a Filipino en route to pick up a little Pancho in our midst.

Carl Mays Batted Freely In Fourth World Series Game—Score Stands 4-3

In Fair Weather or Foul National Leaguers Prove Masters of Yankee Team

Yankees Looked Like Sure Winners in Saturday's Fracas Until Fatal Fifth, When Hits and Flukes Began.

BY WARD MOREHOUSE.

New York, October 7.—(Special.)—The weather was different at the Polo grounds today, but the outcome of the game wasn't. The Yankee house is now as gray as the mist that hung somberly over the field on this dreary October afternoon.

On other days when the sun sized pitilessly the team of John McGraw showed an ability to lick the Yankees and lick them good; under entirely different weather conditions, with a soft drizzle falling, with innumerable umbrellas tops glistening on all sides, the indolent soggy and the jagged outline of Bronx apartment houses only a shadowy blur over the center field fence, the Giants again showed a pronounced superiority.

Giants Victory Sure.

When today's slushy and swashy battle ended 4 to 3 in favor of the Giants after the Yanks had given in the closing round the saddest exhibition of baseball ever seen among adult performers, about 37,000 of the 48,000 people in the park were willing to admit that the Yanks will do well if they can win one ball game. The series is about done and so is the Yankee team.

Unless Joe Bush, their ace, can block the National leaguers today, the sport world will witness a rout which has had no equal since the autumn days of 1914 when the Boston Braves made the Athletics the laughing stock of the universe. A man could now bet the state capital of Georgia against a dope and line on the Giants and not be thought rash by his friends.

They had said that the Giants didn't have any pitchers. They said that with no little pip, and upon that point everyone seemed agreed. All that can now be said in this connection is that if there are no pitchers on the staff of the New York National league team, there are no red hills in middle Georgia, no shell roads in Chatham county, no flappers on Whitehall street and no Ford in Columbus. Today for the fourth time in four successive days John J. McGraw, the quiet little man in the plain suit and soft hat, thrust his thumb paw into his grab bag and jerked out a pitcher that had the stuff, a world's series pitcher worth of the name.

McQuillan Good.

It was Hugh McQuillan that McGraw called on today, and Hugh McQuillan, a native of this city, a local boy, picked up today where Jack Scott, the lanky cotton planter, left off yesterday. True, the lucky young man who did the hurling today wasn't the man Jack Scott was yesterday, and save for the Yanks' own misery, the score would have been different. But the fact remains that after being pounded in the first inning the Giant hurler didn't allow another hit until the seventh.

During those five innings he had them walking up and walking back, and his infield was ever alert, here, there and everywhere, and he kept so on the left side of the inner defense might have resulted disastrously. This afternoon those Giant infielders had no nobbies in their eyes. The ground was hard, but they reached Groh and Bancroft and converted into ten outs, and whenever a throw was high or wide there was over on first or second where Kelly or his pine tree reach to grab the pill and make it beach.

Mays Looked Good.

The first Yankee victory would have been an achievement for a pitcher, and it seemed that the first half of the game that Carl Mays was to come into his own, and bring the Yanks into theirs. But there was one barrier that stood between the submarine hurler and the sweet joys of victory—the fifth inning. In this one round, as on the opening day of the series, the Giant batters scored all their runs.

Eliminate that inning and Mays would have had a shutout and a well pitched shutout at that. The official score shows that the Giants rammed Mays for nine hits. Five of the nine came in that disastrous fifth inning that ruined the Yanks. The five hits gathered in the fifth inning had no right to the name. Any decent self-respecting base hit would not associate with them. But those dinky raps really won that ball game.

Snyder Started It.

Snyder led off in the fifth for the mud-splattered Giants. His drive to Scott was a safe hit, if not the cleanest one on earth. McGraw, the pitcher, another of McGraw's so-called second string men, came to the plate. He surprised the Yanks, the Giants, and himself by driving a clean double into left. That made it two on with none out.

Then came hard luck for Carl Mays and for the Yanks. Bancroft slugged a bouncer down toward Ward. The little young Arkansan raced in to meet it and as he was ready to grab it on a bounce the ball took a clean over his head and two runs trickled across for the Giants. It was a horseshoe hit if there ever was one.

Heinie Groh was next. He tapped one from the first base line that Mays kicked about but couldn't grab. The next hit of the inning—a real one—was delivered by Ross Young, of Shiner, Texas, and came when Groh had reached third, and after Bancroft had scored.

league's first victory had been brought home. But after the fifth inning it would have been difficult for a charter member of the Optimists' club to have had any faith in an ultimate Yankee victory.

The Yankee cause at the beginning of the sixth inning seemed drearier than the day itself. Two runs were two runs and Hugh McQuillan, of Astoria, L. I., wasn't in an indulgent mood.

The seventh inning is memorable because of the home run drive over the left field fence of Second Baseman Aaron Ward, a drive that caused something of a tumult in the stands and that must have caused something more than a tumult out in Fort Smith, Ark., where Aaron pays taxes, has an account at the leading merchandise store and calls the mayor by his first name. Ward's prodigious wallop was his second home run of the series, these being two of the three made so far.

Smith Strikes Out.

With the hope that Elmer Smith, once of Cleveland, had at least one more world series homer in his system, Huggins again called upon Smith as a pinch hitter. Elmer did hit the roof of the right field with one foul, but after two strikes were on him stood as calm and as solidly erect as the Candler building and allowed a third one to whistle past, cutting the heart of the plate.

He gave the sticky field an absent-minded kick and walked forlornly back to the bench. You can figure out Smith's world series batting average for yourself. The Yankees ought to be sentenced to six months' hiking in the Okefenokee swamp for their stupid and inexcusable base running in the ninth inning. They simply kicked the game away, or at least, kicked away possibility of a tie. The Yankee fans had stuck around at the window of the Giant half. They believed that their team had one job left, and it did.

Pipp Loses Chance.

Pipp began the round with a blazing two-base drive to right. Only one run was needed to tie it up. Pipp was resting on second with none out. The Yanks had gotten to McQuillan again. The stands were in an uproar, the crowd was ready for action. There was going to be some fireworks right here. The bullpen of the Giants was as warm with activity, and it seemed that the entire hurling corps of McGraw was warming up. Then the Yanks began their dumb work.

Meusel knocked the ball to Groh and Pipp was caught between third and second. One out, and a Yankee on first base. The heartbreaking thing then happened—heartbreaking for the Yankees, at least. Schanz drove a solid liner to center, a clean, hard hit. Had Pipp then been upon second the tying run would have been over, as he could have scored easily. But even without Pipp on second the outcome might have been different had Schanz not tried to make second on the hit. Wallie was out by a foot, and the triumphant Giant fans went mad.

A man was on third, but two men were down. It was Aaron Ward's time at bat, and his homer on his previous trip to the plate certainly earned for him the right to hit for himself. He did not. The best he could do was a fly to Emil Meusel, waiting impatiently on in left for the thing to end so that he might hurry downtown for the delicious steak and French fried potatoes with Brother Bob and Bob's missus.

Nicht Against Bush.

Perhaps the Yanks can turn the trick tomorrow. Perhaps Joe Bush and his yawhaw ball can stop the Giants in their headlong rush. Perhaps Babe Ruth will get to hitting. But the Yankees have no right to hope that Cunningham caught up against the center field fence, but throughout the series he has been a bust. That's the truth, the plain, bitter truth. He did not. The best he could do was a fly to Emil Meusel, waiting impatiently on in left for the thing to end so that he might hurry downtown for the delicious steak and French fried potatoes with Brother Bob and Bob's missus.

REAL HE-MEN PLAY TODAY

BY M. D. GLEASON.

The people of Atlanta and vicinity will have the opportunity today to witness two teams composed of "he-men" play ball at Fort McPherson.

The army team is composed of big fellows who know good football and have been in many hardy drives today, and in Europe. Goldsmith, Beaulieu and Kiska were members of the all-army team, who beat Charley Brickley's professional team in Brooklyn last night.

The prison team will be a big surprise for the football public and will present a lineup of men who, through their environment, are in the very best of condition.

The backfield of this team is composed of big husky men and in "Bing" Miller and Jack Keating, two of the fastest men in the game, will be in action.

Both of these teams are being coached by two of the best men in Uncle Sam's service, Lieutenant H. E. Beine, who has a long record of putting out winning teams, and was selected as the best man in the army to coach this team.

The prison team is being looked after by O. T. Bishop, who is athletic officer at the big prison, manager, coach and guard of his players in the athletic field.

Six Good Battlers From One Atlanta Outfit

This galaxy of a half dozen dangerous looking and belligerently inclined young men are the battlers who fight under Colonel Walk Miller's flag. In the upper left-hand corner you see Fearless Ferns, the flashy lightweight whom there is none more fearless. Resting in an oval over the Fearless shoulder is Colonel Walk Miller in person. At the upper right-hand corner crouches Jack Dempsey Denham, light heavyweight who knocks the worst ones for deck of peanut butter sandwiches. Down in the lower left you see Freddie Boorde, featherweight, in the crouch from which has come many a death-dealing punch. Facing this large and intelligent audience in a none-too-friendly pose, you see Sammy Sandow, the great little bantamweight. The large figure further over is that of Battling Budd, lightweight champion of the south. He carries his brand on his thigh, "BB," as the onlooker will notice. The final figure in the lay-out is none other than Larry Avera, who fights as a junior welterweight and is feared from coast to coast. That completes the list.

BULLDOGS, JR., Southern Flyweight Belt To Be Presented Winner Of Jeff-Wilson Struggle

Local fight fans who like their fistfighting fast and furious are in for a treat on Tuesday night when Little Jeff, of Baltimore, and Young Claude Wilson meet over the 12-round route for the southern flyweight championship at the Auditorium.

A belt emblematic of this title will be presented to the winner by the American Legion, which is sponsoring the battling. The winner of the title is in line directly for a bout with Pancho Villa, flyweight champion of the United States for his title.

While it is true that there are only a comparative few of these little 112-pounders in the pugilistic firmament, the boys are mighty good. Little Jeff has fought Johnny Buff, Battling Murray, Jimmy Wilde, Indian Russell and all the rest of the best boys in his class. In his own right, he is in line for a bout with Villa for the title.

Jeff Gets Guarantee. Little Jeff, like the majority of the northern fighters, has been in the line for a long time. He is paid well for his work in a local ring. Jeff is coming here with a guarantee that is high, considering the houses that have been turning out for the bouts at the Auditorium. But Walk Miller, who is matchmaker for the legion, feels that the people here want real class. They have proven that they appreciate the class that has been offered here in the past few fights by increased patronage and as long as the fans turn out, Miller and the legion will gradually increase the class of their performances until a champion is brought here for a championship bout.

Each card that the legion has put on lately has been better than the last. Their first spurge into the realm of real pugilistic stars was when they brought Mel Cooper in here for Battling Budd. Then they brought Joe Welling in here for the same local battler, and the largest house of the year turned out. This was pretty near evidence that local ring patrons appreciate the real class. Now they have imported Little Jeff, who is even better in his class than the other scrappers were in theirs.

Now for those who don't care so much for the boxing end, a battle of the small giants, Johnny Kid Napier and Louie Silver, has been arranged. Both of these boys can hit with the kick of the proverbial mule, and still keep fighting. Napier, for his poundage, hits just as hard as the great Jack Dempsey, and Dempsey hits rather hard, as is well known.

Louie Silver is a combination of soccer and scientific fighter. His blows lack a lot of being "rapier-like." There is too much kick in them. He has a defense that many of the local fans will want to see in action against the hard-hitting Napier.

Fourth Baseball Classic Is Played in Driving Rain—Giants Now Have Three Games to Yankees' None.

Thursday's tie game will be the nearest the Yanks will come to smelling a victory in this embroglio. "We have got the Yanks on the dead run," said Heinie Groh, midge third sacker of the Giants and exponent of the bottle bat, "and we will keep them on the run. The Yanks were supposed to have a five-starred pitching staff but I have not seen it yet."

The endless mist closed in during the day, dampening the field and making prospects of a contest uncertain. The weather man took a slant to the east and figured that the ocean breeze would bring showers before nightfall. The wind came in puffs from the east beginning with an intermittent drizzle.

Henry Fabian, groundkeeper, had the base paths, pitchers' and batters' boxes blanketed under heavy canvas. The outer gardens were in need of rain and the drizzle served only to ally the dusty top soil.

The crowd and the wet weather did not seem to rust the edge of its enthusiasm. Spectators placed newspapers on wet chairs and watched the threatening down.

Series Attendance Is Slightly Off

Polo Grounds, New York, October 7.—Attendance and receipts for fourth game follow: Attendance 36,242; receipts $118,384; players' share $60,375.84; each club's share $20,125.28; commission's share $17,757.60.

Polo Grounds, New York, October 7.—(By the Associated Press).—The Giants won their third victory from the New York Yankees this afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. The world series now stands, Giants 3, Yanks 0. The contest was played in a driving rain.

The National leaguers fell upon the submarine hurler, Carl Mays, in the fifth inning, hammering him for five hits that scored four runs. The Yankees started the game like winners, hitting McQuillan hard but the Giant pitcher recovered himself and for the next five innings did not yield the Yankees a hit. Ward crashed a home run in the seventh and the Yankees threatened again in the ninth but the Giants' defense kept them away from the plate.

Giants Use Heads. Quick thinking by the Giants' base runners and their coaches during their attack in the fifth inning enabled them to take full advantage of the breaks caused by the rain and mud, while slugging work, both physical and mental, by Yankee runners was the largest factor in bringing about the third downfall of the American league champions. A little more audacity on the paths by the Yankees might have scored three runs instead of two in their first assault.

They would have tied the score when Ward hit his homer in the seventh had not Bob Meusel halted a second on his way to first after sending a bouncer to Groh, the Giant third baseman, then the slippery ball to first and Kelly dropped it, but he was able to pick it up in time for a putout because Meusel, thinking his doubt an easy one to handle had slowed down on his run to the bag.

Again in the ninth inning the Yankees lapsed into sluggish base running. Pipp, who began a final attack with a hard two-base blow, was trapped between second and third when Meusel, who followed him to bat, drove the ball to Groh. A moment later Schanz singled, a hit which would have sent Pipp in with the tying run.

Murk and Mist. Murk and mist lay cupped in the dark hollows of the Polo grounds when the game began off Old Man Gloom sat in the clubhouse of the Yankees, who were reeling under two blows on the button from the aggressive National league champions. The American leaguers were the home folks today and gave funeral welcome to the Giants who are seeking to make it four straight over the Hudson river and capture the crown of baseball.

How the Giants Won Saturday

FIRST INNING—Giants: Bancroft got a single off Mays' glove. Mays threw out Groh at first, Bancroft at first. Frisch went to second, no sacrifice. Frisch sent out a liner to Meusel. Scott threw out Meusel at first, no runs, one hit, no errors.

Yankees: Witt stung a sharp single into center field. Dugan singled into left, Witt took to second. Ruth sent out a fly to Cunningham in center field, who took the ball against the fence. Witt went to third on the catch. Dugan held first. A little more and the ball would have gone into the center field bleachers. Witt scored on Pipp's single to right. Pipp was out trying to stretch it, Cunningham threw to Frisch, who went to third. Dugan scored on Meusel's hot liner to right. Meusel stole second and went to third on Snyder's wild throw. Schanz struck out. Two runs, four hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING—Giants: Young sent out a fly to Meusel. Mays took Kelly's easy roller and threw him out. Cunningham walked. Dugan sent out a fly to Meusel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees: It was raining quite hard. Ward fled out to Young in deep right. Bancroft threw out Scott at first. The Yankees were hitting the first ball pitched. Frisch threw out Mays at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING—Giants: Schanz threw out McQuillan at first. Bancroft walked. Groh sent up a high fly to Meusel. Frisch sent out a long fly to Ruth, who made a nice running catch. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees: Witt fled out to Cunningham. Groh threw out Dugan. Ruth sent out a fly to Meusel. Pipp fled out to Young. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING—Giants: Dugan made short work of Meusel's grounder and got him at first. Young singled past Pipp. Kelly hit a long one near the right field stand, which Ruth nearly missed. Kelly forced Young. Pipp to Scott. Cunningham forced Kelly. Ward to Scott. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Yankees: Meusel struck out. Schanz sent up a high fly, which Young took. Ward struck out. McQuillan was improving in his pitching. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING—Giants: Rain was still falling steadily. Snyder got a single, which Scott was only able to knock down. McQuillan doubled to left field. Snyder going to third. Snyder and McQuillan scored on Bancroft's single, which was a mean hop over Ward's head. A scorching hit off Mays' glove. Bancroft going to second. Schanz sacrificed Mays to Pipp. Pipp going to third and Groh to second. Bancroft scored when Ward threw. Groh at first. Groh went to third. Young was caught off first base by being Mays to Pipp. No runs, four hits, no errors.

Yankees: Schanz scored in the first two quarters, one of the touchdowns resulting from a spectacular 65-yard run by Smythe after he had accepted a forward pass.

KANSAS HOLDS ARMY TO 13-TO-0 SCORE

West Point, October 7.—The University of Kansas made its eastern debut on the gridiron today and put the Missouri valley on the football map, even though it was defeated by the Army, 13 to 0.

The Cadets scored all their points in the first two quarters, one of the touchdowns resulting from a spectacular 65-yard run by Smythe after he had accepted a forward pass.

CLEMSON SUBMERGES NEWBERRY, 57 TO 0

Clemson College, S. C., October 7.—(Special.)—Clemson's second game of the season produced a great deal of excitement for her supporters as a result of her 57 to 0 score over Newberry on Riggs field this afternoon. Clemson ran 28 points in the first half on a nice dry field while the second stringers duplicated the performance in the second half in a driving rain which completely stands off all but the cadet corps. Dotterer's work at quarterback in the second half was very gratifying to Coach Stewart.

TECH IS BETTER TEAM NOW

in itself would not hurt so bad, but the penalties came at the worst possible times. One time we were on the 2-yard line, and were penalized half the distance to the goal line. Another time we were on the 5-yard line, and a 15-yard penalty hit us. Again on the 12-yard line, when another of the same nature knocked us back to the 20-yard line, scoring higher than a kite. On a dry field the distance probably could have been retrieved. But in that bog where a player could dig his feet in for four yards, retaliation was impossible.

In spite of the score, Tech of yesterday was a better team than the one with which they were matched, and the Thorpe. Of course, they looked ragged, and many times were unable to gain. It was natural that the interschool crowd should sympathize with Tech, feeling was insecure. But the effort was there, the boys were trying hard, and they had drive in spots.

Fumbles Are Few.

The boys' good fortune in favor of both teams was the absence of fumbles. You would expect many fumbles on a wet day, when the ball is slippery as the proverbial eel. Tech fumbled a couple of times, as did Davidson, but neither team was hurt.

The most heart wrenching feature of the game from the Tech standpoint was the little incident which occurred at the Tech end of the third quarter. A new team went in for Tech. We received and rushed the ball on straight football from the 37-yard line to Davidson's 2-yard line. The Tech team was not ready for the Davidson team had a little alteration. The Tech man was removed from the game and the team was penalized half the distance to the goal.

Davidson showed its usual quality: the men did not know when they were kicked. They played as hard in the last minute as in the first. They never let up and were in there driving all

But it's Alabama next Saturday, and Tech has got to be right to beat them.

Tech team any points. Perhaps there is something so uncanny about a man named McWhorter playing on a Tech team that the gods of football, if any, couldn't see their way clear to let his efficiency help the gang along to higher numbers to print in the paper.

Pass Fails to Work.

Tech's prospective forward passing game, which burst on the horizon against Oglethorpe and bade fair to be a feature of the season, was conspicuous by its absence yesterday. The boys from the flats tried a quintet of the aerial efforts against Davidson, but succeeded in none of them. One attempt almost got away in the first session when Jack McDonough tossed one right into the pit of Red Barron's well known tummy. But the ball was so slimy that it slipped and floundered away from the snatching Barron. The other trials were either verthrown or knocked down. Davidson intercepted one of them, but that Rather did some rather nice punting in the first half. He seemed to have had an intensive course in punting, for out of bounds and gained substantial yardage on several of his interchanges with the Davidson booter.

Clarke, Moore and Shepherd did the best defensive work for the guests, and Moore, a half back of some prepossession qualities, was about the only man able to dent the Tech line.

Rain is Unpleasant

The crowd didn't have much fun Saturday. In the first place, there was a nasty drizzle playing tag with feminine cheeks and threatening emolition to the creases in its masculine trousers most of the time. And the same rain made the game uninteresting.

But things are advancing well. The first game of the season, with Oglethorpe, found many who had not yet and the exact shade of contralto bass which is best to use in cheering a team.

room triumph. Consistent practice in three-room apartments, with sun-parlor, to the strains of "Hot Lips" the Victrola, for the ladies, and practice in various places to the tender strains of "Sweet Adeline" for the men, has remedied the situation.

The season, however, has brought it one thrill deep-digging enough to make the basso profundo of the men wander off into husky head tones, to make the conservatory contralto of the first Cheering Improves.

The stands that serve as a roost for the falsetto tenors and moderated baritone of the Tech students are running along nicely, thank you. The Team leaders have gotten most of the work out of their muscles and will be able to contort and cawt with the manner of ease and anatomical fitness by the time Knute Rockne shifts his crew to shift its shift against the local chapter of Shifters. The Tech Athletic association must next year appoint a committee to wait on Mr. von Herrmann early in September and appraise him of the football scheduled. He has committed atrocities the past two Saturdays that no self-respecting football

WOMEN GOLFERS START AFTER CROWN MONDAY

Midwest May Triumph Against East

Iowa Will Have More Plays Than Yale, But Less Men.

BY WALTER CAMP.

By a certain combination of circumstances, the middle west this season has an opportunity practically to jump into the saddle of leadership and pre-eminence on the national gridiron.

If Iowa defeats Yale and Centre defeats Harvard and Chicago defeats Princeton, it would be a smashing blow for the so-called "Big Three," and one not soon forgotten. What are the chances of it?

Yale is well bulwarked with veteran material, while Iowa has lost four men of practically all-American caliber—Belding, Slater and the two Devines. True, Yale has graduated a star in Aldrich, but that is about the only serious loss she has suffered. The Elis have had a long preliminary season, and their plays therefore should be better oiled up for use. Iowa is making a long trip, but it is true that Chicago stood such a journey and defeated Princeton at the end of it.

Iowa will have at their command—in case they can handle the plays after the loss of Devine's greater variety of attack than anything Yale exploited, at any rate last season. But Yale with Jordan, in spite of all the credit that should be given Lickie, will have a stronger direct attacking punch between tackle and tackle. Neidinger will use Aldrich's runs well, and Mallory is a wonderful defensive back.

Iowa Line Hurt.

The Iowa line will miss Slater and Belding and whether the plays which were so good last season will work out as well with these men missing, and especially without Devine to start and steer them is a question. On the whole, the odds therefore favor Yale, although she will have much to do to perfect her defense against the forward passes. She is certainly likely to wear down the Iowa line with the driving plays of Jordan. Can she handle the varied attack that Howard Jones will put over against her? If it were the attack of last season with all the men in, the answer would be that Yale would have great trouble doing this, but at present, missing some of its old and experienced men, has a way of shutting up under pressure and that may happen to Iowa.

As to the Centre-Harvard game, Centre won last year and therefore there is much more pressure on Harvard to answer the challenge with her very best this season, and Centre has a man of great value, Harvard in Owen and Centre in Roberts. The latter has lost more in McMillan than has Harvard in the loss of any of her players. They think very much of Covington, however, to fill the shoes of their last year's brilliant star, and he may be able to do it.

Harvard's Kicking.

Between Pitts and Owen, the variety and style of Harvard's kicking should be superior and Buell, as quarterback, has proved himself a rare general, and upon him will devolve the use of Harvard's strategy. Centre will take many more chances than will Harvard, but when the time comes for a desperate play, Buell is the man to try it out. Harvard will keep a more steady pressure on Centre's line, and a more effective one; the product of a greater defensive and offensive experience. On the whole, this game looks to be somewhat in favor of the home team at this writing.

As for the Princeton-Chicago game, the loss of Princeton's material, especially a veteran material, has been very marked, and since they are unable to answer the Chicago attack last year, there is, at this writing, no very great amount of confidence that they can answer it this year. A great deal of Chicago's work was pure strategy. In fact, men were put into some shifts and formations merely for the purpose of attracting Princeton's attention, and this worked. If I hope can get his team to keep their eyes on the ball and not be flummoxed by this part of Chicago's strategy will be weakened. Nevertheless, it seems like a hard row that Princeton has to hoe to turn the tables. This is presuming that Stagg gets his men up to the point of last year's precision in operation.

Of the three games, therefore, it would look as if the east had a chance to winning two, but there is not enough difference to say that a slight whirl in the wheel of fortune would find the "Big Three" defeated.

MAURER IS RULED ELIGIBLE

APPEAL FOR CENTRE INELIGIBLES IS DENIED

BY S. I. A. A. COMMITTEE

All doubt of the eligibility of H. P. Maurer, halfback of Oglethorpe, was removed by the final decision of the executive committee of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association, which adjourned here Saturday night. The committee has been in the city for a two-day session, in which they have tried several cases of infringement upon the rules of the S. I. A. A.

Maurer's case was considered on the ground that he had not completed a year at Oglethorpe. The rule bars all freshmen or first year men from any intercollegiate contests. On investigating this case, it was found that Maurer had come to Oglethorpe last spring from Piedmont college. This would have disqualified him under ordinary circumstances, but he was judged eligible, due to the fact that he had attended Oglethorpe before it joined the association.

Decline Centre's Appeal.

The executive committee declined to grant the appeal of Centre college, that two of its football stars, Shadon and Gordy, were declared ineligible April 27, 1922, be restored to the team, but announced that the case would be reconsidered at the annual meeting of the association at Greenville, S. C., in December.

1,600 Athletes Will Take Part In Legion Meet at New Orleans

Johnny Weismuller Is Among Others Entered to Battle for Titles With Legion Experts.

New Orleans, October 8.—(Special) With an entry list of 1,600 athletes and 46 rifle teams, the American Legion national athletic championships, to be held during the legion national convention in New Orleans, October 16-20, loom up as one of the largest meets held in this country.

Reports received at convention headquarters from legion departments indicate that full track and field teams will be brought to the gathering. In addition to the 46 rifle teams from the various departments, hundreds of individuals will shoot for medals in the legion free-for-all. Entries in all athletic events closed October 1.

The list of names of athletes participating reads like a roster of the country's best athletic talent. Many legion men entered have held or now hold world's records.

California's track and field team will be led by Charles Paddock, world champion and holder of the record for the 100-yard dash, his time for that distance being 9.5 seconds. In a recent athletic carnival held at Stanford university stadium, winning ex-service men were chosen to represent California in all events. Their rifle teams are said to be strong.

Weismuller Entered.

Johnny Weismuller, champion speed swimmer, and Norman Ross, international Olympic swimmer, are among the entrants. Weismuller will endeavor to break some of his own records at the Audubon park lagoon, where the swimming will take place. J. S. Prescott, low hurdle record holder, and H. E. Hagen, 220-yard man of inter-collegiate fame, will run for Illinois, and Bob Gardner, former national amateur golf champion, will be among the entrants.

Walter Hoover, world's champion oneman, has challenged all comers. He represents the Minnesota department of the legion, which has challenged all other departments to four and eight-oar rowing races. A complete track and field team will be put in the field by the Minnesota department. In addition to the marine rifle team from Quantico, Virginia, is sent-

Officials of Centre appearing before the committee contended that the two men, who were suspended with five other players for participating in an American Legion exhibition game at Pleasantville, Ky., last fall had been punished sufficiently. The petitioners also testified that Shadon and Gordy did not know at the time that there was a rule prohibiting S. I. A. A. athletes from appearing in games other than college contests.

Upholding the ruling, Robert T. Hinton, of Georgetown college, Georgetown, Ky., who is president of the Kentucky-Tennessee district said that it would mean setting aside the affair should close not later than the Saturday immediately following "Thanksgiving day."

This ruling will no doubt affect the game scheduled for Havana, Cuba, on Christmas day, between the University of Florida and Louisiana State, the by-laws reading that the "football season shall close not later than the Saturday immediately following "Thanksgiving day."

ing three athletes who are record holders in their chosen events. Francis H. Byrd, jumper, is just a shade under the world's record in standing and running broad jumps in addition to being a formidable weight man. Charles McCormack will enter the discus and 56-pound weight. McCormack was navy heavyweight boxing champion while in the service and is expected to carry off the legion title in amateur heavyweight bouts. Dr. Walter E. Miller, who was one of the runners-up in the recent golf play at Brookline, Mass., will lead Virginia's golf team.

New York, Kansas and Nebraska legionnaires are holding their athletic carnivals and will finish them in time to announce their entries prior to event. Reports from those states show that ex-service men have been in training throughout the entire summer in preparation for the finals, to win the honor of coming to New Orleans as state athletic representatives.

One hundred and fifty ex-service men will take part in the amateur boxing and wrestling bouts. Tennessee is sending eight star tennis players, while as full track, field and aquatic teams.

Favor Louisiana.

Louisiana sport writers believe that men from that state will have a shade the better of other contestants, because they are acclimated and are trained on the grounds that will be used for the contests. In the rifle events Louisiana will stand well up among the leaders, since its team is composed of nationally-known shots who have been in constant practice for the last three months. Included in its membership are Colonel Guy Molony, superintendent of New Orleans police; Henry Haffner, Emilio Severin, Captain E. C. Nicholas and Lieutenant G. L. Shaw.

Tulane university stadium track, where running events will be held, will be entirely rebuilt during the next few weeks. The present track will be sacrificed and a new bed of cinders laid.

The legion proposes to make its athletic events an annual feature of national conventions. Athletic activities are supervised by a national athletic commission appointed by National Commander Hanford McMiller. Its members are J. R. Murphy, former University of Iowa football star, chairman; Grantland Rice, sporting editor, New York Tribune; Sam H. McKeck, in sport editor, Louisville Courier-Journal; Frank Flannery, Chicago, former Washington and Jefferson star, and Milford F. Kohler, legion director of athletics in Kansas. Al C. Lindberg, Chicago, former track football and baseball star of the University of Illinois.

ELKS MARK TIME As Convention Fund Increases

Education Board Would Locate Girls' School
There—City School
Names Chosen.

By unanimous vote at a meeting Saturday morning the board of education recommended purchase of the Jackson tract of 20 acres at the south end of Grant park as the site for the new girls' high school, adopted names for twenty bond issue schools to be built, and ordered a public probe next Saturday of controversial conditions at Inman Park school, which are said to have continued since the unsuccessful effort of a number of patrons last June to have Miss Nell Gatins ousted as principal.

The Jackson tract lies across Atlanta avenue from the south end of Grant park and will cost $41,500. Those who voted for its purchase were Mayor Key, W. L. McCalley, Carl Hutcherson, A. C. Meixell and W. W. Gaines, president. Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson and Councilman J. C. Murphy were absent.

Mr. Meixell advocated the Capitol avenue-Vanira street site. So did Mr. Hutcherson, but both said that since the bond commission was opposed to this location and since the people are demanding that a site be selected, they were willing to join in support of the Jackson property.

McCalley Speaks.
Mr. McCalley delivered a vigorous speech urging the Grant park location, and declared that in addition to its natural topographical advantages, it is near the convergence of nine street car lines.

Attached to the resolution he introduced was a letter from the 1923 board of Fulton commissioners pledging their help to extend the Lloyd street and Grant park trunk sewers to the city limits, and a letter from A. Ten Eyck Brown, supervising architect for the bond issue schools, declaring that the site was the most suitable of any suggested.

In voicing his objection, Commissioner Meixell said: "I have been approached by hundreds of people who live in my section who declare that if the school goes to the vicinity of Grant park they will be forced to send their children to private schools. Are the people really ready for this so soon after defeat of the proposal to place the school in the north end of Grant park?"

Certain interests in this city," replied Mr. McCalley, "spent their money in advertising to defeat the Grant park site and sell the Capitol avenue-Vanira street site to the people. I tell you the Capitol avenue-Vanira street site is loaded with dynamite. It is backed by people who want to sell it at a profit, and those interests want Jim Woodward in the race for mayor in an effort to get it over."

Schools Named.
The new senior high school for boys was named by the board in honor of the late Henry W. Watson. The English Avenue grammar school was named for Thomas E. Watson, and the West Junior High school for Woodrow Wilson.

The complete list of the schools and their names are as follows:
High school for girls, the Bernard Mallon Senior High School for Girls; high school for boys, the Henry W. Grady Senior High School for Boys; northwest junior high school, the Joseph E. Brown Junior High School; northeast junior high school, the William A. Bass Junior High School; west junior high school, the Woodrow Wilson Junior High School; south junior high school, the Hoke Smith Junior High School.

English Avenue school, the Thomas E. Watson school; Virginia Avenue school, the Samuel M. Inman school; Ivy-Caboun replacement, the Daniel C. O'Keefe school; Forthwell Street replacement, the David Meyer school; Fraser Street replacement, the James L. Key school; Faith school replacement, the Laura A. Haygood Normal Training school; Lucile Avenue school, the Joel Chandler Harris school; East Atlanta school, John B. Gordon school; North Avenue school, the Ella W. Smilie school.

Colored Schools: Senior-junior high school, the Booker T. Washington Junior-Senior High school; Storrs-Houston replacement, the David T. Howard Junior High school; the William H. Crozman school; Roach-Mitchell replacement, the Edmund A. Ware school; Summer Hill school, the Edwin P. Johnson school.

School Controversy.
The Inman Park school controversy was renewed in a resolution introduced by Commissioner Carl Hutcherson, in which he said reports had reached him that a number of teachers in the school refused to speak to parents of the pupils, refused to speak to Mrs. R. M. Mitchell, a grade teacher, except on school business, and some of them went so far as to call her a "falsifier" in the presence of Superintendent J. A. Sutton when the superintendent visited the school in the role of peacemaker.

He also charged that they threatened revolt if Miss Nell Gatins were permanently removed as principal. A delegation of Inman Park parents was present at the meeting. Mrs. E. W. McDade, who said she had been charged that the teachers will not speak to the parents of children whom they teach.

Parent Complaints.
"Personally, I think the example of the teachers in giving the children lessons in disrespect," she said. Mrs. McDade appealed to the board to send Mrs. R. M. Mitchell, who was recently transferred from Inman Park to the Edgewood school, back to Inman Park, saying "the patrons love her and want her back."

"It looks like we ought to hold a public investigation," observed Mayor Key, "and find out who's wrong and why, and find out who's right and why."

The board voted in accordance with this sentiment, and the first probe session will be held at city hall next Saturday morning, starting at 10 o'clock.

PECAN LABORATORY FOR THOMASVILLE, GA.
Thomasville, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Of much interest to pecan growers in this section is the announcement that Thomasville will be the location for a pecan insect laboratory. This information came from the bureau of entomology and plans are being made for the laboratory. It will be in charge of specialists, and important investigations will be made all insects that attack the pecans. Finance Committee Confident of Raising Huge Fund for 1923 Meeting.

Although the finance committee of the 1923 Elks convention board has been marking time this week waiting for the complete list of subscriptions now in hand to be collected, there has been an average of a thousand dollars a day turned in to the committee by various division chairmen who have been clearing up their territory since the formal close of the drive two weeks ago.

William T. Perkerson, the finance chairman, states that some of the returns have been previously reported in totals already announced, and quite a bit of the money and pledges received during the week is new.

The division on advertising agencies made its first report during the week. R. Winston Harvey, chairman of the division, turned in several subscriptions. Dave W. Webb added a considerable amount to his total, for the printers and stationers, and this brings his very heavy quota almost to completion. Courthouse officials have practically cleaned up their quota with latest reports.

Although there is a considerable amount of the total convention fund still unpledged, the 1923 convention board is renewing its efforts to complete all plans to have them in shape for the coming visit of the officers of the grand lodge next month. Members of the board are proceeding on the theory that Atlanta will contribute every dollar necessary before the visit of the grand lodge officials.

Councilman R. A. Gordon, who occupies quite an important position in the councils of the grand lodge of Elks as he does in city hall councils, states that in addition to the officials of the grand lodge since the meeting of the district deputies in Chicago last week shows that Atlanta's reputation for hospitality is going to be put to severe test when the convention meets.

Record Delegations.
"Information comes to me from the district deputy from Kansas that Kansas Elks will furnish a minimum of three solid train loads," he states. "Elks from the state of Washington will be here in full force. Even Montana, handicapped by small numbers of great distance, is making preparation to win a special train. The head of the Massachusetts Elks has verified the statement made in Atlanta two weeks ago by a representative from Boston that not less than 1,000 would come from Massachusetts alone."

"If the more distant states are coming down in such large numbers, what can we expect from the states of the central west and from the middle Atlantic states, where Elks are thickest and transportation to Atlanta is fairly easy. From my experience with previous annual gatherings of the grand lodge, I think that I can safely predict at this time the largest convention in the annals of the order—and that means a whale of a crowd."

"Our local lodge has got to prepare for more than we expect, because I believe that if the figures we are using as a basis for laying out plans is materially changed, it will be in an upward direction. This makes it all the more important that every cent of money that has been asked for, the full $150,000, shall be raised with as little delay as possible."

All pledges and subscriptions made during the recent drive have finally been collected at convention headquarters. The total now in hand is slightly under the amount announced by the various committees during the campaign. Plans are now being made to organize five or six committees of three and four men each who shall take the field and continue solicitation for funds until the last dollar has been raised.

Atlanta will join cities in 27 states this week in doing homage to the discoverer of America. Thursday will be the 430th anniversary of that day. Christopher Columbus will be honored at a special patriotic celebration to be held at the Capital City park Thursday night under the auspices of the Atlanta council of the Knights of Columbus.

Following a banquet for 300 guests the ceremonies will be formally opened at 8 o'clock with "M. C. Kelly, 'Tis of Thee," after which Judge Sheppard Bryan will tell something of what Columbus and the land he discovered have contributed to the world. He will be followed by Dr. M. Kelly Jones, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, who will respond to the toast "America." Mr. C. Kelly will be master of ceremonies. The banquet will begin at 7 o'clock.

The committee in charge of preparations reported Saturday that it will be necessary to close registration list Monday, so great have been requests for plates.

The dancing program will immediately follow the banquet, which will end at 9:30 o'clock.

Special banquet committees have been announced. The reception committee will consist of the membership of the fourth degree assembly. Other committees are:

Arrangements Committee—M. C. Carroll, chairman; John F. Wagoner, J. C. Hamilton, Evelyn Harris, J. Charles, G. A. Hamilton, Paul Hanley, John A. Dick, J. A. Lambert, J. J. McGrath.

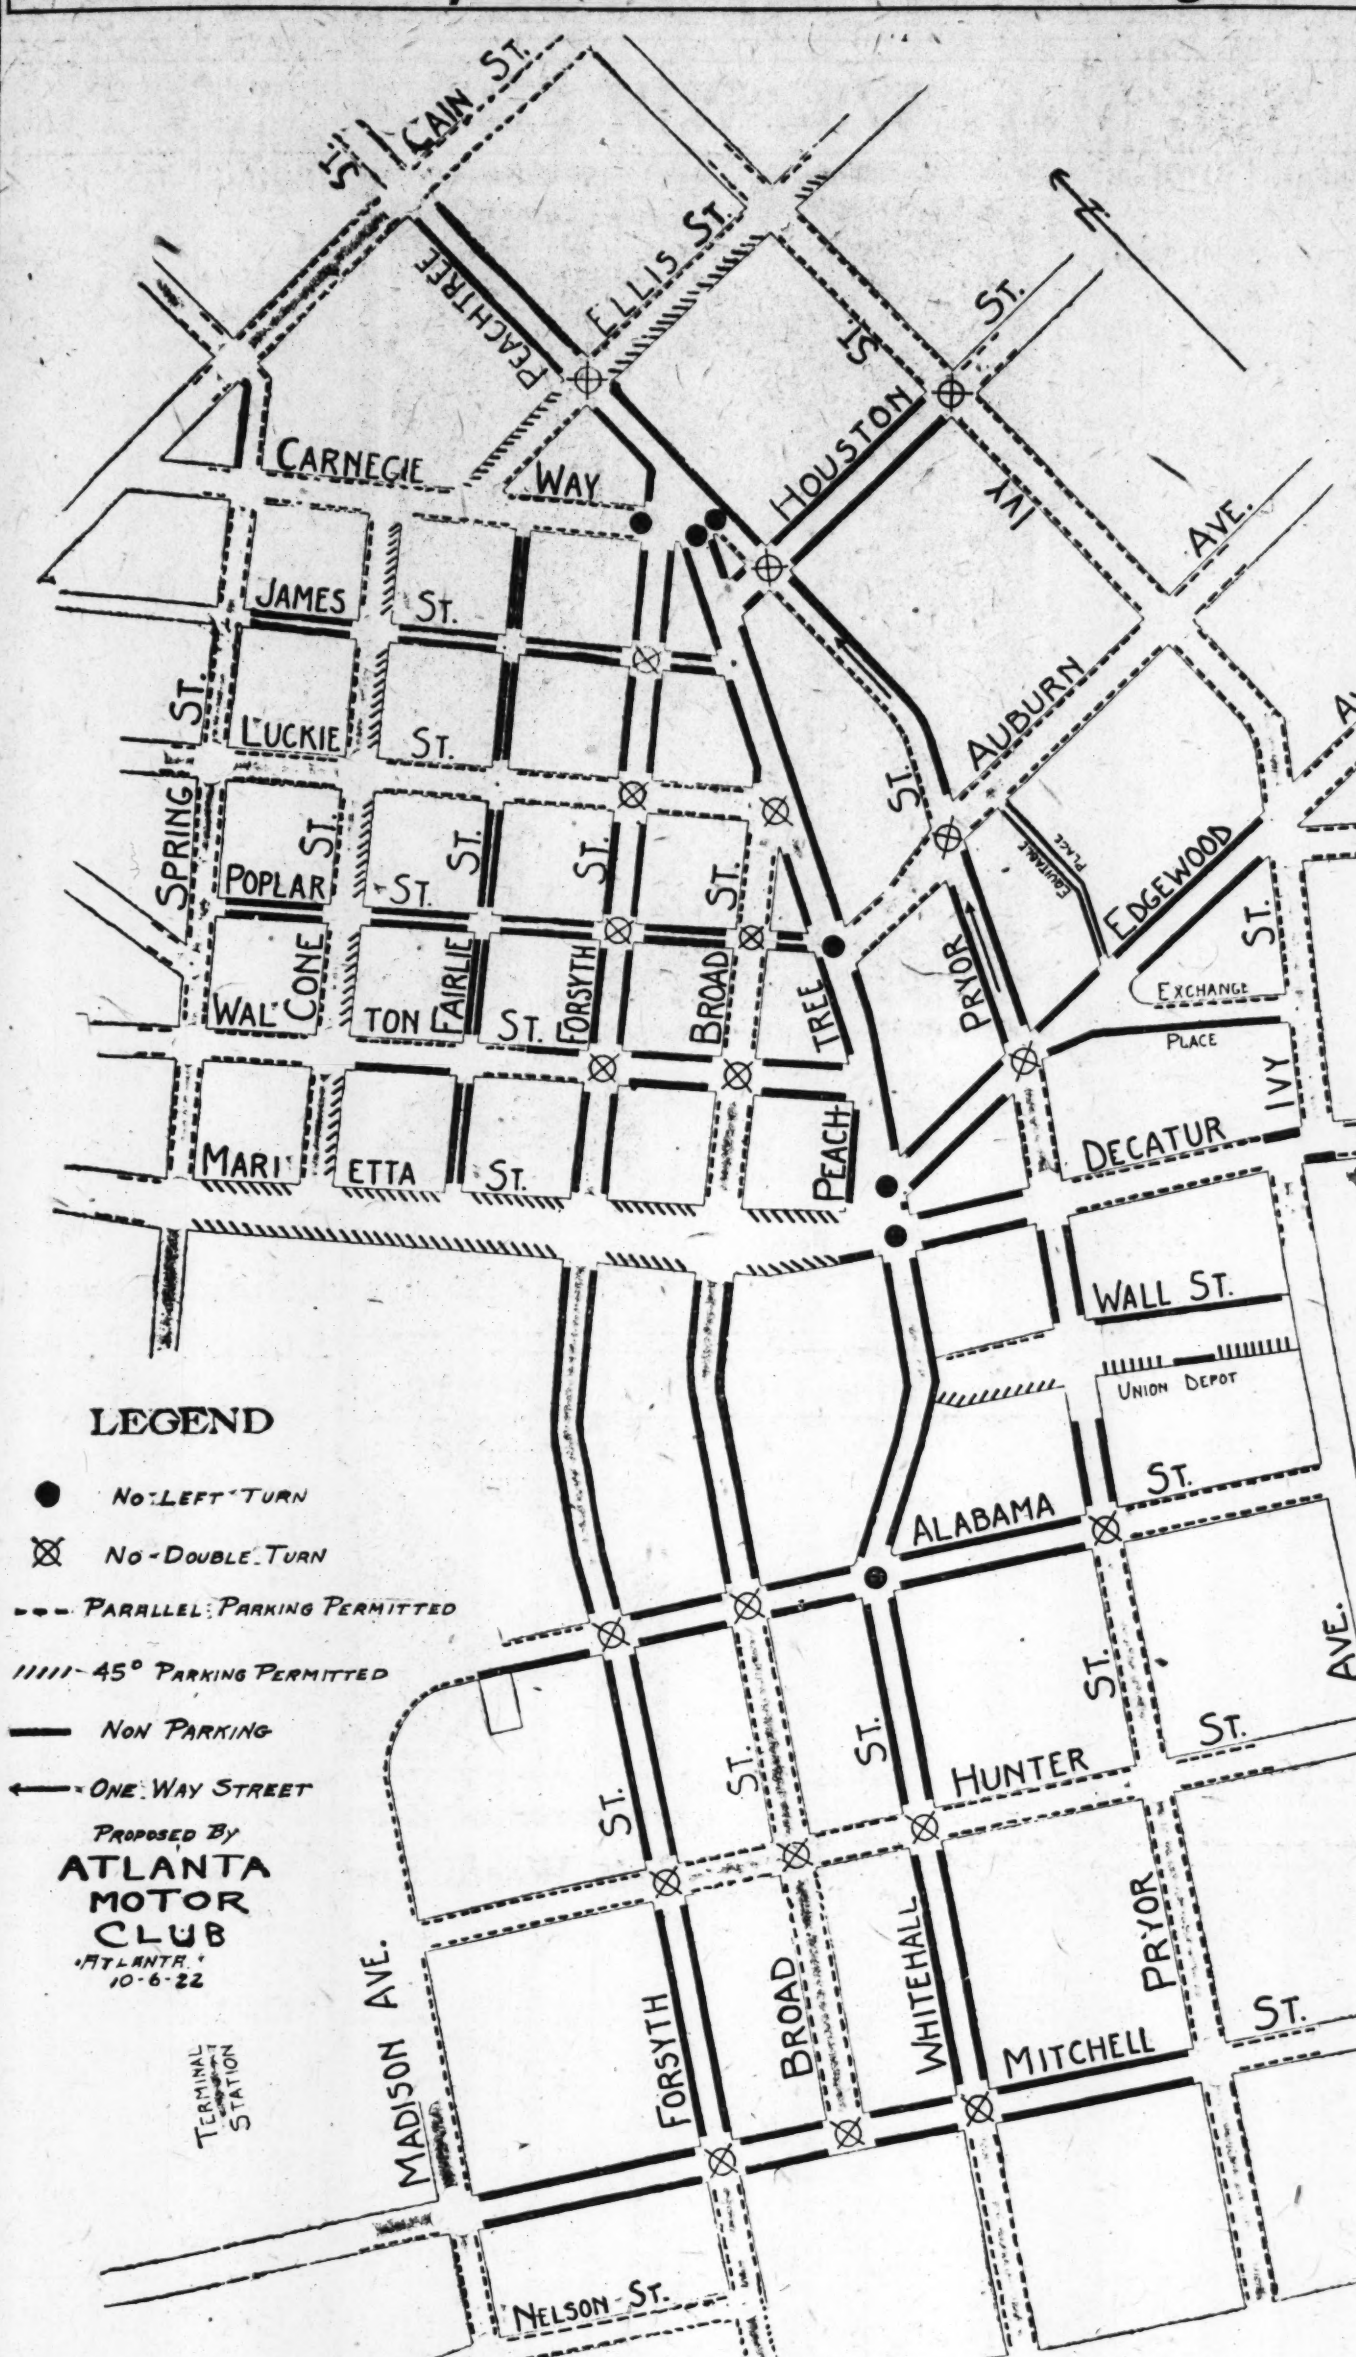

Speakers and Guests Committee—W. P. Green, chairman; Paul Keeney, J. W. Somers, Ed. F. J. A. McElaney, W. G. Chamberlain, Norton Sullivan.

Music and Decorations Committee—E. J. Green, chairman; Paul Keeney, J. W. Somers, Ed. F. J. A. McElaney, W. G. Chamberlain, Norton Sullivan.

SENATE RACE WARM
IN THOMAS COUNTY
Thomasville, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—How will Thomas county go in the race for United States senator to complete the term of the late Senator Watson? Is a question that is causing much speculation here, and no satisfactory answer, as is doubtless the case in most counties in Georgia.

Although Thomas went for Walker in the gubernatorial primary, Hardwick has a strong following of recent daylight burglaries following the arrest of Allen Dunnean, colored, of 230 Auburn avenue.

New Plan Proposed to Lessen Traffic Congestion

The above map illustrates the proposed changes in the downtown traffic regulations, which plan will be submitted to the ordinance committee at a public hearing next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This plan is the first worked out by the Atlanta Motor Club, and according to officials of the club, the changes suggested here are absolutely necessary in order that traffic congestion may be relieved.

With the adoption of this plan, the state motor club members, the relief of disorder in handling traffic just as Luckie and Broad streets have been cleared through effort on the part of the club in securing the painted lanes to indicate where parking is permitted and where the law forbids parking.

In the plan as shown above, space has been provided for parking 1,500 cars, according to W. G. Peebles, Jr., secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club. Considerable sentiment in favor of adoption of this plan has been aroused, Mr. Peebles says, and it is very likely that it will be passed by the ordinance committee.

Commenting on the difficulties now encountered in handling traffic, Mr. Peebles called attention to the enormous number of vehicles crossing the three viaducts, and declared that these were one cause of the great congestion. During the rush hours, he said, 700 vehicles pass over the Broad and Whitehall viaducts, while the Forsyth viaduct handles 800 vehicles per hour.

That the plan here outlined is thoroughly practical is vouched for by members of the motor club who say that it follows very closely the present regulations in force in Toledo, Ohio, which city has physical characteristics very similar to Atlanta. Following adoption of the plan, Mr. Peebles stated, the merchants of the district affected reported an actual increase in business, and attributed it to the fact that orderly handling of the traffic resulted in more customers trading in the downtown center.

"We are firmly convinced," said Mr. Peebles, "that the growth of suburban business centers is directly traceable to the fact that downtown traffic is so congested that more and more people are doing their buying in the less crowded sections rather than go to the central section of the city. This plan, if adopted, will enable shoppers to get in and out of the principal business section without so much inconvenience, and we feel sure that it will mean an increase in business to the stores in this district."

Police, Searching Prisoner's Home, Find $1,000 Worth Men's Wearing Apparel.
Police believed Saturday they had captured a man who is responsible for a large number of recent daylight burglaries following the arrest of Allen Dunnean, colored, of 230 Auburn avenue.

Dunnean was caught by a posse of citizens after he is alleged to have broken into the apartment of Mrs. Hugh Scott, of the Russell apartments, West Peachtree and Seventeenth streets.

Dunnean was caught by a posse of citizens after he is alleged to have broken into the apartment of Mrs. Hugh Scott, of the Russell apartments, West Peachtree and Seventeenth streets.

Detectives Satterfield and McGee went to the Scott home in response to a call, but prior to their arrival the alleged burglar had been chipped by a crowd of citizens and captured.

Search of the negro's home disclosed clothing valued at $1,000, for which he could give no account.

Details of the financial campaign were worked out Friday night at a supper given at the Deatur Presbyterian church by the ladies' auxiliary of the Oakhurst church.

The Oakhurst church was organized by a commission composed of Dr. Ben R. Lacy, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church; Rev. W. P. McGee, pastor of the Deatur church, and C. D. Montgomery.

Dr. Paul S. Rhodes, of the Oakhurst church, is at present the supply pastor. Officers of the church are Elders E. D. Hart and John K. Madrox, and Deacons J. E. Compton, H. W. Ridgely, G. T. Lewis, Jr., and E. L. Jakes.

Bakery Consolidation.
New York, October 7.—The United States Baking Corporation of Chicago will take over the Schultz Bread company, controlling a dozen large wholesale bakeries here, within a month, according to a story published today by the Brooklyn Eagle.

That the plan here outlined is thoroughly practical is vouched for by members of the motor club who say that it follows very closely the present regulations in force in Toledo, Ohio, which city has physical characteristics very similar to Atlanta. Following adoption of the plan, Mr. Peebles stated, the merchants of the district affected reported an actual increase in business, and attributed it to the fact that orderly handling of the traffic resulted in more customers trading in the downtown center.

Twice the condemned man was cut down from the gallows, alive, after hanging in the air for four minutes each time. Physicians discovered signs of life from the Fern Crest dairy, said to be the largest in Georgia, and Jersey cows from Hooks' dairy, at Warthen. The later dairy boasts of the champion butter producing Jersey cow in Georgia.

Swim was convicted of murdering his cousin, Olive Trenholm and her husband, Harvey Trenholm. The execution was originally set for July 15, but the condemned man secured a reprieve. Finally he was sentenced to hang September 15, but no hangman could be procured until Friday when two men were brought on from Montreal.

Plan to Poison Upchurch Denied By Fred Savage

A sweeping denial of any plot to poison Z. R. Upchurch, Ku Klux Klan insurgent leader, with wood alcohol, was made Saturday by F. L. Savage, head of the Ku Klux Klan secret service department, following testimony in municipal court by H. McFarley, former Klan secret agent, to the effect that Savage had sent him to Social Circle last December to poison the insurgent.

McFarley was on trial before Judge T. O. Hatcock on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses made by W. H. Hames, a private detective, formerly a Klan agent. The charge was dismissed.

Savage issued the following statement: "Never at any time did I send anyone to Social Circle to see Z. R. Upchurch or transact any business of any nature with him."

Hames charged that while they were in the employ of the Klan he advanced McFarley $10 for expenses, and that when McFarley afterward obtained the sum from the Klan he refused to repay him. The court held that the dispute involved a loan and was one to be settled in a court of equity.

McFarley testified that he and Hames had been sent to Social Circle to poison Upchurch. He purchased a pint of wood alcohol from A. L. Curtis, a local druggist, before leaving the city, he said. Upon arriving in Social Circle he grew reluctant to perform the task and telephoned Savage in Atlanta and advised him of his decision.

Hames, the prosecuting witness, denied McFarley's story. He said they went to Social Circle together at the time mentioned, but that he knew of no plot against Upchurch.

WILL OF WATSON
FILED IN COURT
BY 3 EXECUTORS
Sparta, Ga., October 7.—(Special.) Dr. E. J. Forrester, pastor of the Sparta Baptist church, lifelong friend of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson, with the two other executors of the will of Senator Watson, has filed the will in the court of ordinary of McDuffie for probate in solemn form at the November term of the court. It became known here Saturday afternoon.

The two other executors of the Watson will are Attorneys B. J. Stevens, of Thomson, and J. H. Cartledge, of Columbia county. The late Senator Dr. Forrester left here for a conference there with Mr. Stevens and Mr. Cartledge.

Brother Probes
Watchman's Death
For Murder Sign
Americus, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Julius J. Hogue, of Americus, came to Americus today and inaugurated a new investigation into the death of his brother, R. L. Hogue, who was found dead at the Americus plant of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company Wednesday. A coroner's jury previously announced that Hogue committed suicide, but this theory is now doubted by many who have investigated the circumstances.

Julius Hogue believes death was due to foul play. It is being ascertained in his investigation by Sheriff Lucius Harvey. At the suggestion of Mr. Hogue, Dr. J. Richmond Staflum made a post mortem examination, and this afternoon Dr. Staflum stated he was not entirely convinced that death was self-inflicted.

The dead man's skull had been crushed, Dr. Staflum found, and there are indications that this was not due entirely to a bullet wound. A peculiar circumstance in connection with the wounds found upon Hogue's body is the absence of powder burns, indicating that he may have been shot from a distance.

GEORGIA BOAR WINS
PLACE IN BIG SHOW
Berrington, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Entered against the strongest competition in the national swine show at the Berrington Duroc farm, was Wednesday awarded second place in the senior yearling class of the national swine show at Peoria, Ill., winning this place over a class of sixty animals entered from every section of the United States.

The national swine show is recognized as the greatest exhibition of breeding hogs in the world. There are entered thousands of animals from every section, and it is the mark of distinction to be able to win any place in this show. Herebefore all national honors have been held by breeders of the north and mid-west.

In Berrington's swine show Georgia possesses what is considered to be one of the greatest living Duroc boars and the animal that is destined to make Duroc history in the south. His sire assisted to furnish many won national grand championships.

SANDERSVILLE READY
FOR 6TH COUNTY FAIR
Sandersville, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—The annual Washington county fair will open in Sandersville Tuesday. This will be the sixtieth year this county has held a fair, and Washington is one of the few small counties in Georgia that will hold a 1922 fair.

A twelve-acre amusement company has been booked to furnish midway attractions. The grounds have been cleared off, buildings repaired, stands erected and other preliminary work made ready for the exhibits, which will arrive from all sections of the county. A feature of the fair will be the fireworks display each night at 10 o'clock. A meat hog sale will be on Friday, October 13. The fair will close Saturday.

The livestock barn, one of the largest in the state, will contain over 300 thoroughbred porkers, Guernsey cattle from the Fern Crest dairy, said to be the largest in Georgia, and Jersey cows from Hooks' dairy, at Warthen. The later dairy boasts of the champion butter producing Jersey cow in Georgia.

FLOYD CLOSES BEST
FAIR IN ITS HISTORY
Rome, Ga., October 7.—(Special.) The Floyd county fair closed tonight after a successful five days' exhibition both from a financial and exhibition standpoint. The attendance was large every day except Friday, when rain interfered.

The fair this year was operated by the Floyd county farm bureau for the first. Among the leading features was the coming of Dr. Laura day, when more than 8,000 persons passed the turnstiles. The pageant at the fair grounds was preceded by the floral and floats parade, probably the most brilliant street parade ever seen in this city.

Hogue, who was found dead at the Americus plant of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company Wednesday. A coroner's jury previously announced that Hogue committed suicide, but this theory is now doubted by many who have investigated the circumstances.

Julius Hogue believes death was due to foul play. It is being ascertained in his investigation by Sheriff Lucius Harvey. At the suggestion of Mr. Hogue, Dr. J. Richmond Staflum made a post mortem examination, and this afternoon Dr. Staflum stated he was not entirely convinced that death was self-inflicted.

The dead man's skull had been crushed, Dr. Staflum found, and there are indications that this was not due entirely to a bullet wound. A peculiar circumstance in connection with the wounds found upon Hogue's body is the absence of powder burns, indicating that he may have been shot from a distance.

GEORGIA BOAR WINS
PLACE IN BIG SHOW
Berrington, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Entered against the strongest competition in the national swine show at the Berrington Duroc farm, was Wednesday awarded second place in the senior yearling class of the national swine show at Peoria, Ill., winning this place over a class of sixty animals entered from every section of the United States.

The national swine show is recognized as the greatest exhibition of breeding hogs in the world. There are entered thousands of animals from every section, and it is the mark of distinction to be able to win any place in this show. Herebefore all national honors have been held by breeders of the north and mid-west.

In Berrington's swine show Georgia possesses what is considered to be one of the greatest living Duroc boars and the animal that is destined to make Duroc history in the south. His sire assisted to furnish many won national grand championships.

SANDERSVILLE READY
FOR 6TH COUNTY FAIR
Sandersville, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—The annual Washington county fair will open in Sandersville Tuesday. This will be the sixtieth year this county has held a fair, and Washington is one of the few small counties in Georgia that will hold a 1922 fair.

A twelve-acre amusement company has been booked to furnish midway attractions. The grounds have been cleared off, buildings repaired, stands erected and other preliminary work made ready for the exhibits, which will arrive from all sections of the county. A feature of the fair will be the fireworks display each night at 10 o'clock. A meat hog sale will be on Friday, October 13. The fair will close Saturday.

The livestock barn, one of the largest in the state, will contain over 300 thoroughbred porkers, Guernsey cattle from the Fern Crest dairy, said to be the largest in Georgia, and Jersey cows from Hooks' dairy, at Warthen. The later dairy boasts of the champion butter producing Jersey cow in Georgia.

FLOYD CLOSES BEST
FAIR IN ITS HISTORY
Rome, Ga., October 7.—(Special.) The Floyd county fair closed tonight after a successful five days' exhibition both from a financial and exhibition standpoint. The attendance was large every day except Friday, when rain interfered.

The fair this year was operated by the Floyd county farm bureau for the first. Among the leading features was the coming of Dr. Laura day, when more than 8,000 persons passed the turnstiles. The pageant at the fair grounds was preceded by the floral and floats parade, probably the most brilliant street parade ever seen in this city.

MUSIC HALL STAR OF LONDON DIES
London, October 7.—The death of Marie Lloyd, widely known music hall artist, was announced today. She was a prime favorite for years in the music halls of London, where her piquancy and dash made a strong appeal and numbers of her songs achieved wide popularity. In 1907 she made a tour of the United States and visited the country again in 1913. She was born in London in 1870.

Doivin & Thompson Recently Closed Large Small-Home Transaction.

The present demand for small homes, especially in the $4,000 and $5,000 class, is unusually good, according to Doivin & Thompson, real estate agents with offices at 1400-10 Candler building, who recently announced the completion of transactions aggregating more than a quarter of a million dollars, the majority of the sales involving small homes.

The Doivin & Thompson agency is one of the best known real estate concerns in the city. The partnership is composed of Carl Doivin and John J. Thompson. Their sales force is composed of a number of the city's best known and most experienced real estate salesmen, each one of whom has made a close study of Atlanta's real estate conditions.

The agency's application of the most modern of real estate marketing methods and the popularity of the firm's personnel has been largely responsible for the agency's success.

MACON TRAINMAN
COMMITTS SUICIDE ILLNESS BLAMED
Macon, Ga., October 7.—(Special.) Orman C. Childs, a flagman with the Central of Georgia railway, was found with a bullet through his head in his room at 422 Ross street today. There was a pistol in his hand and while he was still alive, death came a short time after he had been removed to the hospital.

The coroner's jury later returned a verdict of suicide, but no motive could be assigned for the act. Childs left two notes, but neither shed any light on the cause of the tragedy. The dead man's brother-in-law, said it was probable that ill health and financial worry were responsible.

ASKS MRS. FELTON TO MAKE SPEECH
AT HANCOCK FAIR
Sparta, Ga., October 7.—(Special.) An invitation was extended today to Mrs. William H. Felton, of Cartersville, who has been appointed U. S. senator to succeed the late Senator Thomas E. Watson, by Governor Hardwick, to attend the Hancock county fair, which opens on October 17, and deliver an address at the fair grounds.

The Coats

We are offering an assemblage of the newest models in the finest fabrics, trimmed in the best furs, at a price that, to put it mildly, is unusual.

Coats bought for our own splendid stocks from makers who take a pride in the beauty and style of a garment rather than in securing the greatest profits.

Materials are rich—Bolivia, Gerona, Panvelaine and other soft, velvety fabrics, with or without fur. Furs include Fox, Caracul and Nutria. Linings are heavy satin and canton crepe.

The Suits

The woman who has limited herself to $50 for a coat suit is going to be delightfully surprised with these. They are elegant, not only in material, but in style, workmanship, linings, trimmings.

Some are fur-trimmed—collars and sometimes cuffs of rich mole, nutria or caracul. Others show all the charming embroideries, braids, panels, etc., of the new mode.

Materials include all the supple, suede-like fabrics—Veldyne, Moussyne, Panvelaine, Duvet de Laine.

AL FIELD'S MINSTRELS AT ATLANTA THEATER

Famous Blackface Organization Stands for High Standard in Minstrelsy.

Glancing over the list of minstrel organizations which have been popular in the past, how many can be named that have maintained their original high standard? Illustrations and reputations bear great weight with the public and it is unfortunately true that many a theatrical production presented under the trade mark of a great name has failed miserably to live up to its reputation. That in itself explains the passing of many minstrel show companies in recent years, leaving the field to but one or two, of which the Al. G. Field organization unquestionably holds first rank.

For thirty-five years the name of Al. G. Field has been one to conjure with. It stands for the highest standard in minstrel production, and each succeeding year has noted increasing merit and popularity. When Al. G. Field breathed his last, his friends and admirers feared that his passing might mean the decline of the organization which he had founded and brought to such brilliant heights. Some of the "wise ones" shook their heads and prophesied disaster. It is to be noted with satisfaction that their predictions and the fears of friends were without foundation. The current production sets a new high mark for minstrel shows and is acclaimed as the best in the history of the organization, and probably the finest ever presented to the American audience. It has proven the lone exception to the other organizations whose fate was decline and extinction upon the passing of their founders.

A few weeks ago a well known patron of the Al. G. Field minstrels sought out Edward Conard, author, producer and directing mind of the organization, as well as co-owner. "It may interest you to know, Mr. Conard," said this gentleman, "that this is the first time in my experience that a minstrel show retained its excellence of standard and merit after it had passed from the first-hand control of the founder. I have watched the progress of the Al. G. Field minstrel with particular interest since the death of Mr. Field, for I have seen how he has kept the line and gone down to decay under similar circumstances. I wanted to see what your show would be like this year, the second since Mr. Field's death. I have found that great pleasure and satisfaction that not only is the Al. G. Field minstrel under its present direction and management fully up to the high standard set by its illustrious founder, but it is actually the very best I have ever had the pleasure of witnessing. You have my most sincere congratulations. I didn't think it could be done."

The Al. G. Field minstrel's come to the Atlanta theater tomorrow (Monday) night, for an engagement of one week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

"The Merry Widow" Coming.
The late Sir Herbert Tree's expression "an obstinate success" may fairly be applied to "The Merry Widow." Frank Lawton's ever popular operetta, which Henry W. Savage is sending to this city on October 16, 17, 18 for an engagement of three nights and a Wednesday matinee, at the Atlanta theater. Originally produced in Vienna in 1906 and in this country a year later, it set the whole world wild and captivated music lovers in every civilized country on earth. And now, fifteen years after its original American presentation, it is again offered by its original producer, Mr. Savage, and has proven just as sensational a hit as it was originally.

In this newest production Mr. Savage has been most lavish in making it the most magnificent and artistic stage offering seen in many years. To Urban, master of scenic designers, he has entrusted the painting of the three gorgeous stage settings, while Peggy Hoyt, famous for costume creations, has been entrusted with the dress and gowned work. The result of these two, together with the stage

Oscar, a trained elephant secured by Thomas H. Ince for the filming of "Ten Ton Love," a romance of the circus, convulsed his human colleagues in the cast by his eagerness to get in front of the camera, according to word from Culver City, Cal., where the picture has just been completed at the Ince studios. Oscar's curiosity brought him up short whenever he sighted the camera photographer turning away at his handle, and he paid no attention to commands while he watched this phenomenon. Finally, to get the best work from Oscar, it was necessary to conceal the camera while the scenes were being filmed in which he had a part.

"Ten Ton Love" is shortly to be released, the producers announce. It was written by C. Gardner Sullivan, author of "Hail the Woman." Besides Oscar, Madge Bellamy has an important role in the picture.

Here's How!

Here's how Katherine MacDonald appears in the blessed flesh of Antoinette Donnelly, beauty expert, and jurist in the most recent world beauty contest Kate has won. "Antoinette" is a French girl, perfectly formed features, a beautiful symmetry of form, lovely contour of cheek and chin, head beautifully poised on slender neck, small full mouth, marvelously beautiful eyes of purple-blue, finely arched eyebrows and long sweeping lashes. Her skin is faultless.

A new addition to the cast of Alice Brady's latest Paramount picture, "Anna Ascends," now in the making at the Long Island City studio, is Grace Griswold, one of the leaders of the theatrical workshop movement and well known for her work on the legitimate stage. She has appeared in "But Three Pictures," "Disraeli," with George Arliss; "Smilin' Through," with Norma Talmadge, and a D. W. Griffith picture.

direction of George Marion and the splendid cast of singers and actors furnished by Mr. Savage, has resulted in a most pleasing offering.

THE ST. CLAIR TWINS HEADLINERS AT LOEW'S

Late Stars of George M. Cohan's Big Musical Comedy Success, "Mary."

The sort of a show that drives dull care away, the light and snappy entertainment, jingling tunes, intricate dances, comedy and nonsense, all these elements are provided in the two shows arranged for the coming week at Loew's Grand theater. Five acts of vaudeville and a long program of motion picture specials are offered for the first half of the week, with a complete change of program on Thursday, running through the last half.

As the topline attraction of the vaudeville bill for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Manager James has secured the St. Clair Twins and company, one of the most popular acts of the present season. The St. Clair Twins are musical comedy stars and were but recently featured in George M. Cohan's stage success, "Mary." As singers and dancers they have reached the heights of their profession. One of the twins in impersonations is extremely clever and these specialties, together with piano selections and a surprise finish puts the act over wherever it is presented.

Also on this bill is Taylor and Bunce in "Similarity." These boys are comedians of originality, with a bag of funny sayings, new ones just from Broadway; also the latest output of popular songs. Their act should be one of the hits of the bill.

Eddie Harron and company will offer his original one-act comedy, "A Traveling Man." Eddie Harron has an excellent role in this clever comedy, one just suited to his abilities, the balance of the company are also well cast and are competent to interpret, for many bright lines and comedy situations in this abbreviated company.

Manual Romaine and company are offering a triple alliance of harmony and originality, introducing two eccentric comedians in a lot of fooliness that brings laughs from start to finish of the offering. Songs and dances are offered by the trio, all being accomplished singers and dancers.

Jeanette and Norman Brothers, who open the performance, have various specialties, including a new act. They sing, they dance and are at their best in aerial work on the flying rings.

As the feature of the photoplay program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday there is offered Pola Negri, the star of "Passion" and other big productions, in "The Eyes of the Mummy." A picture with all the charm and mystery of a dream, it is a most interesting and irresistible appeal.

Movie Folk Filmed.

Motion picture devotees in Salt Lake and all points east, north and south of the city will get a close-up view of the screen celebrities at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles, when Marshall Neilan's "The Strangers" is released. Here the film folks gather to dine, dance and seek entertainment just as other persons in every other city assemble for recreation at fashionable resorts. The opening of the picture, which is being shown at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles, when Marshall Neilan's "The Strangers" is released.

After the usual entertainment of a night recently, Mr. Neilan, heading a small army of players, "extra," photographers, electricians and technical men, took possession of the grove. Portable generators supplied the "juice" for the huge arc lamps and various scenes for "The Strangers," "Banquet," were photographed. Among those who were seen were Claire Windsor, Rockcliffe Fellows, Thomas Holding, Eleanor Boardman, Nigel Barrie and Margaret Loomis.

Hundreds of popular motion picture folks remained on the sidelines to watch "Mickey" Neilan and his players go through their scene.

Elsie Ferguson and the company making "Outcast," a Paramount picture, filmed sea plane scenes in Larchmont Bay last week. Miss Ferguson was rescued from the water by David Powell and carried to safety in the seaplane. Director Chet Withey and Ernest Haller, cameraman, rode in the plane from the Columbia Yacht club on the Hudson river to Larchmont.

Several scenes for Alice Brady's new Paramount picture, "Anna Ascends," were made aboard the French steamship La Savoie. The company boarded the vessel at quarantine and shot the scenes as it entered New York harbor. Members of the company taking part in this sequence were David Powell, Robert Ellis, Charles Gerard, Nita Naldi and Florence Dixon.

Mr. Keys, the sheriff... Stuart Beebe

This week, the Forsyth Players with Florence Rittenhouse and John Little, will present a new three-act comedy, "The Cave Girl." It is by those well-known and highly successful authors, George Middleton and Guy Bolton, who in the past have amused thousands of theatergoers with such diverting comedies as "Polly With a Past" and "Adams and Evans." But unlike their previous plays in which the smart Long Island set provided such a fertile field for their ironic shafts, "The Cave Girl" is less satirical, depending more for its appeal upon sharp contrasts of characterization and the humor of the situation, as well as the dramatic surprises of the narrative. The locale of the comedy is northern Maine, the action transpiring in a hunting lodge and an isolated camp. The story has to do with an untutored though fascinating and primitive type of girl, Margot Santer, since her father's death this child of nature has been under the protecting wing of a distinguished and highly respected old gentleman, holding down the chair of natural science at an eastern college. He is also the author of several nature books in which he advances the theory that nature is always generous to the provider and that no man need suffer hardship if thrown on his own resources in the woods. To test out this theory, the professor has gone into the woods accompanied by Margot. There they come into contact with a "Walrus" street magnate, Bates by name, and some friends, who for very interesting reasons have sought the solitude of the Maine woods. As the result of a strange story that makes it unexpectedly develops, Margot proves that as a worthy opponent of her more cultured sisters from the city, she is not to be regarded too lightly.

Joy for Husbands.

If all women could wear clothes as well as Katherine MacDonald, how easy it would be for the average married man to meet the h. c. of m. (high cost of marriage).

Miss MacDonald, the preferred picture star whose latest First National attraction is entitled "The Lonely Road," proves that it is not the price of a gown that makes it the dress, its wearer so much as it is the fitness of the lines. In this production she is married in a straight-lined gown of brown tulle, trimmed with bands of champagne-colored crepe de chine. With the outfit she dons a turban of brown satin to match the body of the dress.

As the daughter of a struggling town grocer and the bride of a young business man not yet established in his profession, Miss MacDonald plays the part of a young woman in that position would plan it. She ordered forty yards of satin at forty-five cents a yard, which equals one dollar and eighty cents! One yard of crepe de chine at the same ridiculously low price, and the cost of material was covered.

A bridal costume of $2.25! Judge for yourself whether or not the star of "The Lonely Road" makes a charming bride.

Bosworth to Return.

Following the completion of his character part of Keogh in Marshall Neilan's "The Strangers' Banquet," Hobart Bosworth will take a few weeks' vacation before he resumes the production of his own picture, "The Lone Hand," appearing on the Orpheum circuit. Between "shots" in the Neilan picture at the Goldwyn studio, Bosworth is putting his latest production, which was interrupted when Neilan induced him to play Keogh in the Bonn Byrne story.

Waldemar Young, scenarist; Rudolph Bylek, technical director, and Arthur Cogine, location manager at the Long Island studio, have gone to Salem, Mass., to choose the spots where the exterior scenes will be made for "Java Head," George Melford's next production for Paramount pictures. Leatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan and Raymond Hatton are among those who will have leading roles. The story is from Joseph Hergesheimer's famous novel.

THE METROPOLITAN TO SHOW 'REMEMBRANCE'

Rupert Hughes' Story, With Claude Gillingwater Playing the Leading Role.

That best-beloved of the Rupert Hughes stories, "Remembrance" brought to the screen under the direction of the author himself with the touches that only the master-artist can give, will head the Metropolitan's varied entertainment for this week. Claude Gillingwater, remembered for his inimitable characterization in the stage production of "Three Wise Fools," heads the "Remembrance" cast in the role of Old Pop Grout. Patsy Ruth Miller, a charming ingenue, will be seen as his youngest daughter and Kate Lester, the "grande dame" of the screen, has the role of the socially ambitious wife. A notable supporting cast surrounds the principals.

The prologue for "Remembrance" will be a Rialto-Volpi production under the title "In The Gloaming" and will be built around the old time ballad of that name with Charlotte Craneley, Floyd Fuller and W. Van Goldstein singing the principal roles and with several members of the Volpi artist class assisting. One of the scenes of the prologue will introduce some very unusual art and bubble effects created by D. W. Stokes, prominent local artist; Ralph Hendricks and Cliff Clower of the Metropolitan's technical staff. Effects for this scene were obtained through the courtesy of the Colgate company.

The overture for the week will be a concert rendition of the popular Slavonic creation of Carl Friendemann's "Rhapsodie Slave." With its sombre Russian themes and brilliant gossamer contrasts it makes an admirable vehicle for the display of the individual as well as the ensemble talents of the Metropolitan's superb orchestra.

A novelty number which promises to meet with popular favor will be an educational comedy, "Fresh Fish." Kinograms will open the picture bill.

Adolph Verdi and Earl Carroll, both of the Metropolitan Symphony orchestra, will be presented in a special double piano number—their own original version of "The Dancing Fool."

On Monday the Colgate company will distribute attractive souvenirs to the ladies attending the Metropolitan.

Cat Has Role.

There have been dog stars, now the question arises as to whether there will be cat stars in pictures.

A nameless little black kitten plays a very important role, gaining much sympathy for itself and Jack Holt in "On the High Seas," a Paramount picture, in which Dorothy Dalton and Mr. Holt are featured with Mitchell Lewis in support. It is an Irvin V. Willat production.

The kitten is found playing on the deck of a derelict, the crew of which is composed of a few dead men. The story is told by the kitten in a fit of superstitious frenzy seeks to kill the kitten. Holt rescues it and puts it in the pocket of his coat, where its busy head protrudes through several scenes. At the end it is seen munching fish with great delight, decked out with a big bow of ribbon.

Cats have been in many pictures—but usually cats of high degree, such as Agnes Ayres' pet Persian, who worked in "The Ordeal," another Paramount picture.

A fine cat was used in "One Glorious Day" with Will Rogers and Lila Lewis in "Grandma's Boy" there were seven cats, which licked goose grease.

But none of them did much as this one, which apparently has a future in the movies.

According to the Goldwyn travelers just returned from Tahiti, Constantinople has nothing on that place in the matter of dogs. There are so many of them—large, small, varicolored, lean, leaner—that the streets are overrun, and they make themselves at home in the three motion picture theaters and even in the restaurants.

Four men were required, it is said, to keep the dogs outside the camera lines, while R. A. Walsh was making scenes for "Fusions of the Sea," in which House Peters, Pauline Starke, Antonio Moreno and Rosemary Theby play leading roles.

With the Los Angeles showing of Richard Walton Tully's "The Masquerader," comes the announcement that the author-producer has completed his second production for First National, "Omar, the Tentmaker." Both pictures star Guy Bates Post and both were directed by James Young. Mr. Tully has just arrived in New York with the completed print.

The Author's Tributes.

"If I had the pick of all the famous stars now clustering around Hollywood, I'd have chosen you to create the part Mercy Boone in my story, 'Broken Chains.'"

This is the enthusiastic message of Winifred Kimball, winner of the $10,000 prize in the Goldwyn-Chicago Daily News scenario contest, to Colleen Moore, leading woman in the picture.

Then Miss Kimball, from her Florida home, sends to Malcolm McGregor, the leading man, a bouquet which has concealed in its midst a bunch of thorns for the so-called stronger sex. "I have found that the true fount of eternal conceit bubbles in the masculine breast," she continues, "so you need not let McGregor know that I believe that the role of Reginald Wyndham will turn this handsome young comet into a star of the first magnitude."

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

Theodore Roberts and Splendid Cast Seen in Old Stage Success.

One might go far and fail to find a better picture than "The Old Homestead" as presented by Paramount Pictures at the Howard theater this week. Theodore Roberts, "The Grand Old Man of the Movies," playing Uncle Joshua, the role which Denman Thompson played for 32 consecutive years. The life of the small town is woven into a bewitching romance of overalls and gingham dresses by James Cruze, the artistic and highly imaginative director of this splendid picture.

The vision of the storm as the full force and fury of the elements break above the little town of Gansey and destroy it, the vision of "Lover's Leap" where Ann contemplates suicide, Chinese scenes through which the errant Rueben strolls, quaint costumes of the period of 1875 and the old-fashioned manner of living—all these bits of color blend into a magnificent background for the simple and beautiful tale of doings in the old hometown, making men and women weep and smile as they see themselves all over again.

The players are not grouped about any particular star, each is allowed opportunity to develop his or her individual part to the utmost, rounding out a solid and well-balanced cast who co-operate skillfully to cast a spell upon the spectators and emphasize the appeal of every scene.

Theodore Roberts, "the grand old man of the screen" is seen as Uncle Joshua Whitcomb. Other favorites are, George Fawcett, T. Roy Barnes, Harrison Ford, and Fritz Ridgway.

The musical program arranged by Enrico Leide has as its overture, "The Chimes of Normandy." The Howard overture, Enrico Leide and Lloyd Bemus conducting. The prologue, "The Old Oaken Bucket" features George McNulty and the Howard quartet, which is shown with new electrical effects.

Prize Camera Man.

Joseph Brotherton is Katherine MacDonald's blue ribbon camera man. In fact, Brotherton is the only photographer Miss MacDonald has known since she achieved stellar honors and there is every indication that the famous First National beauty will have so long as she remains a motion picture luminary.

Brotherton has a record—including "The Lonely Road," the next Paramount Pictures production in which Miss MacDonald will be starred—of eighteen pictures in which his well known and long recognized talent as a photographer, par excellence, has been in evidence. This is, perhaps, the only record of its kind in the field of motion pictures, where photographic ability of the Brotherton sort is very rare.

In "The Lonely Road" Brotherton has planned some new effects in camera work—effects that will add very materially to the beauty of the pictorial end of the production and prove vastly interesting to the admirers of Miss MacDonald.

The old stage hold-up has been revised on a larger scale. All the world is a stage.

Film Favorites Presented on Atlanta Screens This Week

Lon Chaney Excels In Character Roles And Crook Make-Ups

Lon Chaney, whose remarkable work in "The Penalty," where he played the crippled master of the underworld, stamps him as one of the best—if not the best—character actors on the screen.

"The characters in 'The Penalty' and 'Flesh and Blood,' my latest picture, are much the same," said Chaney. "That is, both are products of the underworld, although in the latter picture the leading figure is not a crook by profession. Rather is he the unfortunate victim of a power high in financial circles—a victim railroaded to prison on a trumped-up charge. Both roles call for much physical acting. I think, however, my role in 'Flesh and Blood' is much more difficult."

"In 'Flesh and Blood' everything comes from the brain. I am the man who dominates all the characters in the story because I know them and understand them. I might state that there is a spiritual tug in the story similar to 'The Miracle Man.' You will remember that I played a fake cripple in the 'Miracle Man.' I am a fake cripple here, but through an entirely different motive. I use crutches, not to destroy faith, but to find it."

OSCAR WILDE STORY COMING TO ALAMO 2

Brilliantly conceived, faultlessly directed, beautifully pictured, splendidly portrayed. Beginning in a garden and ending with a revelation, is Oscar Wilde's "A Woman of No Importance" which will be shown Monday and Tuesday at Alamo No. 2.

It is a simple straight forward story of the divinely inspired love of a sweet girl for a philanderer whose promises were dissipated as the morning dew by the sun of his selfish ambitions. The play offered few opportunities for that "directorial manhandling" which sometimes offend when a really big literary work is transferred to the screen. There are no false notes as the story is told. The play has been faultlessly directed.

B. P. Schulberg expects to complete the filming of "The Lonely Road," Katherine MacDonald's latest starring vehicle for First National release next week. Victor Schertzinger is directing.

Betty Compson in "Bonded Woman" Rialto Offering

Betty Compson, in a beautiful story, beautifully produced. This covers the Paramount picture which the Rialto theater offers its patrons all week. "The Bonded Woman," a story filled with love, appeal, dramatic action and thrills. Betty as Angela Gaskell pawns herself to a millionaire for $10,000 to save the man she loves. Opposite Miss Compson is John Bowers as John Somers. It's a photograph play you will delight in. In addition the Rialto will offer a dandy, Sunshine comedy, "Tin Broncho," and an International News reel of the latest events of national importance. Director Charles Gesser and his melo-dramatic artists will render a splendid musical program during the showing of the picture. The management wishes to inform its patrons that at the latest evening performance they can arrive as late as 9:30 p. m. and see the entire feature picture.

Shorter Again?

Sophie Wachner, director of costumes for the Goldwyn studios and one of the country's leading designers of women's clothes, arrived in New York this week, where she will spend a month buying new gowns for Goldwyn actresses. Miss Wachner will also do research work in New York on the costumes for "Ben Hur," which will be produced on a magnificent scale.

Incidentally, Miss Wachner, who was the first to forecast the present vogue in the length of skirts, says that the winter fashions will be somewhat shorter. She bases this on advance information she has received from Paris and other fashion centers.

"FLESH AND BLOOD" FEATURE AT STRAND

Lon Chaney Plays Leading Role in Vivid Crook Story.

A vital and vivid story of a crook's search for freedom, his torments of soul in his fight for happiness and his ultimate redemption after he had vowed vengeance upon his enemy—that is "Flesh and Blood," the Irving Cummings production which will be seen at the Strand all this week. In this dramatic picture a convict escapes from prison and finds refuge in Chinatown. He has been confined for 15 years. His cup is overflowing with bitterness. He has one motive—to punish the influential financier who sent him to prison. He also wished to look upon the faces of his dear wife and daughter, the latter grown into womanhood since he entered the gates of the big, gray prison. It is a picture which absorbs the attention of the spectator.

Lon Chaney, who will be remembered for his remarkable characterization of the legless thug in "The Penalty," and who because of his exceptional gift for pantomime in such compelling pictures as "The Night Rose" and "The Trap," has the leading role in "Flesh and Blood." The offering establishes Chaney as the foremost character actor on the screen. He is truly the man of a thousand faces. Other parts are filled by such sterling players as Edith Roberts, Noah Beery, Ralph Lewis,

Loew's Grand Has Pola Negri Film As Week's Opener

All the charm and exotic quality which graced her performances in "Passion," "One Arabian Night," "The Red Peacock" and "The Devil's Pawn" have gone into the making of "The Eyes of the Mummy," Pola Negri's latest Paramount picture, which is to be presented at Loew's Grand theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

This is the story of a young girl held captive by Radu, a religious fanatic in the heart of the desert, and who when she escapes from the hypnotic spell of Radu, loves an Englishman with all the energy of her soul. It is this love which almost wrecks her life, but in the end, through a steadfast faith, it brings her to peace and happiness.

The story is claimed to be one of the most unique screened in many months, and maintains the interest throughout. It has been interpreted by a perfect cast of players. Emil Jennings, who will be remembered with this star in "Passion" and "All for a Woman," plays opposite Miss Negri in this superb production. The cast is excellent.

There are two kinds of old men: the one the community calls "old man Hicks," and the one the community calls "Dad."

AN UNERRING BAROMETER.

Extremely sensitive to every large development and to every changing condition in the business world, often far in advance of its transpiring, there is no more unerring barometer of business progress than the stock market. In its movements it forecasts commercial and industrial revival and reaction. It discounts the business future of the country. That is its history; and the story it tells is reliable.

Just now and for the last year or more, the stock market has been telling a story of business and industrial "come-back," that is remarkable both for rapidity and extent of restoration. Business men and bankers will tell you that business is good and getting better; the stock market began to make that statement more than a year ago, at a time when these same bankers and business men were still skeptical.

They will tell you that restoration is not yet complete, but that the outlook is good for continued improvement in the commercial world.

The stock market is bearing out the unerring truth of that statement today.

Rise or fall in the stock market is anywhere from six months to a year in advance of the actual turn of the tide in business affairs. Having begun to tell the story of better business more than a year ago, with the beginning of a rise in security values, the stock market of today is predicting still bigger and better things.

Of course, the stock market responds, in a degree, to speculative activity; and during the remarkable advance which the prices of stocks and bonds have exhibited, during the last twelve months, there have been periodic reactions and temporary setbacks. But the noteworthy fact in that connection has been the utter inability of the "bear element" to make a serious dent in it. At times they have driven down security prices for a day or two, only to witness their come-back to still higher quotations. So that, security values throughout the entire list, have been and, apparently, are still, moving generally upward.

That is the unerring sign of bigger and better business still to come.

So sure is this sensitive stock market of business and industrial growth that neither strikes nor wars nor rumors of wars, materially affect it. It may meet with its temporary checks; but so long as it moves generally upward, the "peak" of business betterment is still ahead of us.

Likewise, long before that "peak" of industrial prosperity is reached, perhaps as much as six months before the tide begins to turn, the stock market's sensitive tentacles, reaching almost to the "ends of the earth," will feel the gathering of the clouds and warn business of the coming rain.

The story the stock market is telling today is that the height of business prosperity is still six months or a year or even more away. It also tells that that height is a greater one than business and industry have heretofore reached in world history. It is a gratifying prediction, the more so in that it is stronger than that which comes from any other source.

One need not speculate in the stock market to gather advantage from its teachings. But it is a good thing to watch. Business men who understand and take advantage of its promises, as well as heed its warnings, are equally well founded in their expectations. It is the greatest business success.

Senator Townsend, according to his statement to the state authorities, spent only $30,729.20 in his

The Southeastern Fair.

The big event of the autumnal season in Georgia each year is the Southeastern fair, to be held this fall from October 12 to October 22.

In point of its contribution to the agricultural, industrial and educational development of Georgia and the southeast, it is an annual event that transcends in importance all other fixed activities of this state and section.

Each year since the Southeastern

Fair association has been in existence the management of the fair has promised in advance that the exposition for that fall would excel the last one and prove to be the "greatest" in the history of the organization.

And without a single exception that promise has been abundantly fulfilled.

Every succeeding fair at Lakewood has been bigger and better and more comprehensive than its immediate predecessor.

The reason for that is the management of the Southeastern fair has always been kept in the hands of men who have been public-spirited, courageous, resourceful and progressive, and who have been able to command the confidence and cooperation of the rank and file of the producers and builders of the south.

From the date of its inception, therefore, the Southeastern Fair association has been a "going concern," building constantly and each year adding to its physical equipment and its "stock in trade."

This year, we are assured by President Oscar Mills, the Lakewood exposition, as in the past, will be greater and more attractive in all departments than was that of 1921, which, as everybody knows, was a wonderful success and productive of far-reaching results that inured to the betterment and up-building of the communities within the scope of its influence.

New buildings have been added to the physical equipment of the institution since last year.

The various departments—the departments of live stock, farm produce, machinery, liberal arts, domestic science, etc.—have each been enlarged, and the entry lists show that each will be more widely patronized than ever before.

The various amusement and purely recreational features have been added to and brought to a higher state of attractiveness this year than was ever the case in preceding seasons.

So it goes throughout the entire institution from entrance gates to the hillside bordering the lake.

The management, therefore, has done its part toward the preparation of an exposition that bids fair to surpass anything of its kind ever staged on the Lakewood grounds.

It has completed all arrangements, down to the minutest detail, whereby samples of the best of the products of southern soil, enterprise, ingenuity and talent will be assembled conveniently for inspection—put on display to attest the productivity, the progress and the development of the various states and local communities of the southeast.

The management has done all that it could reasonably be expected to have done to guarantee fulfillment of its prediction as to the greatness and success of the Southeastern fair of 1922.

The rest lies with the public; and all that is expected of the public is to go to the fair—to manifest its appreciation of what has been done at Lakewood by its attendance and patronage!

It is to be hoped that every citizen of the south who can possibly do so will make it a point to visit the Southeastern fair at least one time during the ten "working" days

A MUSICAL OPPORTUNITY.

In no other light than that of remarkable musical opportunity can be viewed the splendid enterprise of the Atlanta Music club in bringing to Atlanta such artists as Fried-

Hempel, Ruth St. Denis and others of equal renown, in a series of civic concerts, with admission prices lower than those usually charged for a mediocre theatrical performance.

The season ticket sale which has been in progress for a week now at

Cable hall, has had a fine success;

but there are many good seats yet unsold, and enterprises of this moment can only be financed through wide interest and patronage.

It is Atlanta's enthusiastic interest in and enjoyment of good music, as demonstrated year after year in the great audiences commanded by grand opera, that makes possible the success of enterprises of this character.

There is no question whatever that the Atlanta Music club will make a financial as well as an artistic success of the civic concert series which it is promoting for Atlanta's advantage and enjoyment;

that it will find splendid response also to the other instructive and enjoyable musical programs which it is offering.

But Atlanta owes it to the good women who, at large personal sacrifice, are giving their time and effort to this project, to do just a little bit more than make a financial success of it. It is Atlanta's duty to bring them speedily and promptly full assurance of that success, and to relieve them of any anxiety in connection with the outcome, which may attach to their efforts.

The one way to do it is for those who contemplate attending any of these concerts to go and buy their tickets now and not wait until the last moment. Every good seat in the auditorium is going to be taken before the sale is over; and those who wait may be compelled to take something that will not suit them quite so well.

Every artist on the list should fill the auditorium, and will do it, if all Atlantans who love music know and appreciate just what is being offered them.

The second week of the sale begins tomorrow. Saturday should see financial success, established with every prospect of a substantial fund to be devoted to Atlanta's future musical education and progress.

NO LIQUOR ON SHIPS.

Regardless of the fact that it may have been well timed for political effect, the ruling of Attorney General Daugherty, approved by President Harding, prohibiting the carrying of intoxicating liquors on all vessels flying the American flag, whether under control of the shipping board or not, and upon all foreign vessels coming within the three-mile limit, is the only logical action which could have been taken in view of the national attitude which has been written into the country's fundamental law.

States flag, is

CHRISTIAN RULE IN MANY EASTERN COUNTRIES MENACED

VICTORY OF TURKS WILL AFFECT FRANCE AS WELL AS BRITAIN

Grave Results May Be Expected in Syria, Egypt, Tripoli and Elsewhere—Entire Inside Story of Diplomatic Game For Control of Straits Told by Simonds.

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS

Washington, October 7.—Now that Kemal has agreed to suspend military operations and an armistice conference has been held, it would seem that the gravest danger of a Turco-British war has passed. There will be dangers incident to outpost encounters, perils arising from the fanaticism of the victorious Turkish troops, there may even be moments of extreme tension, but the likelihood of war is now small. We are then allowed a moment to review in relative calm the events leading up to the present situation.

As I have tried to make clear in previous articles, the present crisis grows out of the decision taken by the British at the close of the world war, to have done with the Turk, who had served them so ill a turn in the great struggle and by closing the straits and joining the Germans had, as Lloyd George recently said, brought about both Russian and Rumanian ruin and prolonged the conflict for one or two years, incidentally, had the Turk remained neutral Germany would have been beaten without American intervention.

The Near Eastern question, the problem of the Mediterranean, is the gravest which British imperial statesmanship has to face. Through this sea runs the road to India and Australia, the lifeline of the empire. From the days of Napoleon to the present hour British attention has been focused upon this inland sea and British policy has always been founded on the idea of British supremacy.

Sea Is Vital To Britain.

In Napoleon's time Britain fought in Egypt and in Syria to block the great emperor. Having defeated French efforts in Egypt, Britain entered a second conflict to make good her hold upon Malta, while Gibraltar had in the previous century been the scene of a memorable struggle which had left the British in possession of the Rock. At the congress of Berlin Disraeli brought back Cyprus in his pocket, while with Russia Britain fought the Crimean war and stood ready to fight another, when the treaty of San Stefano promised to give the Russians actual control of the straits.

Until the rise of a hostile Germany in the opening years of the present century, Britain had been the defender of the Turk, a role which carried with it certain unattractive responsibilities both with respect to Armenian and Bulgarian massacres. But when Germany challenged Britain on the sea, British policy was compelled to seek Russian friendship and the Turk, seeing his British protector become the friend and ally of his hereditary enemy, threw himself into German arms.

The British bid for Gallipoli in 1915, a bloody and terrible defeat, despite its glorious circumstances, was a new evidence of the value attached by Britain to the straits. Under war pressure, however, Sir Edward Grey was compelled to agree that the Russian should have Constantinople as his share of the spoils of victory. Had Russia remained in the war, therefore, the fate of Constantinople would have been sealed. When Russia withdrew, however, the British resumed their freedom of action.

At Paris the British openly embarked upon the great Greek adventure which has just come to ruin. Certainly the prospect was attractive. Venizelos who controlled Greece was a statesman of the first rank and under his direction the Greek army had been reorganized and constituted a formidable force, the only real army in the Near East, since the Bulgarian and Turkish forces were disorganized and by the terms of the treaty of peace were to be practically abolished.

All the Asiatic shore of the Aegean is inhabited by Greeks, who are a majority on both sides of the straits and in Constantinople itself. Moreover from time immemorial the Greeks have clung to the dream of re-establishing Hellenic power in the capital of that Byzantine empire, which was itself wholly Greek. Ten millions of Greeks living in the eastern end of the Mediterranean seemed a solid foundation on which to build and in the nature of things Britain could count upon Greece as her representative, if she threw her support to the ambitious state.

In the Paris days the religious question, which had in the past been of great importance, seemed eliminated. Under British leadership the Arabs had revolted against the Turk, thus depriving this phase of the war of any semblance of a fight between Moslem and Christian. A new Arabian kingdom was to be established in Mesopotamia and the British could reckon that this Arab state would replace the Turkish and Bagdad again become the headquarters of the khilafate.

Italian Danger Is Averted.

One danger only seemed in sight. Italy had been promised Smyrna under a secret treaty, as a part of the price for enlisting in the war. But if the Italians acquired Smyrna, then the whole conception would be negative. So hastily and with no real warrant in fact, Greek troops were rushed into Smyrna, France consenting to what was obviously a British manoeuvre and Italy engaged in a terrific battle for Fiume and practically friendless and helpless at Paris could do nothing.

With the Greek troops in Smyrna the Italian danger was averted. Meantime British representatives at Paris, with no little success, urged President Wilson the advantages of an American mandate for Armenia, for Cilicia, even for Constantinople. I well recall in Paris a conversation with Colonel House, in which he spoke enthusiastically of the proposed Constantinople mandate and suggested that we should repeat at the Golden Gate our achievements in Ilavna.

The British had no objection to our presence in Constantinople, because we are neither a military power nor could we have any ambitions in the Near East. If we took over Constantinople, we should hold off the Russians, the Bulgarians and the Turks and in the nature of things our policy would fall in with the British.

But when we declined the mandate, or rather when the whole Wilson program went by the board, the British then boldly took up the task themselves. In their scheme the Greeks would be the eventual possessors of the city and the straits and this meant British control.

This control would be realized in two ways, first by putting the Greek army on guard on both land gates, secondly by neutralizing the straits, which would mean that they would in fact be dominated by the nation which dominated the sea. And it is worth recalling that in the Washington conference the British insisted that France and Italy should each have a ratio of 1.75 to 5 in capital ships as contrasted with the British, which would insure British superiority in the Mediterranean even in the remote contingency of a Franco-Italian alliance.

Why then did a scheme which promised so much come to nothing, what explains the present catastrophe? There are many causes but underlying all is the development of Franco-British rivalry, to which must be added the Italian unwillingness to see the eastern end of the Mediterranean given over to the Greeks, who would infallibly exclude Italy from the one open door to future greatness.

for it is to the east that both the Roman and Venetian traditions beckon to modern Italy.

How Scheme Fell Through.

Very early in the Paris conference the French aspirations in Syria met British opposition. The British had promised Syria, indeed all Arab lands, to the Arabs, to Prince Feisal, who had headed the victorious Arab troops in their battle with the Turks in Palestine. They had also promised it to France under the Sykes-Picot treaty. In an effort to get out of their rather difficult situation they sought to make use of Mr. Wilson and his fourteen points and to persuade the president that the Syrians were entitled to self-determination and that such self-determination would abolish all French claims.

But the French hung on and the British could not go back upon their promise. Lloyd George did manage to wring Mosul and the oil regions away from the French before the French title to the Syrian mandate was recognized, but while this was profitable to the British it had small comfort for the Arabs, who saw almost half of their new state thus signed away. Nor was the situation improved by the fact that Mr. Balfour had promised the Jews a race home in Palestine, and under British administration, Palestine, whose population is overwhelmingly Moslem, was being organized as a Jewish colony, or seemed to the Arabs to be designed for such a future.

Thus very early in the game the British lost the Arabs and with them their best card. As the Arabs became more and more dissatisfied with British policy not only in the matter of Syria and Palestine, but presently in the matter of Mesopotamia itself. Moslem unrest in Egypt and in India began to increase. No great was this unrest that the British were presently obliged to renounce their protectorate over Egypt and recognize its independence subject to limitations like those included in the Platt amendment with respect to Cuba.

Meantime the Turk was beginning to recover. He was completely "down and out" at the moment of the end of the war. Even when the treaty of Sevres was made at Paris and most of his empire taken away he was still impotent. Moreover the British had the sultan under lock and key in Constantinople, the city was occupied by allied troops and the Golden Horn and the straits dominated by allied warships, mainly British.

But, if the sultan was a prisoner, Turkey found a real leader in Kemal Pasha, who fled from Constantinople, went inland to Angora and began to organize Turkish resistance to the treaty of Sevres. Thus, while the sultan was in a position where he would have to sign the treaty of Sevres, it was later in advance that the treaty would not bind Kemal and would therefore have no real effect. Moreover the Greek situation had suddenly changed. Constantinople had come back, following the death of his son Alexander, slain by a monkey bite—one of the oddest causes of the downfall of a state in all history. And the return of Constantinople, who as the brother-in-law of the kaiser had been a German agent during the war and was personally responsible for the killing of many French sailors in Athens, instantly estranged the French.

France Opposes British Policy.

Perhaps it would be more exact to say that the return of Constantinople gave the French a legitimate reason for hostility to Greece, for French opposition to British plans in the Near East had already begun to crystallize. The French had never forgotten or forgiven Lloyd George's effort to prevent their occupation of Syria, nor had they forgotten how George, having raised the issue of self-determination, had abandoned it when he was able to get Mosul and the oil regions. Moreover, the whole Anglo-French situation had grown worse. The British refusal to support French policy toward Germany, both in the matter of reparations and in other directions, the failure of the British to give France the alliance and the guarantee which France demanded, these were contributing factors. France had supported Britain in the early days of the Greek policy on the assumption that what France gave in the Aegean she would be paid for on the Rhine. When the payment did not come to hand, France revised her own policy.

Proof of the revision came last year with the promulgation of a treaty between Kemal's government and France, negotiated by Franklin-Bouillon, a prominent French politician, who had enough of the French in Britain and speaks English fluently. Americans will recall that he visited this country during the war. By the terms of the Angora agreement France recognized the Cilician portion of her Syrian mandate, accepted the Bagdad railway to the Euphrates and promised to furnish Turk forces with arms and ammunition. The British practically retained a number of profitable concessions and abolished all danger of an attack upon her Syrian mandate by the Turkish nationalist army led by Kemal.

Actually, this Angora agreement meant that France had dissociated herself from the British policy in the Near East and was in fact giving her support to Angora against Britain. At once withdrew her troops from the Turkish territory assigned to her about the Gulf of Adalia and some what later also made a separate treaty with the Turks, which she had repeated the terms of the French bargain made with Kemal by Bouillon at Angora.

Thus the whole situation had changed. Instead of a united and victorious combination of western powers, the Turks now faced only the British, still backed by the British. Moreover, the Greeks under Constantinople were completely isolated from the Greeks under Venizelos. Finally British support was daily weakening as a result of Moslem protest within the empire. In a word it was now becoming plain that Lloyd George had backed the wrong horse.

Last year the Anglo-Greek combination undertook a final and terrible gamble. The Turkish army was still weak and relatively badly equipped. It had retired to Angora in the heart of Anatolia, and was there organizing. If the Greek troops could reach Angora and destroy this force, then Turkish resistance to the terms of the treaty of Sevres would collapse, the sultan would sign the treaty and the British plan would, after all, triumph. The campaign of the Greek army against Kemal was well organized and well conducted, the Greek troops fought bravely, and were successful in a series of big battles. They captured Smyrna and Angora, along the Bagdad railway, which passed into their control. But pursuing Kemal up to the gates of Angora, they presently got beyond their lines of communication and were defeated, not by the Turks, but by the transport problem. In the field, they retired slowly upon the Bagdad railway, where they went into winter quarters.

George Refused Terms With Turks.

Actually, however, the Greeks had shot their bolt. Many of their soldiers had been under arms for ten years, the army was desperately weary, the maintenance of so great a force was beyond the capacity of a small country and the morale of the army began rapidly to decay. As for the reverse, they had lived through the period of deadly peril. Arms and ammunition were flowing in from Russia, France and Italy, the whole Mohammedan world was beginning to clamor against further British support of the Greeks just at the moment when nothing could save the Greeks but actual military assistance from the British, assistance which meant troops not merely supplies and naval support.

In this situation the French and Italians last spring made a desperate effort to persuade Lloyd George to end the struggle in the Near East by recognizing Kemal's claim to all of Asia Minor and to Constantinople.

agreeing with the British contention for the neutralization of the straits. There were not lacking British advisers, too, who warned the prime minister of the need of coming to terms with the Turks. But Lloyd George refused to yield. In the end the great powers, after a conference in Paris, sent Kemal a proposal which looked toward recognizing his claims in Asia, but refused to recognize his demands for Adrianople.

Finally, comparatively recently, the Greeks announced the annexation of Smyrna and the surrounding country, and threatened to march upon Constantinople. At the same time Lloyd George made a defiant speech in the house of commons which was accepted in Athens, and Angora alike, as committing Britain to the support of the Greek cause. On the other hand, yielding to the protests of both the Italians and the French, Lloyd George did join these countries in forbidding Greek approach to Constantinople.

Lloyd George's speech was the final signal to Kemal. In it there had been the hint that the whole question would be treated in a forthcoming conference in Venice. But before the conference could be called Kemal struck the Greek army ceased to exist and the victorious Turkish army was rushing westward toward the coast of the Aegean and the straits. There was an end of the Greek phase.

In this situation there was a real panic in Downing street. An appeal was issued to the Dominions to send troops, an appeal which had a singularly cold reception in Ottawa and Cape Town and excited little enthusiasm in Melbourne. Moreover, when London sounded Paris and Italy the response was unsympathetic and French and Italian troops were withdrawn from the Asiatic side of the straits to avoid any possible conflict with the Turks. Thus the British were left alone, the Greeks having disappeared and the French and Italians declining to participate in any defense against Kemal.

Kemal, on his side made no disguise of his purpose. He already had Smyrna, he meant to have Adrianople, to evict the allied garrisons in Constantinople and Scutari. He demanded the old European frontier of Turkey, the Maritza river, from Adrianople to the sea, thus calling upon Greece to surrender not alone her Asiatic mandate but also her East Thracian territories. And these terms, after a brief delay, were accepted by the British, through Lord Curzon, who journeyed to Paris to enlist France and failed.

Briefly, this is the history of events down to the moment I write. In Greece the collapse of the army has led to the second abdication of Constantine and will doubtless bring about the return of Venizelos, but able as is the great Cretan, it is difficult to see how he can save much out of the wreck. In sending him into exile Greece deliberately sacrificed her greatest asset. Another such opportunity as came to her in 1910 will hardly return in the present generation.

Grave Consequences For Great Britain.

The collapse of the British policy in the Near East is mainly to be ascribed to that Lloyd Georgeian policy which has led to the alienation of France. In refusing British aid to France on the Rhine and in seeking to break down French military strength the British have deprived themselves of the aid of French troops in the Near East and have provoked French statesmen to a policy of reprisal.

For Britain the present affair is bound to have further grave consequences in all of her Moslem populations. Moreover, for the time being at least French and Italian influence will be supreme with Kemal. An Arab revolt in Palestine and Mesopotamia becomes one of the present possibilities. But it is hard to escape the conclusion that sooner or later the French in Syria will suffer also. Actually Christian rule in the Near East becomes even more difficult than before. The same is true in Egypt, Tripoli and to a lesser degree in Algeria and Tunis.

Looking backward it is plain that the great gamble could only have succeeded provided the British were prepared to back the Greeks with soldiers and to meet French wishes on the Rhine and Italian in the Adriatic. With the Anglo-French break the whole scheme was doomed and the outcome wipes out the most considerable real profit of the British in the world war, for the domination of the Near East was far more important than the sterile mandates in Africa and the Indian ocean, which, in fact, have passed to the Dominions and have little real value to the Empire.

Of course the British are not going to abandon the game, they have only lost one round and they will return as they did after losing the round which was marked by the Turkish desertion to the German. Meantime one must keep in mind the Russian element. Greece backed by Britain might have closed the road to Russian expansion southward, the Russians in the old days always feared the Greek aspirations on this account. But the Turk will not. He is strong in battle but weak everywhere else. He will remain the sick man and all the old intrigues will be resumed.

For the moment, however, Britain has lost a heavy stake and Lloyd George has met a supreme disaster. (Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

ATLANTA RETAIL MEN WILL MEET NEXT THURSDAY

The board of directors of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association will meet Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce cafe, Chamber of Commerce building. The scope of service rendered by the association to its members will be discussed. Complete plans will be formulated for the development and promotion of the various trade lines. The membership committee will propose plans for increasing the membership. This campaign will begin the latter part of October. The next regular monthly membership meeting of the association will be held the last Thursday in October when two addresses of value to the retail merchandising industry will be made. The October meeting will be in charge of the educational committee.

An Extra Billion Dollars For Southern Farmers

EVERY Southern business man has noticed a decided improvement in business conditions during the past sixty days. Sales are better, collections have been improving and there is a decided feeling of optimism.

An exhaustive survey of agricultural conditions just made in the fifteen Southern States by the Southern Ruralist gives very definite reasons why we are seeing an improvement now, and why we may expect prosperity throughout the coming year.

THESE FIGURES ARE IN ADDITION TO THE VALUE OF LAST YEAR'S CROP

COTTON will give Southern farmers $438,725,000 more this year than it did last.

COTTON SEED will add $67,000,000 to the total realized for the 1921 crop.

CORN will sell this year for $40,000,000 more than last year's crop brought.

SWEET POTATOES will increase the buying and paying power of the Southern farmer by $60,000,000 more than last year.

TOBACCO will bring $47,000,000 more than the total realized for the crop in 1921.

IRISH POTATOES, Peanuts, Rice, Sorghum, Peaches and Apples add the $348,000,000 necessary to bring the total increase in the value of twelve crops up to A BILLION DOLLARS MORE THIS YEAR THAN THE SAME CROPS SOLD FOR LAST YEAR.

These figures are arrived at by multiplying the production forecast as of September 1st by prices prevailing on that date. They do not include the tremendous increase in the value of live stock and poultry, berries, melons, or the citrus crops of Florida.

When the farmer has money, business is good. The figures we have given you indicate a great improvement in the financial condition of the farmer, and we can only believe that this improvement will be reflected in all lines of business.

The far-seeing business man will arrange now, while we are just entering upon this period of prosperity, to take full advantage of it. If your banking connections are such that you have any idea of changing them, we will be glad to arrange for a conference.

WHIPCORDS AND GABARDINES IN VOGUE FOR SPRING

Whipcords and gabardines will continue in vogue for spring, according to manufacturers, who are now getting their spring lines together. It is argued by the bulk of manufacturers and salesmen that both these fabrics will be even more popular for spring than for the current season, and they are all looking forward to placing a fair volume of business on these garments.

While there are no definite views on style trend, it is generally conceded that sports models will go well again for spring, although there is some doubt about the popularity of the so-called four-piece gold suits.

Manufacturers of both men's, young men's and boys' clothing are all looking forward to a reasonably good volume of trade for next season. They feel that the country has now settled down to a large extent, and hold that the industrial upheavals that have marked the present year will not recur during the next year. In other words, the country as a whole is pretty much back to normal, or has reached what will closely approximate the new normal. Wages with but a few probable adjustments, it is believed, will remain pretty much at present levels, and manufacturers declare that employment probably will continue to be reasonably steady throughout the country. It is conceded that there will be readjustments in some commodity prices, with some articles advancing and other factors in the cost of living undergoing reductions. The trade, as a whole, however, is more optimistic at present than has been the case in a long time, and the bulk of the manufacturers are looking forward to steadily improving business.

Southeastern Fair Will Attract 'Hundreds of Buyers to Atlanta'

James J. Ragan Is Very Optimistic Over Trade Expected Among Local Jobbers—All Are Ready.

The big Southeastern fair, which is the largest exposition to be held anywhere in the state this year, will start next Thursday and continue for ten days.

James J. Ragan, of Ragan-Malone company, and president of the Atlanta Merchants and Manufacturers' association, says that all the members of this association are looking forward to a big attendance of out-of-town merchants during the fair. All the large jobbing houses and manufacturers have put their "Homes" in order and each have sent a standing invitation to all of their customers and friends to make their houses their headquarters while they are in the city.

Most of the stores will have their traveling representatives in from off the road, who will be glad to greet their customers and show them through their large stocks, which have been specially arranged and displayed for the occasion.

Reports Good Business.

Many houses make some mighty optimistic reports over the wonderful increase in business in this state. The merchants in the small towns are showing an increase in business and most of them are looking forward to October, November and December as being the banner months of the year and no doubt while here they will storm the jobbers the next two weeks for merchandise to replenish their stocks.

The merchant is coming to mix business with pleasure and the local jobbers will see that he is properly entertained during the ten days of the big fair.

REMARKABLE GROWTH OF CRUMLEY-SHARP CO.

In the year of 1911, nearly eleven years ago, there was founded one of the largest and most rapidly growing business houses in this city.

The name of this well-known house is the Crumley-Sharp Hardware company, which was organized by some of the best-known business men of that day and now.

The late W. M. Crumley, who was president; Norman Sharp, Willis Timmons, J. H. Franklin and R. M. Crumley started their little store eleven years ago at 45 Walton street. They at first occupied a part of the first floor, then a room 50x100, but through the aid of good business and three traveling boosters were compelled to take the entire first floor and basement in which to house their rapidly growing stock and business.

In a few years, more traveling men were added and the next thing was to find larger quarters. They finally were successful in obtaining a large lot in the rear of the present building, 100x100 feet, on which they erected a new five-story and basement warehouse.

They went along for a few years, still growing and growing, until but a few years ago they secured the large lot on Walton street, next to the room they started their first store, and put up the third building, which consisted of five stories and a basement, and increased their floor space from 10,000 feet, the first year, until today they have one of the most modern and up-to-date hardware stores in the entire south, occupying a building whose entire floor space covers 120,000 square feet, or equal to almost thirty acres of floor space.

The Crumley-Sharp Hardware company has been very successful and is now employing twelve traveling salesmen to cover the large territory in which they sell. They are among the largest wholesale hardware dealers in the entire country and they are still growing.

J. Ragan, of Ragan-Malone Co., says that he is looking for two weeks of big buying during the Southeastern fair, and that his firm has prepared in advance for it. All merchants visiting Atlanta during the next two weeks are invited to make his store their headquarters.

BRIGHT COLORS—TIES PLAIN COLORS—SHIRTS

The profusion of brilliantly colored neckwear that suddenly made its appearance this fall in the New York retail market, after the trend of style had for some time been toward conservative patterns, has given rise to some comment in the trade.

That the feeling is more or less general among retailers that the tie of many colors is receiving an enthusiastic reception from the consumer, is indicated by a swing down Broadway and up Fifth avenue. Shop windows are resplendent with ties at all prices, and all colors.

As to just why this sudden swerve to brilliant neckwear, the general reply is that the consumer is tired of being conservative; he wants something new, a change. Color will give it to him.

But there is something more, according to the manager of a large chain store corporation. The multi-colored tie is the natural result of the plain shirt.

The Wartime Shirt. During the period of the war boom, this factor remarked, loud colors in shirts were the vogue. The working-man was flush with money; he was earning more than he ever had earned in his life; he was in the "silk shirt" class, and he was going to prove it. So he did prove it, by wearing silk shirts with broad purple stripes, or whatever color combination appealed to him. Every one could see his shirt, and that was what he wanted. As a natural result, neckwear was conservative; for brilliant neckwear with brilliant shirts was really going too far.

Chance for Tie. This year, however, the unquestioned popularity of the shirt in plain colors, plus then unprecedented demand for plain white shirts, has given the neckwear manufacturer a chance to display his product. With a conservative shirt, the average consumer, it is believed, wants a tie with vim and life.

Hence the sudden appearance of the multi-colored "cravat," with which the consumer element is generally reported to be on the most friendly terms.

J. R. Little, of the firm of Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, says that mail orders are being received by his firm every day and that they receive prompt delivery as soon as they come in.

McCLURE CATALOGUE NOW READY FOR MERCHANTS

The McClure Ten-Cent company have just completed the printing of their extra holiday and toy catalogue. The catalogue is filled full of valuable news and prices for the merchants of the southeastern section. Many hundreds of illustrations and descriptions of the goods are shown along with the prices of each article. Dolls for the children, toy guns and pistols for the boys, mechanical and frictional trains and toys, hobby horses, doll cars and velocipedes for the little fellows, small furniture, miniature stoves, washing sets and the little piano and music box, false faces, metal and china dishes in miniature, books, games and blocks—all these things are for the little folks, while for the older people glassware, jewelry, perfumes, sewing sets, holiday handkerchiefs, hosiery, neckwear, pocketbooks, fancy threads and yarns and thousands of other useful and ornamental goods which will make charming and useful gift things.

Several thousands of these helpful catalogues have been printed and are now ready for distribution. The McClure Ten-Cent company do not employ traveling men, thus claiming to save this expense and give the difference to the buyer in better quality merchandise at a much lower cost. Any merchant in this country who will write for or call at the wholesale department at McClure's will be given this handsome and practical catalogue free.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS GOOD IN SHOE TRADE

The big shoe house of J. K. Orr company is very enthusiastic over business conditions in this territory just now.

Big orders are coming in daily from their traveling men from every section and if the increase keeps up like it has during the past few weeks the fall and winter trade will be one of the largest that this firm has enjoyed in several years.

The men on the road have also been showing their spring samples and every where they show them, they report the merchants taking to the spring line with enthusiasm.

Many of the men on the road will be in the city during fair time and will be more than pleased to show their customers through the big factory and their shoe line in the downtown store.

REPORTS MORE WOOL MACHINERY IN OPERATION

Washington, September 24.—A slight increase in the general activity of wool machinery during August as compared to the previous month is reported in the active and idle wool machinery report of the bureau of census, department of agriculture, brought up to September 1. The report summarizes the statistics of 954 manufacturers operating a total of 1,150 mills.

WILLIAMSON ENTHUSED OVER BUSINESS NOW

C. J. Williamson, of A. M. Robinson & Co., is very enthusiastic over the big business his firm has been doing during the past few months. He says that business is better than ever, and that orders are coming in daily, and large ones too, from his traveling men on the road.

This big firm is preparing for the big ten days of buying during the fair. Mr. Williamson promises some real surprises to his customers in the way of merchandise. He says that he has some of the most beautiful pieces of dry goods ever seen in the south. Such an array of colors that is seldom seen anywhere and all good seasonable merchandise. Claude Smith, the notion buyer, will return from the east this week, and according to Mr. Williamson, he will show them some of the greatest lines of notions ever seen in any Atlanta jobbing house.

The two-pants idea in both men's and boys' suits, is a very strong point in selling goods to the public just now. "It is an idea that is here to stay," so says S. I. Mendell, of H. Mendell & Co., and our firm is receiving big orders every day for this class of ready-to-wear merchandise.

WELL-KNOWN JOBBERS MERGE THEIR INTERESTS

Announcement was made yesterday of the merging of the Moorhead Cigar company with the J. B. Withers Cigar company, widely known Atlanta cigar jobbers, located at 134 Marietta street.

The firm will continue under the name of the J. B. Withers Cigar company, and the combination of interests gives this concern a large number of the most popular brands of cigars on the Atlanta market.

Announcement was also made by this company of a new policy of handling cigars exclusively, which, according to Mr. Withers makes them the largest exclusive cigar jobbers in the south.

In speaking of this merger, J. B. Withers, president of the company, had the following to say:

"Our business during the last year has shown a most remarkable increase, developing into such volume that it became necessary for us to greatly increase our facilities for handling orders."

"This merger with the Moorhead Cigar company means that we are now better equipped than ever before to render prompt and efficient service to the cigar trade."

"Our sales force has been materially increased, our delivery service has been improved, and in the future we will be able to completely cover this territory with frequent calls on all dealers and keep their stocks well supplied with the best selling brands of cigars."

"Another big advantage in this merger is the fact that a dealer can now order from one concern, a majority of his best selling brands."

The officers of the J. B. Withers company are now as follows: J. B. Withers, president; J. C. Moorhead, first vice president; H. J. Seeger, second vice president; A. I. Haskins, secretary and treasurer; J. A. Waterhouse, assistant secretary and treasurer.

The sales force for the city will include J. B. Withers, A. B. Boyle, Cliff Moorhead, W. H. McAfee, C. R. Waller, with H. J. Seeger covering all territory in the state north of Macon.

KING IMPLEMENT CO.'S EXHIBIT AT S. E. FAIR

The King Implement company is going to be represented at the Southeastern fair by a large and elaborate display to the left of the agricultural building.

They will have on demonstration Sharpless Cream Separators, with Mr. W. H. Faine, of the Sharpless factory there to give advice or answer any questions that might arise, and Letz Dixie Feed Cutters, with Mr. Reynolds also a factory representative. Beside these two leading attractions there may be seen a John Lauson tractor, Cushman engine, Alamo Farm Light plant, churns and practically everything used on the farm or dairy.

Ridley Yates Co., Ready for Crowd During Fair Week

The Ridley-Yates company is ready for the big crowd of merchants expected here during the Southeastern fair and has arranged the counters of its big house, with beautiful and bewitching merchandise, hosiery and notions.

This firm is located right opposite the Terminal station, and every merchant and his friends visiting the city are invited to do their shopping during fair week at this house.

Hosiery and Knit Wearing Apparel

That one of the country's largest concerns manufacturing staple hosiery believes itself strong enough to break the market on fancy goods, and that it accordingly is radically reducing its prices, is the story going the rounds at present.

"This company," said one selling agent yesterday, "is one of the shrewdest in the business, and its policy is pretty nearly always right. It will be very interesting to watch developments and see the result of its latest drive for business, but those who just watch and do not set themselves will be to use the vernacular 'out of luck.'"

In discussing the efforts of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association to obtain terms of $x10-00 extra from hosiery and underwear manufacturers, one selling agent yesterday said:

"This question has become an annual affair, and it is more or less looked for every year about this time. So far as I am concerned," he continued, "I am perfectly willing to sell on any terms the jobbers want, but they will pay any difference themselves. I, for one, make it a point to sell as per the jobbers' terms, but I mark my goods accordingly."

"There is no trouble selling goods now if you have them," said one knit goods jobber yesterday. He stated that there is now a big spot demand, and also that there is a fine demand for knit goods in the heavier weights. His sweater line, he stated, averages from 10 to 15 per cent higher in price than at the opening. Tuxedos for women are particularly in demand, this he reports, while it is sold up until March 1 on its bathing suit line.

In discussing the market in underwear, George N. Kelly, district manager for the Allen A. company, stated that his company has noted a marked increase in orders. Mr. Kelly believes that the retailers appreciate the fact that goods are cheaper now than they will be, and that they are ordering in fairly good volume.

He also stated that the New York office of his company is having the biggest year in its history, so far as the sale of children's hosiery is concerned. He believes that another good season is in store for woolen hosiery for women, owing to the fact that the "athletic girl with the low shoe is here to stay."

Although manufacturers of women's knitting novelty year are producing in large volume, one member of the industry stated yesterday that notwithstanding a rushing business, he had to work on so close a margin that there was little profit for him. He cited one example of a woman's knitted sweater item, which he sells for $16.50, and which costs him actually $13.50 per dozen to produce.

Manufacturers of knitted wear for little girls' juveniles report little activity in their market. "I anticipated big business about this time," one manufacturer said yesterday, "but my hopes have gone to seed. There seems no incentive for people to buy with general conditions unsettled as they are now."

Jobbers of knit goods are loud in their condemnation of the practice of many retailers, who are virtually forcing the jobbers to sell at their prices. One jobber yesterday said that there has been a regular procession of retailers at his showroom recently, explaining that they must have price concessions, owing to their contemplated "anniversary" sales, "back to normal" sales and many other species of bargains.

Collections are reported to be better than in some time. Those interviewed on this subject yesterday stated that while collections are far from what they should be, the retailer is showing a tendency to meet his bills more promptly.

Henry Beane Ties Up With or Ahead Of N. Y. Styles

If you desire to see something clever, classy and up-to-minute in style, just take a walk up Pryor street to the Henry Beane Manufacturing company and see the grand array of beautiful silk fabrics which are being converted into men's neckwear each day. These ties are dreams and are the latest things out in men's fancy neckwear. A tie made by Henry Beane will make good in any home on Fifth avenue or any where on the great white way in the city of New York. Mr. Beane is manufacturing this neckwear here in Atlanta, made by Atlanta workmen and from the choicest of domestic and imported fabrics, so if you wear a Henry Beane tie you are either up with or ahead of the Paris and New York styles.

H. MENDELL IS BUYING MERCHANDISE IN EAST

H. Mendell, of the H. Mendell & Co., is now on a buying trip to the New York and eastern markets. Mr. Mendell will be gone several weeks, the object of the trip is to replenish his general stock of merchandise and to put in his orders with the larger manufacturers for the new spring 1923 lines.

Business with this firm has been very large during the past few months so that it became absolutely necessary that Mr. Mendell go east to replenish what he thought would be a sufficient stock for the fall and winter trade. Every department of this firm has been rushed to supply the demands of the southern merchants and the demand for the future even looks still brighter. Mr. Mendell, however, promises that his firm will supply every merchant with whatever merchandise they will want, and while he will be out of the city during the big fair, invites all his out-of-town customers and friends to make their headquarters at his big store.

J. R. LITTLE SAYS THAT BUSINESS IS BRIGHTER

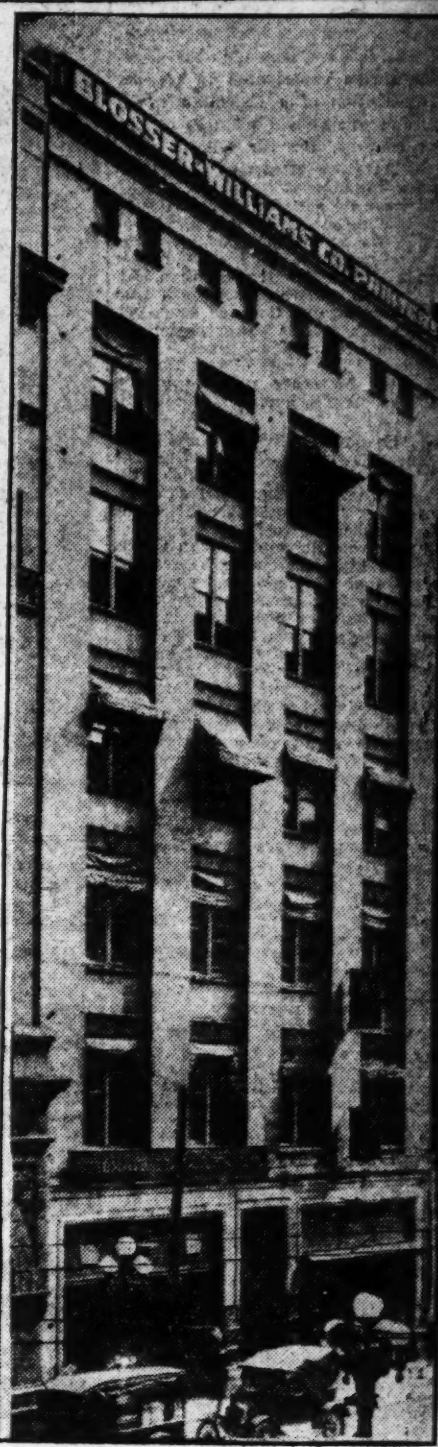

"Business is looking much better," said J. R. Little, of the big house of Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, when speaking in regard to business conditions in the south at the present time. "The merchant is buying more however, but not plunging; he is buying just what his customers demand and is very conservative in all selections."

Mr. Little also says that his firm has prepared for the big business expected by Atlanta during the big Southeastern fair which starts next Thursday and continues for two weeks. All his traveling salesmen will be in during the ten days and they will all be glad to show their customers and friends through their large stock of up-to-date merchandise which has been specially displayed during the ten days.

All orders will be handled promptly and immediate delivery will be made at once. This firm is having a special display of Bear Brand and Knox Knit hosiery.

mighty fine orders. The one-price hat for women are making a big hit, according to E. Wise, the manager of the firm.

BOOK REVIEWS IN TABLOID

"Carnac's Folly," By Sir Gilbert Parker, means a great deal to the men and women who like good fiction. And who does not remember the pleasurable thrills experienced in reading the description of a Canadian wheat field, and other vivid pictures of this great country, for Sir Gilbert finds in setting more attractive than Canada for his stories.

We have no better writer of fiction than the author of "The Right of Way"—no pen that has the power to hold with keener interest countless readers than Gilbert Parker, and the reader will find in this new history that the same pen has not lost none of the power that made "You Never Know Your Luck," "The Weavers," "The Seats of the Mighty," and some 25 other realistic stories of life vs. fiction, among the best sellers.

In "Carnac's Folly" is unfolded a romance that is full of thrills from the very first chapter in which the voice of Junia, a young girl of eight, was calling "Carnac! Carnac! Come and catch me, Carnac!"

Carnac was the son of John Greer, a lumber king, and when he reached the years of his majority he and his father grew further and further apart, and by a strange piece of folly Carnac's career was soon in the wrecking well as his knowledge that he was losing the love of Junia who had grown into a beautiful girl and whom he had loved since her childhood.

Carnac presented a strange, reckless figure, the result of a heritage he knew not of, and Junia wondered and waited. How fortunate that tenseness cannot last forever—either in fact or fiction—and the inevitable climax reveals strange truths as well as great surprises which will hold the reader's closest attention to the end.

French Quebec with its vivid humanity and the swirling river with its fighting, striving, heroic lumber men, form the vigorous background of this story. (Lippincott's, Philadelphia.)

NEW FICTION.

Shoe-Bar Stratton, By Joseph B. Ames, is well known as a writer of juvenile fiction which has made him very popular with boys and girls. This is his first story for grown-ups and the reader will find it a slightly good novel—it will not only interest but it has enough thrills to hold the attention of the reader until the end.

In writing this story the author has selected the location that he likes best, the southwest country and ranch life. The chief industry in this part of the country has always been cattle raising but in the '20's it sprang a new leak—of oil.

It is the story of a soldier in the world war who, after a year's loss of memory regains it through an operation and comes home to find his ranch, the Shoe-Bar, in the hands of a stranger—and the best of all is that the stranger is a beautiful young woman.

Mary Thorne, the lovely mistress of Shoe-Bar is the daughter of the lawyer, now dead, in whose hands Stratton left his affairs.

The story of the owner of the ranch now boy is very interesting and the reader will find it a most likable story, especially the love story, which is like a bright colored thread. (The Century Co.)

In Naaman's House, By Marian MacLean Finney, this is a romance of the land of Israel—it is full of color and interest—so much so that the reader can scarcely realize that it is not an up-to-date story. The Abingdon Press, New York.

The Personal Touch, a novel by Emma Beatrice Brunner, receives the following praise from Gertrude Atherton:

"It is a novel that possesses all the elements of popularity: plot, drama, good writing and craftsmanship, sharp characterization and much originality. I have hardly yet grasped the fact that it is a first novel." (Brentano's, New York City.)

Granite and Clay, By Sara Ware Bassett, author of Flood Tide, etc. Miss Bassett is a good story-teller at all times, but when she weaves a story in which she individualizes Cape Codders, it increases in interest.

Therefore this is a very interesting romance in which Penelope Turner is "leading lady." Her grandfather, Cap'n James Allen, and her two aunts, Martha and Elizabeth, are all typical "Cape" people. The scenes in the book are laid in Boston and around Cape Cod. The story is well written and is so realistic that even the flavor of the sea and the sand dunes is not missing. The author even touches lightly the social life of Boston—for is it not in Boston that Penelope finds real adventures?—(Little, Brown & Co., Boston.)

Sea Wrack, A powerful love-story set on the wild north coast of England, which is dotted with small villages and with farming country—it is on the coast where the waves of the North Sea are forever threatening the land—this is the setting. The characters are mostly farming people, though the heroine, Tarnia, is of the gentry. The author, Vera Hutchings, is an artist. The sea tosses the little hero of this story into the arms of a big farmer, who adopts the gift of the restless sea to be a companion for another boy whom he had adopted.

There are many different colored threads woven into the cloth of this story—and the two boys are always the brightest and most attractive threads of all. The reader will closely follow the two brothers; there will be much to interest to the end, and the last chapter will prove a great surprise.—(The Century Co., New York.)

The Ashes of Achievement, By Frank A. Russell. This was awarded first prize as the best Australian novel of the past year. It is not an Australian story of the bush—but the story is woven around Sydney and Melbourne, in a quiet country location, among the sheep raisers. The chief actors in the story are Philip, son of an English aristocrat, and Peter, a native Australian. Although the plot is laid in Australia, the story could have been written in America, for these two friends, thoroughly congenial, strive for the same thing, play life's game each in his own way, like the same sports the same people, and love the same girl, etc.

The outcome will be watched with interest and the countless incidents which are described will make it one of the most interesting novels of the year.—(Brentano's, New York.)

The Red Hollow Mystery, By Rebecca N. Porter. This is another absorbing, baffling mystery story with a plot so refreshing that it will appeal to the reader from the very beginning. It is set in an old deserted mansion in southern California—just the kind of place where, as one of the characters says, "anything could happen." It is a story of romance, mystery, crime, wealth, poverty, vengeance—all these swirl slowly but surely through the halls of the old deserted house. Among the characters the reader will find plenty of human nature—enough to make the story of absorbing interest. (The Century company, New York.)

Hirondelle, by Henry C. Rowland, author of "Duds" and other books of interest. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

In this creation of characters, Mr. Rowland has made them full of courage, ambition, kindness and love, with plenty of originality and humor which the reader will find of special interest. But the story tells in the following lines the peaceful closing of those on the Hirondelle:

"Ye have slithered your cargo into the sea
And a shipload of love brought back to me."

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS

The Old Stone Age, Written and Illustrated by Marjorie and C. H. B. Quennell, author of "Everyday Things in England." There are seventy illustrations and the authors picture the everyday life of prehistoric man—his manner of living and his environment.

This book belongs to the "Everyday Life Series," its aim being to present a readable story of the human life from Paleolithic times to the close of the Renaissance. It is a very interesting discussion for those who wish to increase their knowledge of mankind. (Putnam's.)

Socialism and the Average Man, by William H. Doughty, Jr., A. B., LL. B., professor in government, Williams college, (Putnam's.)

The Immigrant Press and Its Control, by Robert E. Park, of the Chicago university. The New York Evening Post Literary Review writes: "The Immigrant Press and Its Control, is of great value and interest."

This, the seventh volume of the Americanization series, tends to eliminate one of the greatest obstacles to the work of Americanization, the opposition of social workers as well as the general public to the foreign language press.

It is the first attempt to explain foreign-language newspapers with an understanding of the needs they feel for their subscribers. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

Youth and the Open Door, The Relations of Habit and Character to Success, by George Ross Wells, professor of psychology, etc. The subjects treated include Habits of Study, Remembering and Forgetting, Reasoning Power, Choosing a Vocation, Character and Temperament. (E. P. Dutton & Co.)

SENIOR BOOKS.

Fuzzy Wuzz, By Allen Chaffee—This is the story of a little brown bear in the Sierras. Illustrated by Peter Daru. It is one of the true-to-nature stories that all the little folks like to read.

Pep—The story of a brave dog. By Clarence Hawkes, who knows how to write just such dog stories as boys especially like to read, and Pep was an unusual dog. Josh Billings said, "A dog is the only thing on earth that loves you more than he loves himself." Tennyson wrote, "Faithful and true will be found on four short legs," and Eugene Field said that "a little rough dog can awaken a joy that enters eternity."

Moons of Long Ago—These are old Indian tales by Ellen Miller Donaldson, with illustrations by Charles H. Lumsell. All the little folks will enjoy these themselves and it will still be a greater pleasure to tell their little friends about the Legends of the Painted Leaves; Why the Eagle Has No Song, etc.

Rick and Ruddy Afloat, By Howard E. Garis—The boys who have been enjoying the tales about Rick and Ruddy—a little Jersey boy and a little shipwrecked dog, and about the good time they had in camp, will find this a very interesting continuation of their good times together. Milton Bradley Co., Springfield, Mass.

LITERARY DRIFTWOOD.—"The Radio Detectives in the Jungle" is a new story by A. Hyatt Verrill, which will strongly appeal to the boys through its ingenious combination of vigorous adventure with the theme of radio. This book, while a distinct story in itself, is the fourth and last volume of its author's "Radio Detective Series."

A notable meeting in Washington the other day was that of the two leading women authors of mystery stories. These were Anna Katherine Green, who for so many years has been delighting detective story enthusiasts, and Natalie Sumner Lincoln, whose new novel, "The Cat's Paw," once more is proving her amazing gift for sheer, baffling mystery.

Mrs. Lorrinda Munson Bryant, whose new children's book, "Bible Stories in Bible Language," is just out, when at Oberammergau recently, was housed in the home of Anton Hinner, who impersonates Adam in the Passion Play. A notable experience, one would say, for a compiler of Bible stories!

Now that "When Summer Comes" has been completed, Roy del Ruth, who directed that vacation time comedy, as well as six previous Billy Beran and Mildred June two-reelers for Mack-Sennett, has been very busy cooperating with the scenario staff on the next Ben Turpin special. Roy del Ruth has been chosen to direct the scrambled-visioned laugh maker in his picture for First National release.

Speaking about

DRESSES

WOMEN who delight in beautiful things to wear will surely revel in the charms of this season's new creations. Fashion's dream for the season was an enchanting one—and it has lost none of that enchantment in the models that depict it. As an illustration we invite your special attention tomorrow to our displays of

Milgrim Models

At $95.00, $125.00,
$150.00, $175.00 and up

QUALITY is the distinguishing mark of Milgrim Dresses—quality revealed in the fabrics used, in the perfection of workmanship that can come only from the hands of experts, and in those little niceties of detail and finish that characterize the best.

Our showings are typical of the season's newest styling—portraying most vividly the varied adaptations of both silks and woolsens to Fashion's whims. They're elegant. List the inspection of them as one of your pleasant anticipations for tomorrow.

The Betty Wales Line

THESE dresses serve also as splendid illustrations of what has been attained in the art of style-making. They, too, are in both silks and woolsens—youthful, graceful and altogether charming in every sense. These may be had at prices ranging from $29.75 to $100.

Miss Farley Weds Mr. Dusen At Impressive Ceremony

A wedding of unusual interest was that of Miss Louise Farley and Henry Thayer Dusen, of Crowley, La., which occurred on Tuesday evening, October 3, at the Druid Hills Baptist church, Dr. A. F. McConnell officiating.

The church was banked with ferns, and on the altar were Easter lilies and white dahlias.

Miss Sarah Dixon, of Shorter college, sang "All for You," accompanied at the piano by Miss Frances Stovall, another classmate of the bride.

During the ceremony, Miss Stovall played softly, "Forgive Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." At the close Miss Dixon sang "O Perfect Love."

The bridesmaids, classmates of Miss Farley, were Miss Lora Cook, of Hamilton, Ga., and Miss Mary Sue Jones, of Atlanta. They wore pink satin and sequins and carried old-fashioned bouquets of pastel shades.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Farley, sister of the bride, was gown in apple green satin, embroidered in iridescent crystals, with crystals draped effect upon the skirt, and carried a bouquet of pink roses showered

Mrs. C. H. Cook, of Hamilton, Ga., and Mrs. W. A. Farley, both wore draped gowns of black satin. Mrs. Cook's corsage was yellow roses. Mrs. Farley wore white roses.

Mrs. A. F. Copeland, the bride's aunt, wore black lace and sequins, and her corsage was pink roses.

The groom's mother was handsomely gowned in an imported model of turquoise blue brocade satin, trimmed in chiffon and crystal beads. Her corsage was orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. P. L. Lawrence, of Crowley, La., sister of the groom, was charming in a gown of blue net and silver lace, over blue satin. Her bouquet was Columbia roses.

Immediately after the ceremony an informal reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Farley, 800 Highland avenue.

Misses Eugenia Novell, Sarah Dixon and Ruby Robinson, of Shorter college, served punch.

Miss Marguerite Gresham kept the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Dusen left at once for Crowley, La., where they will make their home.

The bride graduated from Girls' High school, where she was one of the most popular girls, and attended Shorter college. She is an attractive brunette and has a host of friends in Atlanta.

Dresses --and their Coats

THE two smart new models sketched here will instantly win popularity—not for a long time has the mere choosing been so interesting—nor has such individuality in modes been so interestingly featured.

A particularly varied collection promises the keen joy of decision at Lewis' Monday. Unexpected uses of color—handsome fabrics and a more elaborate use of embroideries lend added dash and elegance to the new models.

Dresses of Poiret Twill—are smartly draped, as well, but also very many are not. We're showing some extremely clever tailored wool dresses—simple in line, distinguished for their smart use of flat silk braids. It will prove to your profit to see those which we're featuring Monday at $29.75 and $35.00

and When It's Evening

of course you'll want something a-glimmer with silver cloth, metallic trimmings or silver lace, trailing panels from a low placed girdle with side closing and a striking cabochon and long-headed tassel, and the very lovely evening frocks of chiffon velvet with ostrich trimmings in black or American beauty will make the decision exciting.

$29.75 to $75.00

NO costume is smarter than its outer wrap—a wealth of beautifully soft materials makes the coats for fall and winter wearing the final finish of credit. Coat fabrics are of softer pile and lovelier bloom—and the new browns have found favor along with the long-time favorites—black and navy—very wide sleeves, enveloping collars of luxurious fur.

Another bit of welcome news!— Prices are decidedly lower than they have been in many years.

Handsome Fur-Collared Coats

Very handsome coats of Panvelaine, Marvella, Geron and all the new soft fabrics—with luxurious collars of the most desirable furs—

$65 to $98.75

Smart Coats at Low Prices are made of Velour, Bolivia, Ormandale, Normandy—and they have collars of nutria, fox, wolf and squirrel—

Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. Berry To Be Honor Guests

Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, editor of The Pictorial Review, and chairman of the new service bureau of the General Federation of Women's Club, and Mrs. Rose V. S. Berry, chairman of the new arts department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be the guests of the Atlanta Woman's club on Monday, October 9, and will make of the program of the regular meeting of the Woman's club on Monday afternoon an event of immense importance to clubwomen. Mrs. Clarke will be the house guest of Mrs. Basil Manly Boykin, president of the Woman's club, and Mrs. Berry will be the house guest of Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood, chairman of the art department of the Woman's club.

Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke has for clubwomen of this section the additional attraction that she is a southern woman who has made for herself a place of large distinction among thoughtful people. Nashville, from which Mrs. Clarke originally hailed, has given to the world a number of important writers and educators, but no one whose rank in feminine activities surpasses Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke. The Pictorial Review has long since passed out of the class of merely fashion magazines and today is a synonym for progressiveness in all that relates to broadening American womanhood. Mrs. Clarke's editorials each month on the front page of The Pictorial Review are always the message of a big broad leader to upstanding women and a stimulus to the younger or repressed woman who is struggling toward a full existence.

It is a particular gratification to the Atlanta Woman's club that the club will have the opportunity to honor Mrs. Clarke in person, since it is owing to Mrs. Clarke's personal contact with Atlanta Woman's clubwomen at the biennial at Chattanooga that the October issue of The Pictorial Review carries the offer of a $1,000 prize to be given at the close of the present club year to the "Most Public-Spirited Woman's Club."

"What federated Woman's club in America will render the highest public service during the coming year?" asks Mrs. Clarke, and adds "we offer a $1,000, to find the answer to this question."

"The story of the model club's contribution to the welfare of its community will be told so that other clubs, seeing its good works, may go and do likewise."

"Down in Atlanta there is a club which is called a 'Woman's University' because in it women are taught everything, from Balzac to baking. Last year more than three hundred women were graduated from the dress-making department alone. And all of these wonderful things go on in a $250,000 club establishment said to be the handsomest of its kind in the world."

That is the way Mrs. Clarke writes to the nation about the Atlanta Woman's club, and the Atlanta Woman's club will assemble at luncheon at 12:30 o'clock and again at the regular Monday meeting in the club auditorium at 3 o'clock to give Mrs. Clarke the welcome of her life.

Mrs. Rose V. S. Berry is a valued acquaintance to practically every member of the club having been guest and speaker at the club last year. "Humanity speaks in three tongues," is the way Mrs. Berry puts the outline of her work. "Those tongues are its created arts—music, literature and art,"—and along those three lines Mrs. Berry is promoting club endeavors over the whole United States. Mrs. Berry and her divisional chairman advise the power of music in each community, maintain that art is a necessity in every-day life, and affirm that the literature of tomorrow must solve the world's problems, as well as present them. The general federation department answer to the question, "Why bother with poetry?" is that poetry is the highest expression of life, and is the foe of inertia, a factor in all progress, a practical power in working departments and has as its supreme mission "to develop an awareness of spiritual things."

Recognizing that women buy 90 per cent of all things purchased in this country, a part of the art schedule of the general federation looks toward teaching women to buy only those things which are useful, beautiful and enduring, and sends afield exhibits of pottery, prints, material on art in home and garden, and a collection of stereopticon slides illustrative of fine paintings, artistic gardens, civic art and war memorials. At the biennial clubwomen had it impressed upon them that there is a national music in America, that American artists are real artists and that American composers have composed worthwhile things, and the department looks toward a national campaign for American opera. A department slogan is "Hear America first," and American women composers are given first place in planning programs.

To all this splendid impetus to cultural activity Mrs. Rose V. S. Berry provides the motif, and exercises a charming supervision. While in Atlanta last year Mrs. Berry selected an Atlanta artist, Miss Kate Edwards, to paint a portrait of herself for the General Federation records.

Social News From Decatur.

Andrew College Social News.

The student body, faculty and officers of the college were the guests of Graham's Pharmacy on Friday afternoon. A delicious ice course was served. There were about one hundred present.

On Monday afternoon the college was entertained at a special show given by the Victoria theater.

Under the direction of Miss Julia Routt, gymnasium instructor, athletics are holding an important place in college activities. Besides the regular setting-up exercises in the gymnasium, there has been an athletic association organized. Miss Katherine Stringer was elected president of this organization. Swimming continues to be popular even though fall weather has begun. Tennis is also a favorite form of exercise and a favorite form of the courts are full of enthusiastic players.

The Y. W. C. A. was hostess at a get-acquainted party in the college parlors. Besides having to imitate movie stars, and singing songs, impromptu stunts were given by four different groups. Ice cream in a cone was served.

Saturday evening was the occasion of much gaiety, as many of the social clubs in school had their meeting then. The new members were initiated.

Andrew college will have as its guests on Wednesday afternoon, October 11, from 5 to 7 o'clock, in the college parlors, the people of Outburst, in honor of the faculty and officers of the school.

The senior class has already begun work on an annual which they expect to edit this year. The officers have been elected and are busy with their respective duties.

Miss Rose Emma Tyne was the guest of her parents during the week-end.

Miss Mary Sanders was in Coleman during the past week-end.

Peachtree Road Woman's Club Meets.

The North Peachtree Road Woman's club gave a neighborhood party on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Walter S. Dillon, for the benefit of the Tallulah Falls industrial school.

While the club has been in existence for ten or twelve years the occasion marks the first social gathering outside of its regular monthly business meetings.

A substantial sum was realized and it was the unanimous wish of the club that the contributions from the North Peachtree Road Woman's club go toward the Tallulah Falls industrial school.

Study Class Holds Meeting At Woman's Club

The initial fall meeting of the study class of the Atlanta Woman's club was held Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of the club, the chairman, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, presiding. Mrs. George Brower, secretary; Mrs. W. A. Robertson, Mrs. Lucien Harris and other officers of the committee were present.

Mrs. D. F. Stevenson outlined the course of study for the year which includes the works of our present-day poets, Archibald Lindsay, Amy Lowell, Edgar Arlington Robinson, Langston Hughes, Carl Sandburg, Margaret Widdemer, Robert Frost and others. The program will follow the lines of a complete presentation of the works of each writer, a study of the life of the writer and representative readings.

The speaker of the afternoon was Dr. James South, dean of English at Oglethorpe university, whose masterful address on the "Tendencies of Modern Verse," brought out many noteworthy points.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the club, made an interesting talk and urged all members to take part in everything the club has to offer, especially inviting the new members to come to the study class and other committees which are free and for the instruction of the members.

Mrs. Alanzo Richardson gave a beautiful paper on the life of Vashti Lindsay and his attitude toward citizenship, bringing out his great originality on many lines.

Mrs. Charles Dean gave intimate touches on Miss Amy Lowell and Mr. Lindsay as they are known in New York, having had the pleasure of meeting them on a recent visit to that city and also hearing various critics at Columbia university on the modern verse movement.

Several artistic musical selections were rendered by Miss Nora Allen of the Chicago Grand Opera company and Miss Charlotte Crumley. The singers were presented by Signor Volpi, who accompanied them. Mr. Harvey was present for a brief talk on the Ladies' Home Journal.

Miss Pickens Is Honored.

A delightful entertainment of Saturday afternoon was the miscellaneous shower given at the home of the Misses Griffith, in West End, in honor of Miss Emma Pickens, an attractive bride-elect of October.

The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the house decorations. In the dining room the table was adorned with a Madeira cloth and in the center was a silver basket holding yellow and white chrysanthemums tied with yellow and white tulle.

Miss Etta Bogaski and Mrs. Carl R. Cunningham furnished appropriate music for the afternoon. Several contests were enjoyed. Prizes were won by Miss Etta Bogaski, Miss Emma Pickens and Mrs. Sidney Magbee.

Those enjoying the afternoon were Miss Emma Pickens, Misses Myrna Pickens, Mrs. W. C. Griffith, Mrs. G. F. Lange, Mrs. O. H. Elie, Mrs. Carl R. Baptist Woman's M. U. Holds Thirteenth Annual Meeting

The thirteenth annual meeting of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Union of the Atlanta Baptist association was held at the Second Baptist church, October 3-4. Mrs. R. E. Harp, president, presided over the sessions. The address of welcome and Mrs. Powers' response.

The session on Tuesday afternoon was given almost exclusively to the young people's societies. Mrs. C. W. King, superintendent of the Y. W. A., introduced Addie Gregory, Miss Ida Rhodes, field worker, who spoke on "Stewardship," and L. D. Newton, editor of The Christian Index, who made an earnest appeal for "Christian Education."

The Sunbeams, under the supervision of Mrs. W. F. Wesley, gave an excellent program by groups of children from the various churches and from the orphan's home. The young people are being well organized and trained in church work.

At Wednesday's business meetings, reports were made including the secretaries of the six districts of the city as follows: Mrs. W. O. Mitchell, first; Mrs. E. Young, second; Mrs. H. H. Hale, third; Mrs. J. W. Smith, fourth; Mrs. L. O. Freeman, fifth; Mrs. Lawrence Turner, sixth. These reports mark a steady growth in activities of the union. The second district led with $54. Mrs. T. L. Lewis, superintendent, gave a summary of the work since her election as superintendent, which has increased from $11,000 to $13,975.82 during the nine years of her splendid leadership. Her regime has been characterized by harmony and Christian fellowship.

Mrs. Bolling Jones, college correspondent, introduced Mr. Smalley, vice president of Local Union institute. He gave an outline of the Baptist schools of the state as follows: Blairsville, Bruton Parker, Chattahoochee, Gibson, Mercer, Herne academy, Norman Park, Piedmont and Locust Grove. These schools are largely attended and many of the students are struggling under adverse conditions to prepare themselves to preach the gospel.

Dr. R. D. Grey, secretary of the home mission board, gave a masterful address on the work of the home board and urged Georgians to redeem their pledges. This board was organized in Augusta in 1845, was then moved to Marietta, Ala., and 37 years ago, when it was moved here. He spoke of the splendid work in the Mississippi delta. In all 56,000 converts have been added during the last year and 200,000 in the past few years.

Mrs. J. C. Lanier, vice president of the B. W. M. U. of Georgia, brought greetings from the state and the Baptists are so strong in Georgia their contributions should be representative. She named our particular asset as the Mary P. Bingham school for girls at Blue Ridge, Ga. Georgia also has given the circle plan to Southern Baptists.

Mrs. L. B. Smith spoke of the foreign mission program and our entrance into new fields co-operating with native agencies in Christianizing the masses. Among our new fields are Spain, Yugoslavia, Russia, Syria, Palestine.

Good Will Centers. The Good Will centers, Stewart avenue, reported by Mrs. E. D. Crawford, in the absence of Mrs. Duwson, Miss Ruby Hill and Miss White, by Andrew and Frances Stewart nursery, by Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. J. K. Little and Mrs. Commander, are doing work of a far-reaching nature.

Mrs. James L. Key spoke on the "Baptist Hospital," particularly the charity work, running to $1,000 a month during the past year. Mrs. Sam Jones' work for cripple children is the finest in the south.

The orphan's home band, delighted the audience.

Mrs. Frederick Paxon reported donations of over $10,000 for the business woman's league of the Second Baptist church.

The mission study report, by Miss McKenna, showed an increase in interest in the study of mission books. Mrs. E. L. Connally requested books for the hospital.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Lewis, the beloved superintendent, upon her resignation of this office, was presented by Mrs. John Spalding with a handsome silver platter, with serving knife and fork, as a love gift from the union which she has served for nine years most efficiently. We regret her retirement from this wonderful work.

Luncheon Served. In addition to the business of the union a delightful social hour was enjoyed on Wednesday, when luncheon was served. The officers and out-of-town guests were seated at a table which was beautifully decorated with dahlias, fall flowers and butterfly place cards were most artistic. The church also was beautifully decorated with field flowers, dahlias and cosmos. Six hundred were entertained.

The executive board was hostess of the occasion. Mrs. W. Alfred Forter, Mrs. Frederick Paxon and Mrs. Robert Harvey were seated with the honor guests at a table seating thirty-five.

Officers Elected. The following officers were elected: Superintendent, Mrs. W. A. Harman; first vice president, Mrs. H. H. Hale; second vice president, Mrs. John Spalding; recording secretary, Mrs. G. A. Arnold; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. D. Harwell; treasurer, Mrs. George Miles; auditor, Mrs. E. D. Crawford; Y. W. A. superintendent, Mrs. C. F. Tate; Sunbeam superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Buckner; personal service, Mrs. G. A. Garner; supervisor Stewart Avenue nursery, Mrs. M. Dawes; assistant, Mrs. A. E. Griffith; supervisor Andrew and Frances Stewart nursery, Mrs. James R. Little; mission study chairman, Mrs. P. F. Duggan; hospital, Mrs. Sam D. Jones; college correspondent, Mrs. Bolling Jones; press chairman, Mrs. Charles L. Dean; district secretaries: First, Mrs. W. O. Mitchell; second, Mrs. J. B. Young; third, Mrs. Lawrence Turner; fourth, Mrs. J. W. Smith; fifth, Mrs. L. O. Freeman; sixth, Mrs. T. A. Williams. Advisory board, Mrs. T. L. Lewis, chairman; Mrs. J. C. Greenfield, Mrs. J. A. Carroll, Miss Johanna Randall, Mrs. E. L. Connally, Mrs. W. P. Anderson. All officers were invited to the rostrum and Mrs. Lewis, with a few well-chosen words, turned over the gavel to Mrs. W. A. Harman.

The union was largely attended and one of the best in the history of the denomination.

Mrs. Womack Is Entertained.

An affair of unusual beauty and interest of the fall season was the combination shower and card party, at which Mrs. L. O. Zingarella and Mrs. W. M. Johnson were joint hostesses, at the latter's home in West End. The house was artistically decorated in field flowers and with a color scheme of pink and white effectively carried out in the refreshments. Tables were arranged for five hundred. Mrs. O. B. Gannaway won top score and was presented with a gold coin of compact powder. Mrs. J. A. Simpson won the "booby." Mrs. L. T. McKinley and Mrs. O. B. Gannaway were assisted in entertaining guests. Womack was lovely in a fall model of black canteen crepe, self trimmed. Mrs. L. O. Zingarella wore a gown of blue charmeuse with combination of henna. Mrs. W. M. Johnson was crowned in a black satin combined with Spanish lace.

The guests invited were Mrs. F. A. Lowe, Mrs. E. B. Pearson, Mrs. J. P. Womack, Mrs. Houston, Mrs. O. Hardin, Mrs. C. P. Griffith, Mrs. Aubrey Womack, Mrs. L. S. Magby, Mrs. A. B. Spears, Mrs. J. A. Simpson, Mrs. Sidney Stevens, Miss Annie Goolsby, Mrs. J. A. Womack, Mrs. O. B. Gannaway, Mrs. L. T. McKinley. The out-of-town guests were Miss Bessie Allen, of Columbus, Ga.; Misses Thelma and Nellie Mae McCormack, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. J. P. Lovett, Mrs. Mamie Daly and Mrs. V. G. Sangaree and Miss Mae McCormack, of Appalachicola, Fla.

Ad Club to Give Dinner-Dance.

The Advertising club of Atlanta will entertain at a dinner-dance at the Cascade Terrace, Tuesday evening, October 10. This will be the first dinner-dance of the season, given by the Advertising club, and it will be most enjoyable as an initial entertainment of the club.

The entertainment committee has arranged for clever stunts between dances and an excellent orchestra will furnish the music. There are still a few reservations to be had, and Ad club members are requested to send in their names to the Ad club, 363 Walton building, as soon as possible. Dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday night, October 10, and cars will take club members from the city hall to Cascade Terrace.

Charming Bride

Photograph by Warlick, of Macon.

Mrs. Julian Strother Lewis, whose marriage was a recent event, and took place in Macon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. T. C. Amos, in Vineville. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will make their home at the Keystone apartments on Ponce de Leon avenue, following a motor trip. Mrs. Lewis is a beautiful young woman and was prominent socially in Macon. Mr. Lewis is formerly from Montezuma and is a brother of J. Coley Lewis, of Atlanta.

Seminary Alumnae To Meet.

The Washington Seminary Alumnae association will hold its first meeting of the fall Friday, October 13, at 3:30 o'clock, in the parlors of the seminary, 1374 Peachtree street. The president of the association, Mrs. Hal Hentz, has planned a schedule of varied education activities for the following year. These will be discussed and decided upon at this meeting, therefore a large attendance is desired. All graduates and former students are most cordially invited.

The officers are Mrs. Hal Hentz, president; Miss Frances Powell, vice president; Miss Kathleen Colley, treasurer; Mrs. Norwood Griffin, secretary.

Social News From Brenau.

The artists series, which is promoted by the members of the Mu Phi Epsilon Musical sorority and Natural club, opened the season with a joint recital by Walter Chapman, pianist, and George Rogers, tenor. Both Mr. Chapman and Mr. Rogers are artists of the highest order, and gave one of the most delightful performances ever heard at the college.

The Cushman club, of the school of oratory, held its initial meeting on Monday evening in the library of the department. The election of officers and new members was the order of the meeting and the following girls were elected: Miss Margaret McCarroll, Little Rock, Ark., president; Miss Ethel Boyd Beck, DeKalb, Texas, vice president; Miss Mavis Scott, Frankfort, Ky., secretary; Miss Overton, of Westfield, N. Y., treasurer; Miss Mary Bailey, Cochran, Ga., business manager; Miss Floyd Childs, LaGrange, Ga., advertising manager. New members for the year who were elected: Margaret McCarroll, Louise Chenoweth, Mary Bailey, Lydia Rose, Marcelle Moffett, Emmett Garner, Ethel Boyd Beck, Fannie Welsh, Minerva Scott, Nell Smith, Marie Fry.

Horseback riding is becoming one of the most popular sports of the college.

The department of physical education, under the direction of Miss Lynne B. Mansfield and Miss Ethel Bowers has grown in popularity and many have registered for the special course leading to the certificate in this department.

On Saturday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock Mrs. H. J. Pearce, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Pearce entertained at the home of the former the members of the faculty.

The seniors of the school of oratory were guests at a lovely tea which was given on Tuesday afternoon by Miss Florence M. Overton, dean of the school. The following young ladies who compose the senior class were present: Misses Louise Chenoweth, Floyd Childs, Mary Bailey, Gene Wise, Polly Powell, Margaret McCarroll, Lydia Rose, Kate Quin, Marcelle Moffett, Ethel Boyd Beck, Anita Tapie, Elizabeth Parker, Nell Smith.

The Y. W. C. A. vesper services on Sunday evening were unusually interesting. The musical program with Misses Winifred Bird and Sara Gray as soloists was delightful. The speaker of the occasion was Professor H. J. Pearce.

Mrs. Ella P. Leonard had as her guest on Sunday her son, J. P. Leonard, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Brand, of Lawrenceville, Ga., is visiting her daughter, Miss Mamie Brand.

Mrs. O. L. Cobb, of Williamston, S. C., and a member of the class of '20, was a recent visitor to the college.

Mrs. M. E. Reece, of Rome, Ga., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Dewey, of Emory university, and Hunter Bell, of Atlanta, were guests of John H. Pearce on Sunday.

The ancient Greeks and Romans used bathing rings as pledges, but not wedding rings.

Before You Buy A Cut-Price Shoe

Think of More Than the Price!

Ask yourself how the bargain shoe will wear---will it pull out from the sole---lose its shape and stretch---is it skimpy in cutting, so that it's misshaped, or a factory rejection, which is not first grade---will it give you the service you should have from a good shoe? Thousands of people have found the satisfactory answer in

Southeastern Fair Offers Famous Art Exhibition

All paintings, batiks, wood blocks and other art treasures that are to make up the most extensive as well as the most famous exhibition of art in the history of the Southeastern fair, have arrived in the city and Mrs. E. W. Moore, the art director, and her associates are busily engaged in preparing the treasures for hanging.

In addition to several scores of canvases which have been shipped to Atlanta from the art centers of the east and far west, there will be a representative display of local work. All Atlanta artists are required to have their paintings at the fine arts building of the fair not later than Monday evening, since at that time all paintings will be turned over to the jury and no further entries will be received.

The 1922 exhibition will not only reveal to local art lovers some of the best work now being done by members and associates of the national academy, but it will introduce many new artists whose work is of such high excellence that it vies with the better known work of the old, established artists. In fact, the catalog of exhibitors at Lakewood this fall reads very much like that of an exhibit in New York, Philadelphia or Pittsburg.

Many Atlantans are already familiar with the wonderful work being done by Gardner Symons, Jonas Lie, George Bellows, Hugh Breckenridge, Victor Higgins, Irving Crouse, Paul Dougherty, Helen M. Turner and other of the notables who are among the exhibitors this year.

They are not so familiar, however, with Leonard Ochtman, Hayler Lewis, Valentino Molina, Gregory Smith, H. R. Poore, R. A. Temple, Eric Hudson, Van Deering Perrine and some of the other newcomers who are to be seen this week on the walls of the fine arts building.

This will give the event particular interest and is sure to draw a very large body of art lovers to Lakewood during the progress of the fair. It is also recognized as one of the main educational attractions for the thousands of school children who will storm the gates on children's day.

One of the most significant entries this year is Hugh Breckenridge. This artist, who has long been among the leaders of American art, will be represented by four canvases: "Nude With Still Life," "The Mills," "Egg Plants" and "The Curio Window." The still life of this master has awakened the intense enthusiasm of discerning critics, and some of the examples of his brush which have been sent to Atlanta this year will show him at his best in this department.

Not only will he be represented by these four canvases, but there will be 40 examples of student work from his colony at Gloucester, where he maintains a large school during the summer months. These student sketches will be of the utmost value to local students in gauging the caliber of work being done in the big eastern centers and will attract the attention of local connoisseurs for the same reason.

Mrs. Moore will lay particular stress this year upon the sale of paintings which are on exhibition. The great majority of all works which have been submitted can be purchased at a most reasonable price, and it is hoped that the present fair will set a new record for the number of works sold.

"I earnestly hope that every citizen of Atlanta who is interested in securing works of art for his home will come to the exhibition with an eye to making purchases," states Mrs. Moore. "The sale of works is almost essential to our future success in getting the great American artists to send their paintings to Atlanta each fall. If we can sell several canvases, it will create a great deal of interest in the leading art circles and will cause artists to be much more willing to have their work come south."

There are a number of people in this city who go to New York to purchase paintings, and they pay anywhere from one to five thousand dollars to New York galleries for them. It is hoped these people will realize that the works we have at the fair are the very same kind of paintings they find in the east. In fact, a large number of paintings which we have secured this year came directly from the walls of the Mith galleries, one of the foremost dealers in New York.

"Any member of the art committee is qualified to give expert assistance to those who may not be sure of their own judgment in art matters. We will do this gladly and quite impersonally. Furthermore, there is no commission to be made on the sale of paintings. Every cent of money that is paid at the fair is sent to the artist, for the prices which will be quoted in the catalog are those quoted to me by the artists themselves."

Assisting Mrs. Moore with the exhibit is the following committee: Mrs. Marvin Underwood, Miss Virginia Woolley, Mrs. J. O. Wynn, Mrs. J. B. Roberts, Mrs. H. D. Oliver, Mrs. Maybelle Young, Miss Virginia Bowman, Mrs. Clarence Blosser, and others.

A beautiful wedding of Sunday evening, October 1, of interest to a host of friends was that of Miss Mable Farris and Frank E. McGee, which was solemnized at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Farris, of West End, Rev. R. Z. Tyler officiating.

The improvised altar composed of tall, graceful ferns and lovely fall flowers of pale yellow and white stood in the living room. In the center of the background stood candelabras with burning tapers. Throughout the house were large vases and French baskets with a profusion of pink and white roses.

The ribbon-bearers, little Misses Jewel Aiken and Mary Gordon, wore dresses of white net over pale pink with head bands of tiny pink rosebuds. Little Evelyn Aiken was flower girl and wore a dainty frock of pale green with head band of pink rosebuds, and carried a French basket of rose petals.

The ringbearer was little Myrtle Osburn. Her dainty frock was of white net over pink and was trimmed in pink rosebuds. The ring was carried in the heart of a large pink rose.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marge Farris, sister of the bride, wore an afternoon model of old rose and a picture hat. She carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Miss Katherine McGee, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She was beautifully gowned in peach-colored crepe, and carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Fred C. Williams was groomsmen. Dewey Bingham acted as best man. The bride was radiant in white georgette crepe and hat trimmed with soft white flowers and knotted ribbons. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Farris entertained at an informal reception. Mrs. Farris was gowned in a fall model of dark brown, embroidered with beads. She wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee will make their home in Atlanta.

Woman's Club at Ellenwood Meets. The Ellenwood Woman's club held an interesting meeting recently at which the men were present.

Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, state chairman of citizenship, delivered a very instructive speech.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, gave an interesting talk, and Mr. Blackburn, secretary of the public welfare board, spoke on his line of business.

Soloe by Miss Ruby Lee and Mrs. H. C. Callaway during intervals between the speeches were enjoyed immensely.

Dhan Mukerji To Lecture for Drama League

On Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Dhan Mukerji will lecture to the Drama League on "The New Spirit in Indian Life and Drama." This lecture will open a new and brilliant season for one of Atlanta's most valuable cultural clubs.

Mr. Mukerji is just back from India, where he traveled some 2,000 miles and where found many changes during a ten years' absence. Even the women of India have a degree of suffrage now. He is full of enthusiasm as to all the changes found. "India," he says, "is not only the most beautiful country in the world but the most deeply mystic as well." Educated in India, Japan and America at Leland Stanford, Mr. Mukerji combines rare scholarship with a rarely cosmopolitan point of view. He is probably the most eloquent speaker ever brought to Atlanta, and the fall will be full of overflowing with those eager to hear him on this, his third or fourth trip to the city. Rarely has a poet with such power of word painting, such vision, such ability to energize with enthusiasm for intellectual things been heard in America.

Non-members of the Drama League as well as members will be welcomed to the lecture. Admission to all alike will be $1.

Recital to Be Given Friday Evening.

The Atlanta School of Oratory and Expression will give its October recital Friday night, October 13, at 8 o'clock, in the expression studio, Baptist tabernacle.

The program will consist of song, oratory and expression. The song department will be represented by Miss Annie Glenn. Also parts of the Vespertine studio will bring a treat in song.

The dramatic department will be represented by Sam Russell, and Miss Claire Latham in the monologues, "Hullo" and "Speak Up, He!"

Rev. J. T. Widener will suggest something of the Bible work in the vocal interpretation of the twenty-third Psalm.

The interest will be heightened by a variety of humorous selections from the intermediate and children's department. Miss Estell Minsk will give "The Village Sewing Circle." Wylie Harris, "Farmer John." Master Bruce Morgan, "Be What You Is." Miss Georgine Coppage, "Ain't It Fine Today." Miss Ringer Horneby, "Woman." Little Miss Florence Farkas, "Maid Marion."

Miss Manola Cheek will close the program with Edward Lear's "The Duck and the Kangaroo."

Praetorians Will Give Dance.

The Praetorians will give a dance on Friday evening, October 13, at 8:30 o'clock in their hall, No. 6 James street, admission 50 cents, ladies free.

Mrs. McClatchey Gives Party.

Mrs. D. F. McClatchey entertained at a matinee party Friday at the Howard in honor of her sister, Mrs. John Lunsford, a recent bride.

Those invited were Mrs. Albert Collier, Mrs. Powell Lawton, Mrs. John Mayers, Mrs. Byron Brooke, Mrs. George Wilson, Mrs. Tom McLain, Misses Adelaide and Elizabeth Setze, Bell McClatchey.

The Music Club Chorus to Meet.

The chorus of ladies' voices of the Atlanta Music club will hold its regular meeting Tuesday, October 10, at Phillips and Crew hall.

Chorus work begins promptly at 8 o'clock and all members are urged to be present a few minutes before the hour.

Card Party At Ansley Hotel.

The young ladies of the I. C. club will give a card party at the Ansley hotel Saturday, October 21, from 3 to 5 p. m. Players are requested to bring their own cards. Beautiful prizes have been obtained for the winners. Tickets 50 cents each, or $2 a table.

Findley-Clayton Wedding at Norcross, Ga.

Norcross, Ga., October 7.—A wedding of marked beauty and simplicity centering the interest of a wide circle of friends was that of Miss Nora Findley and Rev. Charles B. Clayton, of Henry, Tenn., which was solemnized at the Methodist church on the evening of September 30 at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. Nath Thompson officiated.

The church was beautiful with its decorations of green and white. The background was of white draped with trailing ivy. The altar being banked with ferns and baskets of cut flowers in the pastel shades, with handles tied with white fluffy tulle bows. Against this background of rich foliage were tall pedestals, each topped with silver candelabra with seven white burning tapers.

Miss Elsie Wall, gowned in a lovely peach-colored tulle with a corsage of sweetheart roses, presided at the piano, accompanied by Carl Wooten on the violin, playing first "Traumerei," by Schumann, and "Raccolle" from "Tales of Hoffmann."

The first to enter were the ushers, Charles B. Findley of Atlanta, a brother of the bride, and J. C. Findley, of Atlanta, a cousin of the bride. Next came the groomsmen and bridesmaids entering in couples down the two aisles. Knox Findley, of Atlanta, and Miss Mary McDaniel, of Decatur, in a beautiful model of orchid tulle; next came Wade Findley, of Duluth, brother of the bride; and Miss Esther Medlock, wearing a lovely model of peach-bloom tulle. Then came Lee Ben Findley, of Duluth, and Miss Ruby Findley, a sister of the bride, lovely in an apple-green tulle. The bridesmaids' dresses were all fashioned alike, along the straight lines, trimmed with hand-made flowers. They wore silver wreaths in their hair and carried baskets of white dahlias tied with pink tulle.

Following were the matrons of honor: Mrs. Rowena C. Ward, of Arlington, Ga., wearing a lovely creation of rose crepe romaine with pearl trimmings. She carried a bouquet of cream dahlias tied with tulle; and Mrs. John B. Findley, sister-in-law of the bride, wearing a beautiful orchid crepe georgette over silver cloth, with silver trimmings. She carried a bouquet of pink dahlias tied with tulle. Little Miss Margaret Nesbit, dainty in a pink organdie rose petal dress, with trimmings of blue ribbon and rose buds, carried the ring in the heart of a large white dahlia, tied with tulle and showered with swainssona. Over her dark hair was a band of pink tulle tied in a butterfly bow.

The maid of honor, Miss Nebraska Findley, of Titon, another sister of the bride, was winsome in a lovely green crepe satin and cream lace, with silver trimmings. She carried a bouquet of dahlias tied with tulle. Preceding the bride came little Miss Hazel Findley, pretty little niece of the bride, a lovely picture as flower girl, dressed as a miniature bride, wearing all white with the tiny veil held in place with a silver wreath. She scattered rose petals from a white basket tied with pink tulle.

The lovely bride entered with her eldest brother, John B. Findley, of Norcross, who gave her in marriage. Her bridal dress was a heavy pearl white duchess satin, made with panel front and back, with side panels of over draperies of real lace held in bouffant style, with hand-made roses. The misty short, white tulle veil was fastened to her soft hair with a corsage of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of bride roses showered with swainssona. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Joyce, of Emory university. The bride's going-away suite was Wesleyan College Social News.

Wesleyan opened with an enrollment of 418 girls in the school of liberal arts and an additional 100 in the conservatory. This is the largest number of students ever enrolled during a single year. About 328 of these 418 girls live in the dormitories. Not only are there eleven states represented ed, but also three foreign countries—Cuba, Mexico and China.

Plans for the building of a greater Wesleyan were inaugurated when the trustees decided to purchase a tract of 100 acres in or near Macon. The college will be enlarged so that it will accommodate 1,000 students. Several beautiful sites have been offered, such as North Highlands, Ingleside and Rivoli.

Wesleyan welcomes to her faculty this year the following: Mrs. J. P. Nichols, Ph. D., professor of history; Miss Charlotte Moore, Ph. D., professor of literature; Miss Agnes Hamilton, associate professor of English; Mrs. L. P. Smith, Jr., assistant in history and English; Rev. H. T. Freeman, professor of Bible; Miss Mary Lane, assistant in history; Miss Jeffie Bennett, assistant in Spanish; Miss Helen Kline, assistant in home economics; Miss Mary Fagan, assistant in expression.

The Writers' club of Wesleyan college reorganized Tuesday with the following as officers: Leslie Quilan, president; Marjorie Baker, vice president; Fannie Belle Outler, secretary; Rebecca Oliphant, treasurer. It has long been the custom for the girls who are leaving the Writers' club to select others to take their places, and the following have been chosen as new members: Mildred Shelton, Marion Paige Munro, Frances Holder, Mildred Boulton, Dorothy Hightower, Mary Crane, Grace Woodward, Onida Johnson, Catherine Craig, Allene Corry, Margaret Richards.

This week is a "trying" time at Wesleyan, but this "trying" all has its rewards. Glee club trouts are being held, and a large number of the girls are contesting. Professor Walter Kirkland Greene, who will receive the Ph. D. degree at Harvard in January, will again have charge of the department of English literature. Rev. George Roser is expected at the end of this semester from Chicago, where he will receive the Th. D. degree. Professor J. W. W. Daniel, head of the department of history and economics, has been given a year's leave of absence and is completing study for the Ph. D. degree at Columbia university. The seniors in expression cleverly presented a farce by Booth Tarkington Wednesday evening followed by a scene from the "Old Home Town" and a short play, "The Evolution of Proposals," given by the juniors. This year the literary work has been planned on a six-day schedule, a method which has been adopted by many prominent colleges. The "new girls" have been given quite a hale and hearty welcome by the "old girls." The Athletic association was the first hostess, entertaining with a water carnival in honor of "Miss Wesleyan." Miss Mary Bennett, of Hixson, received this title for giving the most original and interesting of a familiar scene on the campus.

The second week of school was marked by the freshmen in a gala week known in college circles as "Sophomore week." On Friday night those offenders against the rules imposed by the sophomores were jailed before a bandits' court. Compensation was made by the sophomores, however, in the aspect of a "Pirates Party" in the gym Saturday night. Appropriate decorations and refreshments carried out the main motif of the evening.

Miss Garner, teacher of journalism, returned from Nashville, Tenn., having just recovered from an operation for appendicitis.

Visitors at the college since the opening were Rev. L. J. Ballard, Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dykes, Montezuma; Mrs. W. W. Beaugerine, Warrenton, Judge D. J. Crum, Cordele; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Banks; Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Letson, Miss Martha King, Grantville; Mrs. J. E. Terry, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Benton, Fitzgerald; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stevens, Sparta; Miss Grace Parker, and Miss Patricia Russell, of Cochran; Miss Esther Pierce, Elberton; Miss Louise Ann, Athens.

Mrs. W. A. Hansell was hostess Friday at a luncheon at the Duffield. Those present were Mesdames Z. V. Putman, J. A. Robinson, E. P. Cox, J. M. Davis, Paul West, L. V. Kennedy, J. L. Hudson, Frank Stokes, W. Davis, Stewart D. Jones, A. H. Rivers and A. G. Weyburn.

Rules for Artist Contest Announced.

The season which will again witness the state, district and national contests for young American trained musicians, in voice (male and female), violin and piano, has begun. For the benefit of those who may not otherwise see one of the contest circulars, Mrs. Charles A. McDonald, national chairman of the contest department, submits the following rules:

"Rules Governing Time of Contests: State contests shall be held in each state between February 15 and March 30, 1923.

"A report from the state chairman of contests must be in the hands of the district president and national chairman of contests on or before April 15, 1923.

"District contests shall be held in the fourteen districts between April 15, 1923, and May 5, 1923.

"Entrance requirements: Contestants must be trained in America.

"Contestants must be native born or naturalized American parents. If studying in another state but being even partly supported by parents or friends in the home state, they are eligible to enter only in the state from which they receive their maintenance. "Note—Anyone supporting himself entirely in another state, may enter from that state without any specified period of residence."

"Entrance fee shall be two dollars; payable to the national chairman of contests, through the state chairman of contests.

"Contestants in the voice department must be between the ages of 20 and 30 years; contestants in the violin and piano department must be between the ages of 16 and 30 years.

"Contestants must fill out and sign the official application blank and the questionnaire and send with the entrance fee to the state chairman of contests.

"Rules for Contestants: Contestants must perform entirely without words or music. "State and district winners may enter the state contests again and proceed through to the national.

"All contestants must obligate themselves to enter the district contests should they become state winners. District winners must obligate themselves to enter the national contest.

"A national winner must promise to put himself first under the management of the National Federation of Music Clubs, if desired.

"Any young artist, having placed himself or herself under professional management, is not eligible to enter the competitions of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

"Communicate with the contest chairman of the state in which you live for all further particulars, circulars, application blanks."

Rich's Golden Harvest Sale

Begins Its Second Week With an Outpouring of Values That Will Stir the City

—“WHAT is the reason for this busy Harvest Sale you are having?” we are sometimes asked. People do not understand why we are offering brand-new Fall and Winter merchandise at prices generally paralleling today's costs. The explanation is simply this: The daily watchword of Rich's is “SER-VICE TO THE PUBLIC,” and to express that service in a tangible, helpful way we have won the co-operation of leading manufacturers and importers, who have generally contributed much of their finest merchandise at cost—for you. Get your share of some of the good things before it is too late.

It Will Soon Be Too Late to Buy Silk Stockings, $1.85

—The Sale started with 26,000 pairs of new silk stockings. Regularly $3 to $4.50 stockings to sell at $1.85—a price LESS THAN TODAY'S ACTUAL WHOLESALE COST.

—Each day has made an amazing record in hosiery selling—but the stocks are still good and you can undoubtedly secure the kind, style and color you want. But don't hesitate—be here at 9 tomorrow with your mind made up to buy many pairs—for when you see them there will be no other course left open.

Silk Sports Stockings, $1.85

Usually $4.50

—Oh, I say, have you seen the pure silk sports stockings for $1.85? The colors will harmonize with all street and sports wear. Beautiful two-toned effects in the most wanted shades. Of exceptionally heavy quality—all silk from top to toe. All sizes. Every pair perfect.

AN EXCEPTIONAL HARVEST SALE OF

New Afternoon, Street and Distinctive Evening Dresses

$49.95

Bought from One of New York's foremost style Couturiers Who Made Them to Sell at $65 to $100

On Sale Monday at 9 A. M.

WITHOUT a doubt this is one of the most notable offerings ever featured in our October Sale's special ready-to-wear sellings. These are Harvest Sale tributes, the choicest models of a foremost New York style creator. We procured them in an advantageous purchase and put $65 to $100 dresses on sale Monday at $49.95. All are new. All are fashionable. All are dresses that the fastidious, discriminating woman will buy.

—Selected styles for street and afternoon wear. Genius betrays itself in the drooping panels, the classic folds, the swirls and whorls of the supple, pliable material and the original and novel sleeves.

—The materials deserve a chapter all their own. Fashion's insistent demands for soft and clinging draperies are fulfilled with the finest grade of crepe Romaine, satin, Canton crepe and velvet.

—Trimings are as interesting as materials, which is decidedly flattering to both—steel beads, tucks, silk braid and the like.

—Color contributed to the success of these frocks, being navy, black, zanzibar, malay, henna, tan, etc. Sizes 16 to 46.

—Formal evening dresses are of chiffon velvet, silk net—beaded all over—chiffon, beaded Georgette. Black and pastel shades.

Stone Mountain Memorial

From the gifted pen of Mrs. Leo Stillman, of R. L. Lee chapter, College Park, comes a most interesting communication, in which she gives us a very clear idea of Stone Mountain memorial and what it stands for.

A trip to Stone Mountain is one of the many interesting things being planned for the state convention by the Agnes Lee, the hostess chapter.

TO GUTZON BORGLUM, SCULPTOR OF THE STONE MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL.

BY A DAUGHTER OF THE CONFEDERACY.

Our dreams at last shall be fulfilled; This great Memorial soon you'll build.

Now let us light and guidance ask On this superb and wondrous task; Humbly we pause in earnest prayer, Of human weakness well aware.

God is our Light, He is our source, From whom we gather strength and force.

O Gutzon Borglum, may there shine On your great labor, light divine; Shapes hidden in the stone shall be, By your magician's hand set free.

Well watch your work with rapt surprise, As forms of beauty greet our eyes.

First, Robert Lee, our very own, Splendidly shapes the stubborn stone;

N. C. Stonewall Jackson, high in fame; You'll add fresh laurels to his name.

Think of the grief of our bright land When Jackson's sword fell from his hand!

The privates show in war array, Filling the ranks of honored gray;

On glory's field they bravely fell; The Southland loves their memory well.

Work grandly, that the world may see How true were all who followed Lee.

Our Conquered Flag, our loved, our own, Nobly you'll shape of Georgia stone;

Carve well, we show our trust in you; 'Tis sacred work for a cause most true.

As steadfast as yon granite wall, Our men obeyed their country's call;

The world looks on with joy and pride, To see our heroes glorified.

Stone Mountain that we love so well, Our story to all time shall tell.

MARGARET PRICE STILLMAN, R. L. Lee chapter, U. D. C., College Park, Ga.

Chapter Reports

Cordele.

On Thursday afternoon, September 20, the Cordele chapter U. D. C. was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. W. F. Markert on Fourteenth avenue. Mrs. Markert, Mrs. S. M. Hunt, Mrs. Fannie Hyle and Mrs. J. C. Henderson being joint hostesses.

The occasion was doubly interesting and enjoyable, being the first course, assisted by Mrs. P. H. Willis, Mrs. Edgar Fletcher, Mrs. Willis Shipps and little Miss Eloise Shipps, the attractive granddaughter of Mrs. Markert.

DRESSES that are COSTUMES

DISTINGUISHING THE WARDROBE
JUST WHEN THE NEED FOR SUITABLE FROCKS BECOMES VERY REAL at a very modest cost--

THE new lengths—the new silhouette—the new colors have been censored and accepted. Paris has sent the word—America has executed. These have proved enchanting subjects.

But every dress is not draped—and every dress is not unbekomingly long. Fortunately, we still have personality to guide us—and each Allen costume is distinguished by its mark of individuality—which is the persistent note—and modern price accentuates the value.

We present on this page pen sketches of seven lovely semi-afternoon frocks—in black, navy and the very many glorious browns now in the forefront—seven extremely smart costumes, offering new style themes and decorative high lights. As well as the soft luxurious crepes and satins fashion sponsors beautiful new wool fabrics to achieve her subtle drapes and capricious sleeves.

A very simple and very charming tailored twill frock artfully decorated with steel beads, buckle and bead fringe, with facings of platinum duvetyne.

Smart costume of navy Poirer Twill very artfully decorated with narrow silk braid. The finish at the low waistline is of jet and cut steel—

$59.50

A very handsome costume of satin crepe, exquisitely draped, finished with cord girdle and fringe and cut steel buckles. Facings of white crepe.

$65

Navy Poirer Twill—Richly embroidered in silk in many colors—silk cord girdle and tassels—clever fastening with bone buttons.

The Three Costumes in the Top Group:

—At the left is a very beautiful afternoon costume of softest black quadrille, with a crimson beaded swirl finishing the low girdle at back and front. The interesting sleeves are confined at wrist with narrow bands of the material.

$59.50

$59.50

—The central figure is costumed in brown silk velvet with facings of orange satin. Silver ribbon and a fold of the velvet intertwine to form the low girdle—this is lovely simplicity—

Social Items Of Interest.

Miss Ada Alexander is spending this week in New York at the Hotel Webster. She has spent the summer in New London, Conn., with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alsop, and expects to return to Atlanta the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rembert Marshall, of Nashville, will arrive shortly to reside in Atlanta, and will make their home with Mrs. Marshall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sanders McDaniel. Mrs. Marshall, as Miss Harriet McDaniel, was one of Atlanta's loveliest young women, and her return will be cordially welcomed.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Donnelly and Miss Louise Dooly will motor to Atlanta today from Asheville, N. C., where they have spent two weeks at Grove Park Inn.

The friends of William H. Kiser will be interested to learn that he is improving from a minor operation.

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Fowler leave today for New York. Dr. Fowler will go to Saranac Lake and Rochester, Minn., before returning to Atlanta. They will meet their relatives, Mrs. Lutchner and Mrs. Achenbach, who are to return on Tuesday from a four months' trip to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. English are now in Naples. They spent a week in Rome, and in letters from Mrs. English to her Atlanta friends, she writes that the weather was wonderful and the trip most interesting.

Notable Events At White Sulphur.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., October 7.—The autumn colony at the Greenbrier, after the excitement of the woman's national golf championship here last week, has settled down to its usual program of horse back riding, tennis and normal golf, and the October contingent, which promises to be a large one, is increasing every day. An aftermath of dinner parties and other entertainments in honor of Miss Gienna Collette, now national woman's title holder, followed last week's event and the participants departed, some for their homes, and a number of Hot Springs, where the annual fall tennis tournament has been held this week. The next sports event will be the three days' golf tournament of the New York Bankers' association here October 20, for which nearly a hundred bankers are expected.

The dinner given by the Greenbrier Golf club for the golfers, the various golf committees and officers of the United States Golf association in the Tudor room of the Greenbrier before they finally dispersed, was a pleasant windup to tournament week. The forty-six guests were seated at tables which formed a hollow square around a central enclosure of ferns and flowers, and included Miss Gienna Collette, of Providence, winner of the championship; Miss Edith Cummings, Miss Alexa Stirling, Mrs. William A. Gavin, Miss Marion Hollins, Miss Cecil Leitch, Miss Edith Leitch, Miss Katherine Harvey, Miss Eleanor Golden, Miss Rosemund Sherwood, Mrs. Quentin Feitner, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hard, Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Mrs. Fred C. Letts, Jr., Mrs. Cath. Fox, Mrs. J. Dizier Lowndes, Frederick Byers, president of the United States Golf association; Howard Whitney, a former president; W. D. Vanderpool, J. D. Standish and James Francis Burke, of the United States Golf association; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford Shinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Miss Dargan, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Paine, Miss Douglas Gay Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Elmore D. Hotchkiss, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Garrett B. Wall, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lewis, Mrs. Edward W. McKenna, Dr. John Freeland, Edward L. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Tait.

Thomas B. Paine, of Atlanta, an official of the United States Golf association, who spent the summer here with his family, has left with Mrs. Paine and Miss Douglas Gay Paine to spend a few weeks in New York.

Miss McCrea To Wed Mr. Holt.

An engagement of interest to hosts of friends throughout the state, is that of Miss Martha McCrea and Ploy Lewis Holt.

Miss McCrea is the beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hilliard McCrea, and one of the most charming and popular young girls in society. She attended Washington seminary and later finished her education in the east. She is a belle of the college set and was recently named regimental sponsor for the R. O. T. C.

Girl Reserves Plan Work Worthy of Adults Are Leaders in Activities

At a recent Y. W. C. A. high school girl reserve conference held at the association headquarters, Peachtree Arcade, the reserve cabinet which is composed of the officers of the three clubs, worked out a plan of organization that is worthy of mature women.

Women who are interested in club organization, the duties of officers as well as the duties of committee women, may well afford to give some time to studying the findings of the conference that will be submitted to the three high school reserve clubs for their approval.

The woman who joins so many organizations that she is of no value to any of them; the woman who does all the work herself and does not utilize the ability of her co-workers; the members who do not go to the meetings only once-in-a-while, all may well afford to read the following findings, especially the reserve work of service to their community and the duties of a president.

The president of a reserve club should not do the work of any committee chairman, but she shall know the work of every committee and be able to help with it. In order to do this the president must study the duties of each committee. She shall find the duties listed in the girl reserve handbook. Every president should have one.

"The president is supposed to know her duties well enough to instruct her fellow officers. She shall preside at all meetings of the club.

"Her first thought shall be for the success of the club. She should certainly strive to make the girls like her, but it should not be her main object. If they respect her for her loyalty to the club, they will also admire her, and be loyal to her. The president should conduct herself as a true girl reserve and show by her manner that she expects others to do the same.

"The president's first thought should be for her school duties, and then she should hold as many offices as she conscientiously knows she can take care of, as this will broaden her outlook on life and make her fit to assume the responsibility of an office in the club."

Further discussion by the reserves led to the conclusion that the office of president of the club is such a big one that it is almost impossible to hold another office and fill both.

If she is holding office as president and refuses other offices she is not lacking in school spirit, but in learning to choose wisely, knowing she can fill only one office well.

The president helps the club by serving it faithfully, and since the club stands for the promotion of school spirit, she is indirectly helping the school. In the future she will probably not have a club office, but may receive a school office and if she does she will be better able to serve her school office.

Every club must have a budget. (The reserve council outlined a reserve club budget and gave a perfect outline for a treasurer's report.)

The work of committees was outlined: membership, publicity, social and markedly the service committee. The policy of the service committee was that the high school reserves should gain a better understanding of the conditions in this city of those who need help and should give them aid whenever possible. That they should visit and study the work of Atlanta's social service organizations. There are three reserve clubs in the high schools: Girls' high, Commercial high and Fulton high. The officers of the three clubs form the council. Miss Mayna Bruce, Y. W. C. A. girl work secretary, is director of the high school reserve work and Miss Eugenia Johnston, associate secretary, directs the grade school reserve work.

The girls as officers who were present at the girl reserve setting-up conference were: Girls' high, Edna Volberg, president; Mildred Kelly, Louise Bandler, Betty Jones, Irene Nichols, Frances McKoy, Elsie Davis and Evelyn Titus, Commercial high; Mary Frances Turner, president; Elizabeth Volberg, Louise Caythorn, Mildred Wells, Doris N. Jones, Marjorie Baker and Dorothy Halm, Fulton high; Signe Matson, president; Ruth Satterwhite, Clyde Edmundson, Emma Bernhardt, Ximena Liddell, Belle Smith and Georgia Linkous.

Clubwomen Fine and Applied Arts Exhibit at Woman's Club

The recent election of Mrs. T. T. Stevens to president of the City Federation brings into prominence the remarkable fact that the Atlanta Woman's club numbers among its active members nearly every president or chairman or leader of large activities among Atlanta women.

Mrs. T. T. Stevens is the valued chairman of the department of applied education, and her department, under her leadership has to its credit large accomplishments in aid to individual students, and larger, indeed the largest in Georgia, to Tallulah Falls Industrial school, of which Mrs. Stevens is treasurer.

Members of the Woman's club who are leaders in other activities are Mrs. E. M. Boykin, president of the club and chairman of the better films committee of Atlanta; Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, second vice president of the Woman's club and national chairman of the division of citizenship training of the general federation; Mrs. W. F. Melton, recording secretary for the executive board and president of Emory Women's club; Mrs. Howard McCall, auditor of the Woman's club and national vice president general of the D. A. R.; Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, past president of the Woman's club and president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. Frank McCormick, chairman of division of moving pictures and president of the Atlanta Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Samuel Inman, director for Georgia of the general federation; Mrs. John Toler, vice president of the National Overseas Girls; Mrs. Albert Thompson, national vice president of the Bankhead highway commission and national chairman of good roads for the general federation; Mrs. J. H. Willet, director for life of Tallulah Falls industrial school and prime promoter of that fine testimonial to the accomplishments of organized women; Miss Nan Stephens, honorary president of the Southeastern Federation of Music clubs; Mrs. Harry Chamberlain, president of State League of Women voters; Mrs. Albert Akers, president of the fifth district federation; Miss Jessie Muse, principal of Girls' high school; Mrs. Annie T. Wise, principal of business high school; Mrs. Christian Clarke, regent of Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Charles A. Davis, regent of Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. Charles T. Phillips, president Atlanta chapter, U. D. C.; Mrs. Emma Garrett Boyd, president of the Drama league; Miss Eleanor Roud, honorary president, and Mrs. J. H. Gibbs, acting president of the Atlanta League of Women voters; Mrs. DeLois Hill, president of the Atlanta Music club; Mrs. Evelyn Jackson, president of the Juvenile Music Study club; Mrs. William E. Mansfield, chairman of the auxiliary committee of the Red Cross; Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie, president of the Atlanta Writers' club; Mrs. F. M. Robinson, president of the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. J. Paxson, president of the Business Woman's league; Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Ogletree woman's board; Mrs. Frank M. Farley, president of the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Mrs. W. S. Coleman, vice president of the general U. D. C. for Georgia; Mrs. R. M. Striplin, chairman of the department of American citizenship of the Woman's club, and head of Young People's work of the North Georgia conference of the Methodist church; Mrs. Shepard W. Foster, vice regent of the national D. A. R.

That the Atlanta Woman's club is a medium for the exchange of ideas, and that it has a broad and democratic mission is demonstrated by the fact that so many women of vigorous personality and fulfilling the highest qualities of leadership, foreign and within its walls and harmonize and co-ordinate many and varied interests. The sovereign, "University for Women," bestowed upon the club by Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke was earned by the variety of the club's activities and the co-operation of the club with community enterprises.

Clubwomen Fine and Applied Arts Exhibit at Woman's Club

On exhibition in the "Gallerie Intime" of the Atlanta Woman's club is a highly educative exhibition of sketches from the Frank Alvah Parsons New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, known to students of former years as Chase's and before that as the New York School of Art.

The exhibition is presented by the Atlanta Art association and will be open until September 15. The exhibition is being displayed throughout the south, particularly in normal schools, and is of the highest value to students and teachers of drawing, color effects, commercial designing of posters, costumes and interior decoration. Nothing of the sort has ever before been on display in Atlanta, and the exhibition is open to all interested, free of charge.

Besides Frank Alvah Parsons, the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts has the benefit of the instruction of Howard Giles, whose books on art subjects are recognized as authoritative, and who is a past master of dynamic symmetry, interpreted as the "science of the whirling square," the principles of which are based on the way seed grow in a sunflower. Greek art is generally conceded to be based on the above principle which is used at the present time in laying out carvases and in working up compositions among many teachers of art and design.

The hanging of the exhibit was supervised by Tom Delbridge, a former exhibitor in the same gallery, a native Atlantan and a young artist who has won distinction in the art student world of New York. Mrs. Delbridge will be an exhibitor of oils, water colors and pastels at the Southeastern fair, and was one of twelve students of the National Academy of Design selected from hundreds of competitors to receive the Tiffany fellowship which confers a two months' stay at the Louvre and the opportunity to study under ideal conditions and the best of instructors. The students receiving the fellowship last summer numbered nine men and three women and included painters, enamelers, etchers and sculptors.

Mr. Delbridge is essentially a colorist, and has spent much time studying color at Provincetown, under Charles Hawthorne and under the remarkable George Bellows, who has been a turning point in the art world, is the greatest technician of his time and who Mr. Delbridge claims, "paints force."

Asked to amplify his statement, Mr. Delbridge explained that each Bellows picture is a reflection and interpretation of strength, and went on to talk interestingly of canvases painted in "low keys" and in "high keys" saying his own canvases to be on exhibit at the Southeastern fair are all painted in "very high key."

Mr. Delbridge radiates the atmosphere of the New York art quarter with its visions not of earth, its yearning to paint one canvas in a life time that shall be a masterpiece, its utter indifference to physical comfort, to money, clothes, or even "cuts," and its equally utter horror of "cleanness," the worst sin a painter can sin. Asked about the cubist and the futurist painter, Mr. Delbridge said, "I believe they are bipped on one little thing, but they are pioneers and they should be observed with an open mind. They try to paint motion, life, intangible things, expression, feeling, to appeal to the intellect instead of the eye."

The Parsons school turns out fine and comprehensive results, and is ideal instruction from a commercial standpoint. To Atlanta they have sent examples of magazine illustrations, costume designing, stage, textile and poster composition, and interior decorations intended for home makers.

Executive Board Meets in Cartersville.

The October meeting of the executive board of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union of Georgia was held at the First Baptist church, October 3. Mrs. W. J. Neel, Cartersville, president of the union; Mrs. J. C. Lanier, West Point; Mrs. Hubert Massey, Jonesboro; Mrs. Ben Thompson, Madison; Mrs. W. H. Prior, Greensboro, were the out-of-town members present.

Miss Patrick, corresponding secretary, has just returned from two weeks of service in the field. She spoke of the inexpressible joy this contact with the leaders and workers over the state had brought to her heart. In the southeast division about 33 young women surrendered their lives for service anywhere—at home or on the foreign fields.

Letters were read from Miss Mary Crawford, an Atlanta girl, who recently went to China to do educational work, and from Dr. Ayers, of China. Dr. Ayers wrote of his happy anticipation of Miss Lucy Wright's arrival. Miss Wright is a nurse and goes to work to the hospital at Huang-Hien. Dr. Ayers gave in his letter a list of things much needed in the hospital at present—outfit pajamas, bed spread, operating table, capes, bandages and compresses, absorbent cotton. He also stated that the $20,000 International church erected by the Georgia Baptist women would be completed by the last of October.

Mrs. J. C. Lanier, chairman of the program committee for the annual meeting to be held at the Second Baptist church, Atlanta, November 14-15-16, announced that the local committees are well under way of appointment and will soon be given to the public. Some of the speakers promised for this meeting are Mrs. W. C. James, president of the W. M. U. of the Southern Baptist convention; Miss Annie Williams, of the Southern Sunday school board; Miss Emma Leachman, of the home board; Miss Jessie Burrill, religious director of Stephens Junior college, Columbia, Mo.; Miss Burrill, who is the teacher of that famous class of 1,600 young women in the Calvary Baptist church, Washington, D. C.

From the foreign field, Mrs. T. J. Fowler, South America; Mrs. A. Y. Napier, China, and Miss Ena Brides, of Persia, are to bring messages.

Concert Ticket Sale Will Begin Second Week Monday

The season sale of concert tickets sponsored by the Atlanta Music club will begin its second week Monday morning. This sale offers a splendid opportunity to hear ten remarkable concerts given by artists of world renown at an extremely low price, the music club desiring to make rates within reach of every music lover and at the same time offer to them only the highest and best in music. Music lovers are cordially invited to join the music club and thus identify themselves with the musical interests of the city. From present indications the concerts will be given to packed houses, and those who wish good seats for each performance are urged to lose no time in securing their tickets. The sale is taking place at the Cable Piano company.

Francis Macmillen, the famous American violinist, will be heard in the civic concert series on October 31, under the direction of the Atlanta Music club.

Macmillen, aside from five American tours, consisting in the aggregate of about four hundred concerts, has been heard in nearly every country in Europe, where he has toured and returned, always with the same great success that greeted his London debut when he was fresh from his student days and final triumph at the Brussels conservatoire.

He has played as soloist with nearly every important orchestra in Europe, and without exception in this country he has been the star attraction, not once but several times, with every great orchestral society.

The civic series will also bring Frieda Hempel in Jenny Lind concert; the St. Denis dances, headed by Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn; Olga Samoroff, noted pianist, and Mozart's opera, "Cost Fan Tutti."

The series intine will present Tandy MacKenzie, the famous Hawaiian pianist; Ernest Schelling, pianist; the Indian program of Thurlow and Edna Lieurance; the Monzaley quartet and John Powell, pianist.

The prices are as follows: Twelve dollars and fifty cents for subscribing membership, which entitles the holder to one season ticket to each series of concerts and one club membership with the morning programs; $7.50 for one season seat in the arena or first four rows of the dress circle at the civic concerts, and $5 for one season seat back of the first four rows of the dress circle or in the balcony; for the series intine, $6 for one season ticket and one club membership. For club membership alone the price is $2.

Decatur U. D. C. To Give Play.

Decatur, Ga., October 7.—Mrs. F. H. Gainer, a talented reader of negro dialect, assisted by Misses Sutphin and Pochontas Wight, pianist and violinist, respectively, and a male quartet, will present an entertainment entitled "An Evening of the Old South" next Tuesday evening at the chapter house of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, on Avery street, this city.

The entertainment will be staged under the auspices of the ladies of the First Presbyterian church, Decatur, and the proceeds will be donated to the Nacoochee Mountain school.

Election of Officers At Catholic Club.

The first meeting of the new year of the Atlanta Catholic Club of Business and Professional Women will be held on Tuesday evening, October 10, in the assembly room of the Sacred Heart church, at 6:30. The election of officers will take place and the annual reports will be read. A full attendance of the club is earnestly requested, as matters of importance will be discussed.

Y. W. C. A. to Begin Educational Classes

Registration for the Y. W. C. A. educational classes that will begin Monday evening, October 9, is open to the young women of Atlanta. Those planning to register are requested to call at the Y. W. C. A. administration office, fourth floor, Peachtree arcade, to obtain detailed information and the schedule of classes and prices. Each class will meet once a week. The Y. W. C. A. will serve class suppers from 6 to 7 o'clock at 15 cents a plate, in order that employed girls may go from their offices directly to the Y. W. C. A. without the inconvenience and loss of time caused by going to their homes or boarding houses for supper. Miss Isabelle Goss, industrial secretary, and Miss Ruth Scandrett, associate, are organizing the classes that will be taught by a group of Atlanta's leading teachers. Mrs. A. B. Colcord is Y. W. C. A. chairman of general education. The schedule follows:

Every Monday's schedule: Bible class, 5:45 to 6:30 p. m., teacher, Miss Ruth Scandrett, Agnes Scott college, A. B.; 7:15 to 8 p. m., madolin class, $2 for six lessons, instructor, Mrs. C. R. Clarke; millinery class, $1 for ten lessons, teacher, Mrs. A. T. Conway; sewing class will meet at Commercial High school once a week, the teacher to be supplied by Smith-Hughes fund, with $1 for ten lessons; public speaking, Miss Sarah Eastlack, $2 for ten lessons.

Every Thursday's schedule: From 5:45 to 6:30 p. m., current events, teacher to be secured; 7:15 to 8 p. m., millinery, $1 for ten lessons, teacher, Mrs. A. T. Conway; dramatics, $2 for ten lessons, instructor, Miss Sarah Eastlack; Bible class, Miss Goss; akutale, $2 for a six weeks' course, provided there are twelve girls in the class, Mrs. C. R. Clark.

Special Classes.

Upon the request of ten or more girls, classes in French, Spanish, English literature or other subjects will be organized. Several girls have requested such classes. The individual girl who wishes such a class should register at the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree arcade, so she may be classed with other applicants for similar work. The association for young women is operating the millinery and sewing classes with the aid of the Smith-Hughes fund. Other classes will be supported by class fees.

With the beginning of the fall term of Y. W. C. A. activities, girls who are interested in joining the Y. W. C. A. clubs are invited to communicate with Miss Goss or Miss Scandrett, whose office is on the third floor of the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree arcade, or they may call at the administration office on the fourth floor. The different girls' clubs have their own programs according to the wishes of the girls themselves. They are self-governing clubs. The club group is organized to broaden friendships, promote self-improvement and provide wholesome recreation.

Many Y. W. C. A. clubs of today have been actively organized since the association was first on Whitehall street years ago at the old Crankshaw corner and later conducted in the old Steiner-Emercy building that was on the viaduct. Friendships formed then exist today. Such clubs are possible for all girls. If girls in offices or commercial and industrial establishments wish a club, the Y. W. C. A. will organize it for them.

Club Program.

The girls in the foregoing classes will, following their substantial 10-cent supper, gather around tables in the evenings of their meetings and spend cozy hours together. Class and club nights will be filled with joy as well as educational profit to the girls themselves.

Prominent Woman Educator Will Entertain Delegates

Miss Mildred Rutherford Mell, the principal of Lucy Cobb Institute, and one of the prominent women who will entertain the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs at the convention in Athens, October 10-13. The guests included Miss Lillian McCollough, Miss Emma Frances Brotherton, Miss Inez Williamson, Miss Dorothy Matthews, Mrs. Harry Allan.

Metropolitan Club To Give Dance.

One of the most delightful affairs planned by the Metropolitan club will take place at Roseland, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, Wednesday evening, October 4, beginning at 9 o'clock. There will be a dance contest and many favors for the guests. Former visitors cordially invited.

Mrs. Felton to Speak at Women Voters Luncheon

Mrs. W. H. Felton, recently appointed by Governor Hardwick to fill the unexpired term of Thomas E. Watson until the regular November election as senator, will be the noted speaker at the league luncheon Tuesday, October 10, at 12:30 o'clock at the Ansley hotel. Mrs. John T. Moody, co-chairman of the eighth ward will act as hostess on this occasion. Reservations for the luncheon may be made through the chairman of the speakers' bureau, Mrs. Sanford Gay, Hemlock 3376. Plates will cost 75 cents each. All league members and friends are urged to come.

Chairmen to Meet.

There will be a meeting of the ward chairmen of the Atlanta League of Women Voters at 10:30 o'clock at room 201 Wesley Memorial building next Tuesday, October 10, for the purpose of perfecting plans concerning the work of the various committees. New ideas and suggestions made by members of the league will be immediately put into active operation and it is felt that this will give great stimulus to the work of the league.

On Thursday, October 12, there will be an all-day benefit bridge party at the home of Mrs. J. H. Gibbs, 411 Euclid avenue, for the purpose of raising money for the league. Tables may be reserved for the morning, from 10 to 1 o'clock, or for the afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, and may be had for two dollars a table or 50 cents per person. Those desiring to stay for luncheon will be served a delicious plate for 25 cents. Please make reservations promptly.

The league announces with pleasure the improved health of the president, Miss Eleanor Raoul. Miss Raoul will be unable, however, to resume active work for some time. Meantime, all members are co-operating to carry on Miss Raoul's policies to a successful conclusion. The membership is constantly increasing, many new faces appearing at the different meetings, and at present an active drive is on for renewals from those who have failed to pay their 1922 dues. The first of the year 1923 will see the launching of the league's citizenship drive. This will include a citizenship week, to be announced later.

Citizenship Week.

During citizenship week an active campaign will be made to the end that every voting citizen of Atlanta—both male and female—is registered to vote in the 1923 elections. The league feels that the will of the majority should rule in Atlanta and that this is not the case under existing conditions.

The monthly meeting of the league will take place October 27 in the tenth ward, definite plans to be announced later. Mrs. Claud A. McGinnis will be the official hostess of the occasion. These monthly meetings of the league members have been the means of bringing the women together in a social way and have added materially in building up the membership.

Prize Awarded by Music Federation.

A prize of $400 has been awarded to Robert Francis Allen by the National Federation of Music Clubs for the libretto of the lyric drama, "Pan in America." This libretto has now been published and may be had by applying to the Division of American Composers, Mrs. Edwin Garriques, chairman, 201 Bellevue Stratford hotel, Philadelphia.

The libretto is in poetic form, the history of music in America. It is an ideal text and should find a composer who can give it worthy musical setting. The national federation offers a prize of $800 for the best music for this work, the contest closing December 15, 1922.

Other large prizes offered include a one-act opera, a cantata for women's voices, a trio for instruments, and others.

MRS. LELLA A. DILLARD, President, Emory University, Ga.
 Mrs. Marvin Williams, vice president, 431 Greene street, Augusta; Mrs. Mary Harris, 111 D., state field secretary, Cawfordville; Mrs. Julius Harris, corresponding secretary, Oxford; Mrs. August Burghard, recording secretary, 431 Johnson avenue, Macon, Ga.; Miss Louisa Glass, assistant recording secretary, 103 Academy street, Macon; Mrs. D. S. Aycock, treasurer, Monroe.

W. C. T. U. Ends Most Prosperous Year

Mrs. August Burghard, Macon, state director of publicity, Georgia W. C. T. U.
 The 1921-22 year of the Georgia Woman's Christian Temperance union ended October 1, and now all state officers, state superintendents of departments and district and county presidents are busy compiling their annual reports and sending them to the state recording secretary, Mrs. August Burghard, of Macon. Those already received show splendid gains along all lines. This has been the most active of the entire thirty-nine years of the organization.
 The reports of local unions should be sent to the state corresponding secretary, Mrs. Julius Harris, of Oxford, to be compiled for publication in the annual report and convention minutes.
 The standing committees are: Resolutions—Mrs. A. M. Hughtlett, corner 324 and East Henry streets, Savannah; Mrs. W. N. Bailey, Winder; Mrs. Marvin M. Parks, Milledgeville; Mrs. Louis Wade, Quitman. Those having resolutions which they wish adopted at the state convention should send a copy to this committee at an early date.

 Appropriations—Mrs. W. G. Cotton, Columbus; Mrs. W. C. Horton, Winder; Mrs. George M. Hill, Sylva; Mrs. A. W. McLarty, Douglasville; Mrs. Josephine Hammond Aycock, Monroe (advisory).
 Transportation—Mrs. R. B. Renitz, Macon; Mrs. K. L. Roever, Atlanta; Mrs. H. L. Watson, Columbus.

Every president of a W. C. T. U. in the state is urged to see that copy for advertisements secured by her union for the state report is mailed to Mrs. Burghard by the state convention, which meets in Douglasville October 17-20. The state report makes an admirable medium for advertisers as it goes to every section of the state, city, town and county. Then the rates are so reasonable, only $30 for a full page, for half a page $25.00 for one-fourth page. Any cuts will be returned as soon as used. Friends of the W. C. T. U. may help by sending advertising.

October is a favorite month for State W. C. T. U. conventions, twenty-nine meetings during the month. Those of North Carolina, California, Connecticut, Colorado, Massachusetts, Alabama, Illinois, Ohio, South Dakota and South Carolina meeting at the same time as Georgia.

Pageant of Cairo W. C. T. U.
 The Cairo W. C. T. U. is one of the best in the state, with Mrs. F. T. Brown, capable and consecrated as president, eighteen efficient department superintendents and an active membership of 140.

Sunday evening the Methodist church was crowded to witness a public visualization of the work of eighteen departments in the form of a pageant with appropriate music and histrionic aids.

The evangelistic superintendent was first in line, as her department is first in importance. She gave the Bible lesson. Then came Sabbath observance with her committee of five, each making a pertinent comment on the fourth commandment. Temperance and missions, carrying a globe and with white ribbon, members of her committee dressed to represent a foreign country. They sang:

"All around the world the ribbon white it twined;
 All around the world the glorious light has shined;
 All around the world our cause has right of way!
 We'll raise the anthem, swell the victory some good day."

Social morality threw her protecting arms about a group of children bearing letters which spelled "Keep Thyself Pure." Sunday school and a large class of young people answered questions about temperance with "Thus saith the Lord" from the Scriptures.

Prison Reform with her committee, carrying fruit, flowers, books and Bible, met a prisoner in stripes at the front, gave him of the material things and made him a splendid talk, after which two men, one wearing a badge with reclaimed, and the other with reformed, came, and sang a song composed for the occasion.

Literature carried an umbrella covered in temperance literature with a placard, "It will keep us dry." Press with a dress of temperance articles bore a conspicuous quotation from Frances Willard on the power of the press. Scientific temperance instruction used a playlet designed for temperance day in public schools. Flower mission and relief presented a flower mission exercise. A most attractive feature was the Legion of Temperance, with their original songs and rally cries. Medal contests made a hit with a reading, "A Thief's Warning." "Proportionate and Systematic Giving" came with her scripture and illustrations and four collectors, one wearing a badge, "Will a Man Rob God?" another, "The Lord Loveth the cheerful giver," another "Bring in All the Tithes." Legislation with a book of Law and Christian citizenship with a consecrated ballot made good talks.

Mrs. P. H. Jeter, president of Agnes Lee chapter, U. D. C. of Decatur, which will act as official hostess to the forthcoming Georgia state convention which will meet October 24, 25, 26. A series of interesting entertainments will be planned for the convention. The chapter was formed on January 5, 1901, when a group of Decatur, Ga., women met at the home of the late Mrs. Milton Candler, Sr., and organized the Agnes Lee chapter, U. D. C. A leading spirit of that occasion was the late Mrs. Clement A. Evans, wife of the illustrious Confederate general. Mrs. Evans, although at that time residing in Atlanta, was of an old Decatur family, the street on which the Agnes Lee chapter house now stands having been named for her father, Dr. James C. Avery. Associated with her as charter members were Mrs. Julia Avery Sams, Mrs. Rebecca S. Green, Mrs. Milton A. Candler, Sr., Mrs. H. H. Burgess, Mrs. W. M. Ragdale, Mrs. E. H. Gues, Mrs. H. I. Jones, Mrs. W. I. Houston, Mrs. C. W. Hubner and Mrs. E. S. Lathrop. Among Mrs. Evans' cherished friendships was one with General Robert E. Lee's youngest daughter, Agnes; and for her the chapter was named. The first president was Mrs. Rebecca S. Green.

The medical temperance superintendent gave an impressive poem which she composed as children displayed large pasteboard bottles, telling the harm alcohol will do to the body. Anti-Narcotics was most forceful in a dialogue, "Who's the Rebel?" Social meetings and Red Letter days were very pleasing, as was The Agent for The Union Signal.

"The World is Going Dry," was sung by the ensemble at the finale. "Caric still rings with praises for the attractive portrayal."

Barnesville W. C. T. U. Reports Progress.

The lovely home of Mrs. W. S. Jones and Miss Annie Laurie Jones was opened to the Barnesville W. C. T. U. Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. C. H. Morris presided the scripture lesson was given by Mrs. Laura Maxwell. Miss Edna Morris read "My Little Job." Miss Grace Neely and Miss Morris sang. Mrs. G. Heorne gave a fine reading. Committees were appointed for the W. C. T. U. float at the Lamson's country fair and to prepare for the Armistice day celebration.

Mrs. W. P. Miller, Mrs. O. W. Holland and Miss Annie Laurie Jones were elected delegates to the state convention in Douglasville. Reports of the year's work showed a doubling of many departmental efforts. Resolutions of thanks included twenty-five columns of space given by the News-Gazette, and Mrs. Morris for her untiring efforts and excellent leadership.

Mrs. C. H. Morris was re-elected president. Mrs. W. P. Miller, secretary, and Miss A. A. Jones, treasurer.

Refreshments were served during the social hour, with which the meeting closed.

Sandersville's Activities.

Mrs. W. A. Bell was hostess to the Sandersville W. C. T. U. Thursday afternoon. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. A. R. Wright; vice-president, Mrs. W. R. Lang; recording secretary, Mrs. F. A. English; observation, Mrs. J. B. Wall; Sunday schools, Mrs. N. L. Tatum; flower mission, Mrs. W. H. Smith; social morality, Mrs. Hattie Rogers; Sabbath observance, Mrs. J. B. Wall; welfare, Mrs. W. R. Lang; child welfare, Mrs. D. D. Davis, The Union Signal.

Mrs. Beatie Alred was appointed general chairman of arrangements for the exhibit and rest room, and booth for sale of refreshments at the fair of Washington county.

A Young Matron's W. C. T. U. was formed at the home of Miss Jennie Adams' home in Sandersville, with the following officers: President, Mrs. J. A. Bradley; vice-president, Miss Sadie Tarbutton; recording secretary, Mrs. Lucine Little; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Boy Dukes, Mrs. Myrd Lorey. The Washington county president welcomed the new organization. Mrs. Livergood, of Spokane, Washington told of white ribbon activities there. After an interesting program refreshments were served by the hostess, and Mrs. C. B. Cooley and R. L. Smith.

W. C. T. U. at Pike County's Centennial.

The Zebulon W. C. T. U. led by Mrs. G. B. Ridley had a prominent part in the celebration of Pike county's one-hundredth birthday during the fair.

Besides a fine exhibit in a white bow, decked booth, there was a beautiful float in the pageant—the world encircled by the white ribbon with Law Enforcement in place. The rear and scientific temperance instruction in front. Young women in Grecian costumes held floating white ribbons, and distributed leaflets. Mrs. Florence Ewell Atkins, national secretary, was present. The float was decorated with a profusion of dahlias, carnations and fragrant flowers. The hostess' garden, which blended effectively in color scheme.

Mrs. Comer Parsons made top score and Mrs. G. W. Farrier cut consolation prize.

Those enjoying the game were Mrs. E. J. Griggs, Mrs. Comer Parsons, Mrs. R. C. Park, Mrs. C. B. Smith, Mrs. G. W. Farrier, Mrs. J. A. Danbury, Mrs. C. C. Crumley, Mrs.

Miss Stephens Pens Letter To District Music Clubs

Worthwhile Things In North Carolina

Miss Nan B. Stephens, president of the Music Clubs of the South Atlantic district, which includes Georgia, North and South Carolina and Florida, issues the following message to the club members:

Dear Club Members: Vacation is over and the clubs are beginning their activities once more with the new energy and inspirations that come from a long rest.

The coming season is the most important in our federation's history. The fact that we have one of the youngest districts—though one of the best—are to have as our guests the greatest musicians and the most noted aggregation of workers for music that exists, the need of this district to prepare to entertain these distinguished people as befits their station and the south's reputation, will necessitate our concentrated efforts and unaltered strength. Let us prepare now that we may be equal to the task next June when the biennial convention assembles in Asheville. Let our slogan be "Onward to Asheville."

The South Atlantic district has grown tremendously in the last year. Today we have one hundred and forty-three clubs with a total membership of more than seven thousand. How many of this membership plans to attend the biennial? Are you selecting your delegates with a view to sending the most representative woman or do you think just anyone who happens to want the trip will best serve your club's interests? Too much importance cannot be placed on this point. Remember your delegates represent you! Choose them carefully! They will bring home to you the wonderful things that will appear at the biennial.

The biennial will be the south's greatest opportunity to prove what he is musically. The American artist and the American composer will find here their reward. This is an American music festival. It is designed to show how far the progress in making America the greatest musical nation. Large prizes have been offered for almost every type of compositions. The prize compositions will be performed by noted artists at the biennial. Prizes are offered to young professional artists who are ready to be launched in a career. Perhaps some one in your own club can enter the contest—read the rules carefully and do all you can to spread the interest in these generous offers of aid to our fine young talent. Even the students and the children of the Junior clubs are offered the privileges of holding contests to see which students and which children are the best in the state and the district.

Is your club planning an artist series? If so are you giving place on the list to our splendid American artists? I do not mean to the exclusion of the foreign artist. We owe a great debt to the artists from overseas and we welcome them always, but we also owe recognition to our own artists. In the two concert series offered by the Atlanta Music club three out of the five attractions offered in the civic series and three out of five of the series intine are given by American artists. This is a fair balance and gives space for the foreign born artist. Are you planning programs of American composers? A really prominent feature should be made of these programs and equal importance given to them and to the foreign compositions. Let us judge by the merit of a composition, not by the name attached to it.

Do you read the official Bulletin of the National Federation of Music Clubs? Do you find help through the various departments for your programs, your educational features, your pageants, etc? Don't fail to read the Bulletin, which is issued monthly and is sent free to the federated clubs. There is always a constructive, helpful letter from our beloved, wide-visited national president, Mrs. John F. Lyons. This letter should be read aloud at your club meetings.

Do you have one program during the year devoted to the compositions of composers from your state? Have you a state song? Why not inaugurate a contest for a good state song if you haven't one now? Have you sent in your year book with your season's programs of last year to the chairman of program exchange, Mrs. H. H. Foster, 2122 Broadway, New York, Ark? If you need assistance with your programs Mrs. Foster stands ready to help you by sending you suitable programs arranged by other clubs.

Have you a music club in your city, or nearby, which is not yet federated? Won't you pledge yourself to form or federate one new senior music club and one junior music club this winter? Think what help you would give to the extension department. We want 100 clubs from each state in the South Atlantic district before the biennial. Will you help?

The South Atlantic district is at work on a directory which will be a complete survey of all musical assets in the district. Every music teacher of note will be listed in the directory. Every artist worthy of endorsement by the federation will have an opportunity to become known through the directory pages. Every school, college and conservatory of music will be represented. It will be the first district directory ever issued in the federation and we shall have just cause to be proud of the south in music when it is completed.

Miss Evelyn Jackson, district chairman of Junior clubs, is ready to issue pamphlets giving all directions for the Junior clubs. Miss Jackson's address is 112 West Fifth street, Atlanta. Get in touch with her and find out how easy and how delightful it is to organize a club for the children of your community.

When your season's work is planned won't you send in a report in me so that the credit due you may be given in the district's publicity? We want to know what you are doing in your club.

It is with much pleasure that we announce the receipt of a letter of congratulation from our national treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Stapleton, who states there are no delinquents.

Asheville, N. C., October 7.—A visitor in North Carolina needs no more than twenty-four hours in this beautiful state—certainly the western section of it—before he is impressed, if he keeps his eyes and ears open, by three significant things. One is the apparent prosperity of the state. A second is the pride the people take in the worth while things. The third is the civic activity of the women.

The second should have been placed first, because it is more important, and is largely the cause of the first. For, observe the expression was not the "prosperity of the state." Whether or not there are great individual fortunes, does not appear on the surface, but it is easy to see that the people are growing in appreciation of the country's resources; that they are capitalizing their marvelous climate, for instance, and developing and exploiting it so that it will surely not be long before Yellowstone Park and the Berkshire Hills as touring countries will scarcely be better known than the forest park at Mount Pisgah or the long massive Mount Mitchell, 6,711 feet high.

The Constitution carried a letter a few days ago from Thomas W. Alexander of the U. S. forest service, telling how the brief publicity given the Cherokee reservation in north Georgia this year had opened up that wonderful country to the knowledge and the curiosity of Georgia people.

Wonderful Roads. North Carolina has been at it longer, and then she has the tremendous advantage of a great system of perfect roads, many already completed. Because the roads are so good, the North Carolina "season" does not end with early September, as Mr. Alexander said the Georgia tourist season must, until her roads are built.

During this first week in October mountain travel to Mount Mitchell, for instance, is still active, because the seventeen miles from Asheville is over good roads, which will be better next year, for the road is to be closed October 15 for the building of a concrete road to be completed by next April. North Carolina, in conjunction with the federal government, is going to make the most of this resource, a marvelous country, every foot of the way. Even the forest fires last summer, which so badly scared the face of the mountains, have left scarcely less beautiful. The low underbrush now turning red with autumn, completes a color scheme against a sky that ranges from sapphire above to turquoise, near the horizon, and then with all the tints of foliage on clubs in the South Atlantic district. She further states that Georgia is the banner state, with the largest number of clubs.

What are you doing for orchestral music in your community? Are you interested in the district orchestra president as originated by your district president? We shall have to hurry our plans as other districts are interested in forming an orchestra along the lines suggested and we must not let the honor of the first district orchestra go from us. What will you do to help?

What about the music in your schools? Is your club cooperating with the music supervisor? Do you see that the children of the orphanages and the other public institutions are given an occasional concert? A Junior music club there would give them untold pleasure and benefit. Are there talented children in these homes? Would some of your generous teachers give scholarships to exceptional talent found here?

Boy bands find eager support from the boys who may thus indulge their love for music without seeming unmanly. Give them music now and you will have eliminated trouble for your successors with school boards and city fathers.

Let us work together for the entire success of the biennial, for the best club year we have ever known, for the definite duty that is ours toward making America the music center of the world.

With all good wishes for your happiness and achievement.

Mrs. Messer A Texas Pioneer Farmer's Wife Made Rich by Oil

IN BARTLETT, TEXAS, I was told that the Messers—Mr. and Mrs. John D. Messer and their four children—had become, in recent years, among the most prosperous residents of Bell County, where land that settlers bought at $1 an acre has been resold at $200 on account of oil exploitation. Remembering a visit to Mrs. Messer several years ago when I found her hard at work in her little farm house, I arranged to renew her acquaintance, and called at her attractive city residence.

On my previous visit, Mrs. Messer had given me a statement, for publication, about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I found her enjoying good health and still enthusiastic about Cardui. Her experiences as a Texas pioneer farmer's wife, which she modestly described in the course of our desultory conversation, were very interesting to me, and I obtained her permission to jot down briefly her story for others to read.

"My father's name was Hunt," she said, "a native of North Carolina. He was a farmer, a quiet, good fellow. My mother came from France and her people lived in New Orleans. She was a teacher—spoke French, German and English. She fell in love with my father, who was a typical North Carolinian—handsome, broad-shouldered, six feet high. My father got crippled and lost all his money, so migrated to Texas, stopping near this town (Bartlett), and with what he had left he bought some sheep and stock. We were living here when the Civil war came on, and as my father was crippled, he was made a home guard. There were women and children around here who would have suffered, but he killed stock and gave them meat and helped them to live through the hard times.

"Girls raised in city homes can hardly know what hardships used to mean. I remember the wide, lonely prairie—neighbors fifteen and twenty miles away. Many times have I heard wolves, coyotes and wild cats scream, and I've seen wolves in packs of fifteen and twenty. When my brother would go out on the prairie to shoot wild ducks and geese, the wolves would smell the blood and follow. He would snap the gun caps to frighten them, as he couldn't afford to waste good ammunition, and often these wolves would follow him home.

"My mother taught me, in our home, and later there was a school about ten miles away in an old rock church, but my schooling was mostly at home.

"When Mr. Messer and I were married, we thought we were rich. We had a mule and $20 with which to furnish our home. My! but that $20 looked big to us then—just to think, twenty whole dollars to invest in furniture! Our first home was a box house; no windows, just a door which we had to reach out to pull to and bolt to keep it fastened.

"Land then sold for 50 cents and $1 an acre. Bartlett was only a store, a blacksmith shop and a postoffice. No trains nearer than Fort Worth and Dallas—and that reminds me: I was married twenty-four years before I rode on a train.

"We were able, after working and saving, to buy a hundred acres of black Texas land at 50 cents an acre. Owning our own farm—life seemed really worth living! When we took a trip, after our first children came, a queen could not have been happier than when I put straw in the wagon, and a quilt on that, and put the children on it, and climbed up on the spring-seat and John Messer drove that mule. No, I don't even get such a thrill now, when I twist the steering wheel of my Packard, as I did when John Messer lifted the lines over the back of that old black mule! Then, for me, that was life!

"We accumulated until now we have our country home and this place in town and are able to retire. I don't think Mr. Messer will ever be able to quit work and be satisfied, but I surely do enjoy the ease I feel I deserve. Some time ago the oil craze came here, and as we had so much land they came to lease, also to see if there was oil on it. I take trips now to Marlin, a delightful resort, and visit my neighbors and friends, leaving the housekeeper in charge at home."

What Mrs. Messer Says:

Cardui certainly has been my stand-by for many years, and the very best medicine I have ever found. I used Cardui for painful . . . and bearing-down pains in my back and sides. I used to have very bad spells. I used it for weakness and nervousness before childbirth, and found it very beneficial . . . Women suffer more from exposure on the farm and are more apt to get their feet wet, and Cardui used to help me wonderfully at such times.

MARGARET MESSER.

Celebration of Armistice Day

We are publishing today a urgent appeal from Mrs. Corine W. Gilbert, state chairman of armistice day, in which she asks every chapter in the state to properly celebrate this day. Armistice day is one of the nation's greatest days and needs no additional proper to stress the importance of its proper celebration by every loyal Daughter of the American Revolution.

A call for celebration of armistice day.

"Perry, Ga., September 25, 1922.—On November 11 we will celebrate the fourth anniversary of armistice day—a day of superlative significance to the world. Not since the birth of Christ has there been born a day so fraught with blessings and peace to mankind as the armistice of 1918. It did not signify a truce, but an agreement sealed with the blood of countless sons of many nations, to the ending of the world war, the greatest conflict of all history, upon terms making for an enduring peace.

"Never since the morning stars sang together, has there been such rejoicing as on that historic day, and it should be our pleasure to revive at each anniversary, the memories of the joy and enthusiasm which electrified the world when hostilities ceased, and peace was once more proclaimed to a war-torn world, restoring those who fought and lived to their homes and firesides. It should be our sacred duty and privilege to honor the grand patron, William Bradley Clarke, to Miss Elizabeth Frances Epling, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Monroe J. Epling, of Savannah. The wedding ceremony will take place in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Savannah, on the evening of October 18.

"Armistice day, in contrast to other public holidays in the United States, which are typically national, is destined to become a great international holiday consecrated to the principles of peace, justice and good will among all the nations of the earth.

"Let every chapter in Georgia do her full part towards perpetuating this day, and make each observance glow with the fervor of her loyalty and gratitude to those living or dead heroes whose valor inaugurated the day.

"May I ask that you have your chapter fittingly observe the fourth armistice day, November 11, either individually or in connection with other organizations in your community, and that you will kindly furnish me a report of the day's observance, to enable me to make a report worthy of the cause, at the annual D. A. R. conference.

"The poppy would be a fitting flower for decorating purposes for this occasion, and as the natural flower will be impracticable at that season of the year, the National society recommends the artificial.

"Yours sincerely,
 (Mrs. C. E.) Corine W. Gilbert,
 "State Chairman Armistice Day."

Chapter Reports

Eastman, Ga.

The first fall meeting of the Colonial William Few chapter was held on Thursday afternoon, September 14, at the home of the regent, Mrs. W. B. Daniel, who was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. J. H. Miller, Mrs. J. Anderson, Mrs. Leroy Pharr, and Mrs. H. M. O'Callaghan. "Lafayette Day" was fittingly celebrated at this meeting also.

A large and enthusiastic crowd was present, and it was with much interest that the members learned that our regent, Mrs. Daniel, had been appointed state chairman of the Georgia Day in Washington memorial at Valley Forge.

Mrs. Daniel, who visited this historical spot in the spring, and saw for herself how Georgia had fallen behind the other states, made a special plea for a nice contribution for this fund from the chapter. The chapter voted to contribute $50. After appointing the committees for the year, and disposing of other business, a delightful program was rendered. Mrs. LeSene Bush gave an interesting talk on Lafayette after which the Marching Song was sung by the audience. Mrs. O. A. Gentry gave a talk on our Constitution. Miss Claire Sneed sang a beautiful solo.

During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

D. A. R. Honor Lafayette.

Governor Edward Telfair chapter, D. A. R., held the initial meeting of the year, 1922-23, on Wednesday, September 13, with Miss Bennie Thompson, at her home on Bethel street.

After the transaction of business matters, the entertainment committee presented the following delightful program, jointly observing Lafayette and Constitution days.

PART I.

Song, "America," by chapter.
 The constitution, Mrs. C. E. Bethel.

PART II.

"Lafayette Day," Mrs. G. Glyn Jones.
 "Sketch of Lafayette's Life," Mrs. Julia D. Yates.

Violin solo, "Melody in F," Miss Jennie Torbert. Mrs. James Cobb, accompanist.

"Lafayette Volunteers Service to the U. S.," Mrs. W. L. Jenkins.

Reading, Mrs. J. S. Howell.
 "Lafayette Visits the U. S. in Later Years," Mrs. W. T. Allen.

"Marching Song," by chapter.

Fort Early.

The September meeting of Fort Early chapter, Cordele, was in celebration of Lafayette birthday, the meeting being held in the beautiful home of Mrs. J. J. Williams, the hostesses for this occasion being Mesdames Williams, T. E. Fletcher, C. D. Terrell and J. E. Stewart.

It was with much pleasure and enthusiasm that the chapter greeted its new regent, Mrs. Russell R. Harris, who was elected at the June meeting. Mrs. Harris, who is a charter member of Fort Early, has served in many important offices, and as chairman of various committees, and at all times has proved her splendid ability and her love for the work of our beloved organization. Although this was the first meeting at which Mrs. Harris presided, she has worked faithfully during the summer to raise funds that the chapter might respond promptly this fall to the work urged by our state regent. Her success was very evident when the chapter voted to send at once its full quota for the Georgia room to our state treasurer. The chapter has also purchased a $100 share in Cordele's new hotel soon to be erected. Thus Fort Early chapter has begun its activities under Mrs. Harris' leadership with evidence of the large and beautiful work which will undoubtedly characterize her administration.

It was with much pleasure that Fort Early chapter welcomed into its organization the membership of the Cordele chapter which was recently organized, but which had accepted a pressing invitation to unite with the older chapter. With these two chapters united, both being composed of many excellent, efficient women, a greater and broader work will be accomplished.

Beautiful year books were distributed at this meeting, and the course of study for the winter being the south's part in the progress of our country.

NOTICE.

Mrs. John D. Pope, our efficient state editor, is again at her home in Albany. The assistant editor takes this method to thank the Daughters for their co-operation during the absence of Mrs. Pope and asks that all material be sent direct to the editor in Albany in the future.

 MR. WM. CLARKE, Grand Patron, Savannah, Ga.
 MRS. CARRIE T. MAXWELL, Director of Publicity.

Epling-Clarke Wedding

The writer is sure that the members of the Order of the Eastern Star will be interested to learn of the approaching marriage of the grand patron, William Bradley Clarke, to Miss Elizabeth Frances Epling, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Monroe J. Epling, of Savannah. The wedding ceremony will take place in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Savannah, on the evening of October 18.

General Grand Chapter.

Another matter of much interest to the O. E. S. is the seventeenth triennial assembly of general grand chapter in Washington, D. C., November 12.

The grand matron has requested that through our column the writer give a few facts regarding transportation and reservations for the benefit of those who wish to make the trip.

The Central of Georgia and Seaboard Air Line railway have been selected as the official route for the delegates.

A special invitation has been issued to the grand chapters of Mexico, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida to concentrate in Atlanta and proceed to Washington with the Georgia delegation on the special train, which has been scheduled to leave Atlanta at 11:30 a. m., November 12, and arrive in Washington at 10 a. m., November 13.

The special fare from Atlanta to Washington and return will be $34.40, while the Pullman rates are, lower berth $7.50; upper berth $8; drawing room $27.

R. E. Camp, T. P. A., of the Seaboard, urges that reservations be made as early as possible as all reservations will be made in the order in which they are received from the program held in his office at 502 Citizens and Southern bank building.

It is the earnest desire of the grand matron that a large delegation from Georgia go.

Mrs. Mattie Colquitt, grand secretary, requests that she be notified just as soon as possible who is going, so ample space can be reserved and also that the members going can be furnished with proper credentials entitling them to the reduced rates.

Near East Relief.

A request also comes from the grand matron and grand secretary that Mrs. Mattie Colquitt be advised just what has been done by the individual chapters in regard to the Near East relief work. Quite a few chapters have furnished this information to the grand secretary, but from those who have not as yet she wishes to be informed if any member of any chapter has contributed to the worthy cause during the past year.

General grand chapter has asked for this report and same cannot be made unless the data is forthcoming at once.

Miss Nora Findley's Wedding.

Another wedding of interest to the O. E. S. of Georgia was that of Miss Nora Findley, worthy matron of the chapter at Norcross, Ga., to Rev. Charles Clayton, of Memphis, Tenn.

The marriage was solemnized in the Methodist church at Norcross, Ga., on Saturday, September 30.

Mrs. Rowena C. Ward, G. M., was of Maine, and Past Matron Mrs. Ada Palmer, formerly of California.

Mrs. Blair and Mrs. Elizabeth Armistead, of Atlanta, were each presented by Marietta chapter with a box of candy, in appreciation of the work that they had done for the chapter.

Mrs. Ward, G. M., was presented with a cut-glass perfume holder with silver top, in token of the high esteem in which she is held.

Mrs. Edgar Hamby, worthy matron, who is also grand marshal, and J. F. Williamson, worthy patron of the local chapter, were presented with gifts by Miss Ruth Milan.

Delicious refreshments were served after the close of the meeting.

School of Instruction Marietta, Ga., District.

On Wednesday, October 11, Mrs. Rowena C. Ward, G. M., will hold a school of instruction for the chapters of the Marietta district. Marietta chapter, No. 208 will be the hostess chapter.

All qualified members of the order are cordially invited to attend. Box lunches will be served. The meeting is called for 10 a. m. The chapters donating table cloths and napkins.

for the linen shower for the Masonic Orphan's home in Macon are expected to bring same to the "school," and the anticipations are that the supply that will be furnished will add materially to the needs of the home in the way of linens.

Other Items.

Mrs. Sallie McElroy, district deputy of the Conyers district, has furnished me with the itinerary of the grand matron's official visits in her district, which, however, are subject to change to suit Mrs. Ward's convenience:

Norcross chapter, No. 137, October 13, (afternoon).

Lawrenceville chapter, No. 203, October 14, (evening).

Grayson chapter, No. 209, October 16, (evening).

Logansville chapter, No. 210, October 17, (afternoon).

Rockdale chapter, No. 206, October 17, (night).

Conyers (Gleaner chapter, No. 71), October 18, (night).

Mrs. Rowena C. Ward, G. M., spent the week-end with Mrs. Sallie McElroy in Norcross.

Alpharetta Chapter.
 On Tuesday evening, October 3, the work of Alpharetta, Ga., chapter, was inspected by the grand matron and the reports received are to the effect that a most enjoyable meeting took place.

Roswell, Ga., Chapter, No. 228, O. E. S.

Roswell chapter will receive its official visit on Monday evening, October 9. This is one of the chapters constituted by the associate grand conductress, Mrs. Julia Turner, and she, as well as some of the other grand officers are expected to be present on this occasion.

Sent items of interest to Mrs. Carrie T. Maxwell, 195 South Gordon street, Atlanta, Ga., phone Walnut 0157.

This Letter Will Tell You How

Cumberland, Md.—"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school, because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound again. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine. I always have an easy time at childbirth and what it did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she wishes to write asking what it did for me."—Mrs. JOHN HEIER, 53 Dilley St., Cumberland, Md.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

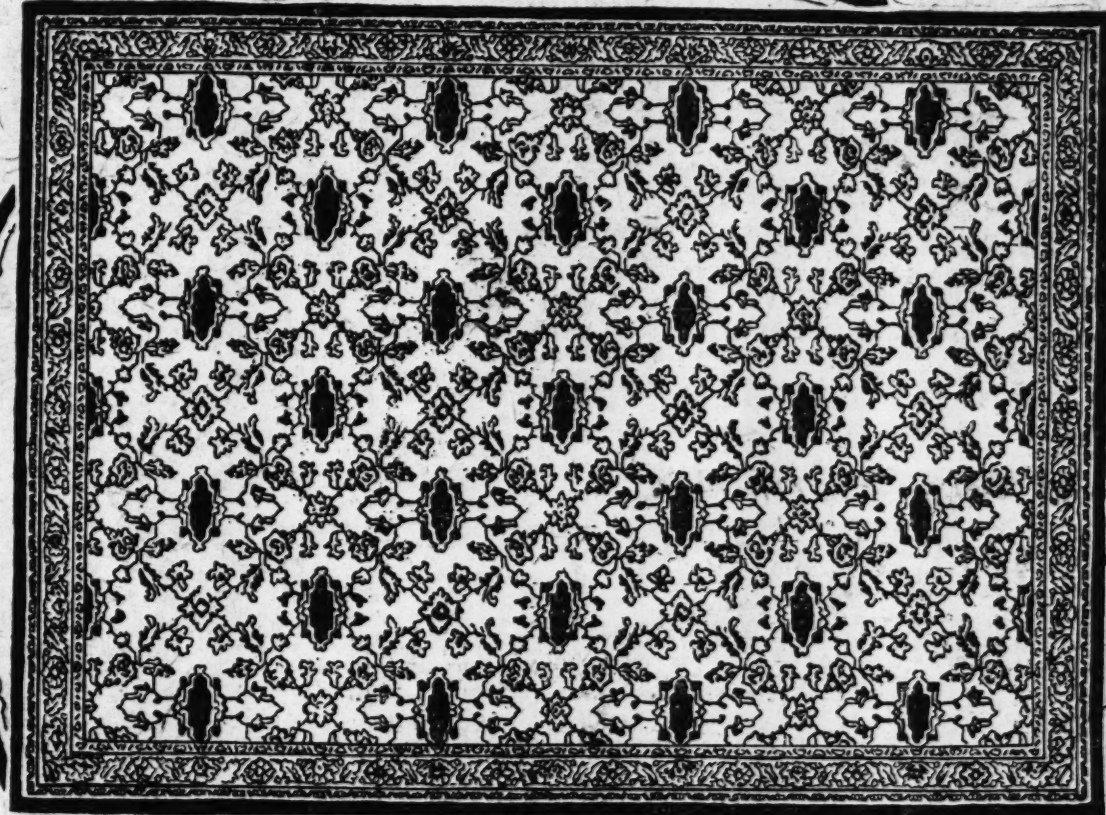

Mrs. Heier has a large family, and works very hard for them. But any woman is willing to work hard and to work long hours if her health is good and she is able to get the results she is working for. As she says, what the Vegetable Compound did for her it will do for other women, and every one should appreciate her offer to answer letters asking about the Vegetable Compound.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood may depend on your health. So try
